Tanker's Crew Brought Ashore

28 Survivors Home For Christmas

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Twenty-eight survivors from the storm-wrecked tanker Pine Ridge reached shore and happily headed for Christmas at home Friday, but with some bitter parting comments about the vessel's seaworthiness.

Robert Gill, of Monterrey, Mexico, said the tanker broke up without warning in weather that normally would be no threat to a ship of her size.

Gill asserted that, on her last previous voyage, the Pine Ridge's hull was split on the port side, beside her No. 7 tank. Gill said the split was patched with concrete for the trip which ended two days ago in a breakup off Cape Hatteras.

However, Gill said the final break was between the No. 5 and 6 tanks.

Two other members of the crew, James C. Lewis of Winston-Salem, N.C., and I. H. Hulsey, of Corpus Christi, Tex., applied such terms as "rust bucket" and "unseaworthy" to the tanker.

Nevertheless, all the surviving crew members voiced their thankfulness at being able to spend Christmas with loved ones—and to be alive.

Bought By Destroyer

They were brought in to the Norfolk Naval Base by the destroyer Conway just slightly more than two days after violent sea broke their ship apart and sank half of it in a few harrowing minutes.

Some were annoyed, however, at being summoned to return Wednesday for an inquiry concerning the tanker's misfortune.

First things were put first on arrival for the men who weathered the disaster that apparently took the lives of their skipper and six other shipmates in the angry Atlantic 100 miles east of Cape Hatteras.

A paymaster for the owners went aboard and paid them up to date before they met with newsmen.

The men showed few signs of their ordeal but all reflected the thanks that they had been snug in the stern section of the Pine Ridge when mountainous seas tore her bow away.

Remained Aboard

The other known survivor among the 36-member ship's company of the Pine Ridge, Chief Engineer John Richart of Wilmington, Del., remained aboard the stern section, which was being readied for tow by tugs for the painstakingly slow trip to Norfolk. Richart was joined by four salvage men from the tug Curb.

The buoyant spirits of the landed survivors was checked when they recalled the gripping moment of the breakaway of their ship's bow Wednesday.

Chester Reed, an oiler from Corpus Christi, Tex., said: "I was laying down in my bunk when everything started falling around me. I ran topside and saw it split. I was scared but I figured I was going to be safe. I was praying and hoping."

I. H. Hulsey, also of Corpus Christi, said the bow broke off with a loud "pop" rather than tearing away gradually.

None of them reported seeing what happened to the other crewmen aboard the forward part of the ship, although some of these were spotted in the water by a Coast Guard aircraft.

Western-Style Democracy Not Right In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Premier Prince Boun Oum says Western-style parliamentary democracy won't work in Laos and that its modern constitution is the cause of the kingdom's misery.

"Laotians are already democrats, Communists and Socialists in their traditional way of life," the prince told reporters Thursday.

"What Laotians now want is to be commanded and to know that their leaders have a sense of proportion in good measure so that they will be able to live in peace and practice Buddhism."

King Savang Vathana, who remains in the royal capital of Luang Prabang, has named the prince as provisional premier. The prince said he does not know now what steps will be taken to make the government permanent and to revise the constitution.

He said he had received word from ex-Premier Souvanna Phouma that Souvanna is ready to do anything his country wishes of him. The king dissolved Souvann's government after the premier fled to neighboring Cambodia early this month at the height of the fighting in this capital.

Souvanna had tried to steer a neutral course, bringing pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces and the anti-Communists of Boun Oum and Gen. Phoumi Nosavan into a coalition government.

Radio Peiping said the leftist who took over temporarily in Vientiane when Souvanna fled, Information Minister Quinim Pholsena, had arrived in Sam Neua. His whereabouts had been unknown since he fled from Vientiane.

Thousands Go Over Highways

By The Associated Press

The start of the long Christmas weekend found thousands of motorists on the road Friday night.

The home-for-Christmas traffic always is heavy. And this time normal driving hazards were heightened by slick or snow-packed highways in many parts of the country.

The National Safety Council estimated that 510 Americans may be killed in motor vehicle accidents in the 78-hour period that began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and will end at midnight Monday.

The council stressed in a plea to motorists that speeding and drinking have been the foremost factors in Christmas holiday fatalities in the past.

The Christmas period of 1959—also three days — was a time of tragedy for many families. Traffic deaths numbered 493, fires accounted for 43, and 73 persons died in a variety of other accidents for an over-all total of 609.

The record traffic and over-all tolls during a three-day observance of Christmas were set in 1955. There were 609 deaths in traffic, 68 in fires and 105 in the miscellaneous class for a total of 782.

Some La. School Teachers Get Pay

BULLETIN

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) —A New Orleans teachers association called a mass teachers meeting for Saturday after most of the city's 5,500 school employes failed to get their monthly pay on schedule.

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—It will be a merry Christmas for teachers at the city's two integrated schools, but most of the other 5,500 school employes faced a bleak holiday.

Four New Orleans banks bowed to a federal court order Friday and released some $728,000 of school money. A segregationist-bent legislature had frozen the funds.

The school board quickly paid about 100 employes at integrated William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19 schools and administrative school board workers.

But the $728,000 was far short of the $1.9 million needed to cover the December payroll for the rest of the city's school employes. They went payless.

Some 4,000 teachers, principals and secretaries were due their December paychecks Friday—for four weeks of work already put in. Another 1,500 maintenance workers and others were due weekly and semimonthly paychecks.

The action puts teachers at the two integrated schools in a better financial position now than those at segregated schools.

An anonymous donor gave $16,000 to pay the November salaries of teachers at Frantz and McDonogh. The legislature, which felt the teachers should boycott the schools, had withheld the money.

Checks paid Friday mean Frantz and McDonogh teachers are up to date on their salaries. Teachers at the rest of the city's schools—all segregated—are now behind one four-week period.

School Supt. James Redmond said the board would also use the newly released funds to pay audited bills from city merchants. They total $536,000.

A three-judge federal court Wednesday ordered the banks and the city of New Orleans to turn over school funds to the board. The city still holds school tax money amounting to $200,000.

For a time this week, it appeared New Orleans teachers — with the exception of those at integrated schools—would be paid by the legislature.

However, lawmakers held back paychecks after the federal court handed down contempt citations against three top state officials for interfering in integration.

Christmastime At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christmas filled the air Friday at the White House, abustle with some 200 tourists in the morning and then 400 children at an afternoon party.

The big mansion itself was a Christmas card picture with a snow-covered lawn and big green holiday wreaths at the front windows.

Dressed in their Sunday best, the boys and girls, along with many parents, had their party in the ballroom. There was a big toy Santa Claus beside a tree that stretched from the floor to the high ceiling and twinkled with white lights.

A smaller group of children whose parents are personal friends of the Eisenhowers went to the White House at noon for an hour-long party.

The tourists came from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, shuffling their snow boots and galoshes as quietly as they could through the marble corridors of the first floor.

The children gazed wide-eyed at the big columns entwined with artificial holly, the poinsettias banked in the rooms, the shining chandeliers, the tiny lights flickering among the greenery.

The family will be at the White House for Christmas with the four young grandchildren.

Mrs. Eisenhower directed the Christmas decorating.

U.S. Pilots To Spend Yule In Soviet Prison

MOSCOW (AP)—Three American pilots in Soviet prisons are likely to have an austere Christmas, but nobody except their Russian keepers knows for sure.

The three are Francis Gary Powers of Pound, Va., whose U2 dropped down last May 1 over Sverdlovsk and precipitated an international crisis, and Capt. Freeman B. Olmstead of Elmira, N.Y., and Capt. John R. McCone of Topeka, Kan., whose RB47 reconnaissance bomber was shot down over the Barents Sea July 1.

All are believed to be held in the vicinity of Moscow.

Packages have been sent by their families. For the most part these contained warm clothing, because this was specified by Soviet authorities as advisable as presents.

But a special gift was sent to Olmstead. His wife and children recorded their voices on a record and sent it to him.

That record reached the U.S. Embassy Friday and it was immediately repackaged for forwarding to the pilot for delivery.

The families of Powers and McCone have sent their packages directly to security police headquarters in Moscow.

Only the Russians know whether the three will have any special observance at all. Soviet authorities have kept strict secrecy about both the reconnaissance pilots, and about Powers since he was sentenced last Aug. 20 to 10 years on spy charges.

Regularly the embassy asks to see the prisoners, but these requests are denied.

No American has seen the two reconnaissance fliers since they were shot down by a Soviet fighter. Premier Khrushchev has announced they will be brought to trial for espionage on the charge they were flying over Soviet waters. The charge has been denied by the United States.

Pilgrims Trek Through Jordan To Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — Pilgrims in unprecedented numbers passed Saturday from Israel into Jordan — through the Mandelbaum Gate and over no-man's land — to gather in Old Jerusalem on this Christmas Eve for the trek to Bethlehem.

Most of the record 3,000 or so are Arab Catholics who will observe the holiday in the Judean hill town where Christ was born.

Many traveled overnight to be first in line Friday when Israel and Jordan officials for the 12th consecutive year put aside their enmities long enough to allow the border crossings. The two normally cling to the uneasy armistice of 1948-49.

From Jerusalem the pilgrims walk five miles south to Bethlehem where the Church of the Nativity marks the traditional site of Christ's birth. The Grotto of the Nativity is revered as the actual place.

The pilgrim's trail leads through the hills Joseph and Mary plodded over and along the route the Three Wise Men took in following their star to Bethlehem.

Many of the Christians making the pilgrimage will go on to Nazareth after Christmas for religious celebrations at traditional holy sites such as the workshop of St. Joseph and Mary's well.

Officials at the Jerusalem border confirmed there was a record crossing this year. Another 2,000 will make the pilgrimage next month for the Greek Orthodox and Armenian Christmas observances.

There were no notable border incidents.

Stiffer Fines

TOKYO (AP) — The first man sentenced under Japan's new stricter traffic laws this week was fined $111 — an average month's salary here—for driving without a license and while drunk. The penalty represents an eight-fold increase over the past.

Two Women Who 'Wed' Sentenced

VERSAILLES, France (AP)—Two women who fooled both civil and religious authorities and married each other were sentenced Friday to a year in prison.

Ginette Ferroni, 42, a former theater director, and Bernadette Unvois, 24, her secretary, were "married" last September. They had appropriated identification papers belonging to Philippe Mackaert.

France has no law forbidding marriage between persons of the same sex, so the women were accused of making false statements and using a false birth certificate. They were ordered to pay 500 francs—$100—each to Mackaert in damages.

Soviet Hopes Kennedy Will Deal Better

Improved Relations Sought, Says Russia Foreign Minister

MOSCOW (AP)—Asserting a desire for friendly relations with the United States, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko expressed hope Friday for a turn for the better with the presidential inauguration of John F. Kennedy.

"Despite the Soviet government's sincere desire to reach mutual understanding and agreement with the American government on a number of international problems ripe for solution, nothing has yet come of it," Gromyko told the closing session of the Supreme Soviet—parliament.

"The responsibility for the failure rests wholly and entirely with the Eisenhower-Nixon administration."

Premier Khrushchev sat on the rostrum and joined in the applause, but made no speech as expected. Recently recovered from a bout with the flu, he sat for the most part with his hands folded and his eyes shut.

Scoffs At Speech

(In Washington, Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, scoffed at Gromyko's speech saying: "History shows that there is only one way to get along with the Kremlin and that is to succumb and surrender. I am confident that the Kennedy administration will not do that.")

"It is an open secret," Gromyko said, "that in many countries, including the United States, certain hopes are pinned on Mr. Kennedy's taking office, especially for an improvement in the relations between the United States and the U.S.S.R.

"The Soviet government, too, would like to see Soviet-American relations revert to the state they were in Franklin D. Roosevelt's time, as Nikita Khrushchev put it in his message of congratulations to the president-elect."

Gromyko said the Soviet Union wants "not just normal, but good, friendly relations with the United States." He again blamed the freezeup of Soviet-U.S. relations on the U2 spy incident and President Eisenhower's refusal to apologize.

Lashes At NATO

Gromyko lashed out at "imperialism," the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the U.S. offer to furnish Polaris missiles to NATO. He again called for complete disarmament, a Khrushchev plan rejected by the West as unrealistic.

The foreign minister again referred directly to the United States in declaring a German peace treaty is the main problem in Europe. He said the Soviet Union hopes that "the United States and other Western powers will take a more sober position, taking into consideration the real state of affairs obtaining in Germany and in Europe."

Dr. Moore Hurt In Car Crash

Children At Navy Base Assured That Santa Claus Is Still Alive

By FRANCIS STILLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Yes, Dorothy... yes, Coleta... yes, Lana and Johanna...yes, Johnny...and yes, you 160 children at a Navy air station in Maine.

Like little Virginia of more than half a century ago, you are finding out or proving there is a Santa Claus.

Listen to this: "He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy."

An editorial writer of the New York Sun penned those words in 1897 to 8-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon. She had written the paper to say some of her little friends claimed there was no Santa and she wanted to know the truth.

She is still alive, with children and grandchildren of her own now, and she can tell you that the answer she got was indeed true—and will be, forever.

Coleta Burns...you're 11 years old, you live in the Arkansas Ozarks. You wrote to the New York City Police Department, asking if Santa were dead because he hasn't been to your house in a long time.

By now you probably have received a reply from one of the city's highest-ranking officers, reassuring you that Santa is very much alive. Before long you will know this is so, but you must be patient for a bit. Tell your brothers and sisters to be patient, too.

Santa has a pretty big job at times, you know, and sometimes is a little slow making his rounds.

Dorothy Ridgeway...you're 9, you live in a remote mountain area at Hardy, Va., you've been ill a long time.

Probably you may have thought at times that neither Santa Claus nor people living a long way off would pay too much attention to a little girl like you.

You know better now, don't you.

Sacks and sacks of Christmas cards have been arriving from all over the world, haven't they? And Friday a helicopter from the Army's Ft. Eustis landed with gifts for you and your sisters.

You see, Dorothy, Santa has lots of helpers and they all love little girls and little boys. One sent a note about you on a Weather Bureau telegraph circuit. Others relayed it on other circuits.

This may be hard for you to understand, but people in faraway places like London and Tokyo and Rome know about you and want you to be happy.

Some of the cards you'll be getting will say "buon Natale e felice Anno Nuovo." In Italian, that means "good Christmas and a happy New Year," Dorothy.

Lana and Johanna Nightingale ...you're proving it. Your home is at Steinbach, Man., Canada, but you're at a Boston hospital so that Johanna can get well. Lana, giving Johanna one of your kidneys in an operation so that your twin can regain health, is just

NEW ADVISER — Dr. Walter H. Heller, 45, of St. Paul, Minn., has been appointed as tax adviser in the new Kennedy administration. He will be chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. (AP Photofax)

Minnesota Expert To Head CEA

President-Elect Hopes U.S. Economy Can Be Improved

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy chose as his chief economic adviser Friday a University of Minnesota expert who wants a built-in system of adjusting taxes to business slumps and booms.

Dr. Walter W. Heller, 45, who said the nation is in a recession and faced with "a basic slack in the economy," will be chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. This is an agency, in the office of the president himself, which Kennedy said now will be revitalized and given larger responsibilities.

Kennedy, who has voiced concern with unemployment and a lack of economic vigor, said that shortly after he takes office on Jan. 20 "we will be discussing the condition of the economy and what steps could be profitably taken to improve that position." By the end of January, he said, it should be able to make a much better judgment on the future of the national economy.

Announces Appointment

Kennedy announced the Heller appointment with Heller at his side. The setting was the customary one for such business: a news conference in the patio of the Kennedy home.

Heller at present is chairman of the economic department at the University of Minnesota. He has been a tax and economic adviser to many agencies, national and international, for many years. Kennedy called him one of the country's most distinguished economists.

As Heller sees the economic picture now, the nation has been in a recession for six months and still is in one. He said there have been "three and a half years of lagging employment and growth" and two or three years of excessive gold outflow from the country.

He hopes, he said, to serve Kennedy in developing policies that will bring the economy back to its full potential — "back on the track of full employment and satisfactory growth."

Work Within Agency

With respect to enlarging the responsibilities of the Council of Economic Advisers, Kennedy said he thought it would be advantageous to bring manpower, consumer and natural resources problems within the work of the agency.

After lunching with Heller, Kennedy conferred with Dr. Kenneth Galbraith, Harvard University economist who has been his adviser. Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, refused to speculate on whether Galbraith might receive some sort of government appointment.

Living Costs Nudged Higher To Top Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another rise in food prices nudged living costs to a record level last month, the government reported Friday.

The consumer price index rose by less than one-tenth of 1 per cent to 127.4. The increase from October marked the eighth new high in nine months. In the index, 100 represents the average price level for 1947-48.

Since November a year ago, living costs have increased 1.4 per cent, with food accounting for more than half the rise.

This November, food prices were up two-tenths of 1 per cent whereas they almost always decline in that month. Prices of lettuce, snap beans and tomatoes advanced sharply and those of eggs and meats failed to drop nearly as much as usual for the month.

Also contributing to the November cost of living increase were higher movie prices and hikes in medical insurance premiums.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics also reported that the average take-home pay of an average factory worker with three dependents dropped 23 cents a week in November to $80.95. This was blamed on shorter hours stemming from the business slowdown.

Coupled with the advance in living costs, the smaller paychecks meant a drop of ½ to 1 per cent in the buying power of factory workers. During the past year, earnings have risen but buying power has dropped slightly.

The November rise in the price index will mean cost-of-living wage boosts for 225,000 workers. Most are employed in the meatpacking and aircraft-missile industries, and will get increases of 2 cents an hour.

Robert J. Myers, deputy commissioner of labor statistics, told newsmen the December price outlook is for little or no change.

Myers also reported that prices of compact cars were partially incorporated in the November index for the first time.

By January, he said, compacts will account for 28 per cent of the index for new autos.

New car prices rose six-tenths of 1 per cent in November, which was much less than usual for the month. Prices of used cars continued to decline.

Ike Rejects Bid For Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower bluntly rejected Friday a demand by congressional investigators for State Department documents he said it would be contrary to the national interests to make public.

Eisenhower also told the State Department, in effect, to disregard a ruling by Comptroller Joseph Campbell, barring pay for certain employes of the Mutual Security Administration, who refused to provide the documents.

The papers had been demanded by Rep. Porter Hardy, D-Va., chairman of a Foreign Operations and Monetary Affairs subcommittee, of the House Committee on Government Operations.

The papers involved in the subcommittee's request made last October, relate to the U.S. aid program in seven South American nations.

Eisenhower said in a statement that while it is the established policy to provide Congress and the public with fullest possible information the executive also has a recognized constitutional duty and power to refuse to disclose documents that might adversely affect national interests.

A three-judge federal court Wednesday ordered the banks and the city of New Orleans to turn over school funds to the board. The city still holds school tax money amounting to $200,000.

For a time this week, it appeared New Orleans teachers — with the exception of those at integrated schools—would be paid by the legislature.

However, lawmakers held back paychecks after the federal court handed down contempt citations against three top state officials for interfering in integration.

Christmastime At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christmas filled the air Friday at the White House, abustle with some 200 tourists in the morning and then 400 children at an afternoon party.

The big mansion itself was a Christmas card picture with a snow-covered lawn and big green holiday wreaths at the front windows.

Dressed in their Sunday best, the boys and girls, along with many parents, had their party in the ballroom. There was a big toy Santa Claus beside a tree that stretched from the floor to the high ceiling and twinkled with white lights.

A smaller group of children whose parents are personal friends of the Eisenhowers went to the White House at noon for an hour-long party.

The tourists came from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, shuffling their snow boots and galoshes as quietly as they could through the marble corridors of the first floor.

The children gazed wide-eyed at the big columns entwined with artificial holly, the poinsettias banked in the rooms, the shining chandeliers, the tiny lights flickering among the greenery.

The family will be at the White House for Christmas with the four young grandchildren.

Mrs. Eisenhower directed the Christmas decorating.

U.S. Pilots To Spend Yule In Soviet Prison

MOSCOW (AP)—Three American pilots in Soviet prisons are likely to have an austere Christmas, but nobody except their Russian keepers knows for sure.

The three are Francis Gary Powers of Pound, Va., whose U2 dropped down last May 1 over Sverdlovsk and precipitated an international crisis, and Capt. Freeman B. Olmstead of Elmira, N.Y., and Capt. John R. McCone of Topeka, Kan., whose RB47 reconnaissance bomber was shot down over the Barents Sea July 1.

All are believed to be held in the vicinity of Moscow.

Packages have been sent by their families. For the most part these contained warm clothing, because this was specified by Soviet authorities as advisable as presents.

But a special gift was sent to Olmstead. His wife and children recorded their voices on a record and sent it to him.

That record reached the U.S. Embassy Friday and it was immediately repackaged for forwarding to the pilot for delivery.

The families of Powers and McCone have sent their packages directly to security police headquarters in Moscow.

Only the Russians know whether the three will have any special observance at all. Soviet authorities have kept strict secrecy about both the reconnaissance pilots, and about Powers since he was sentenced last Aug. 20 to 10 years on spy charges.

Regularly the embassy asks to see the prisoners, but these requests are denied.

No American has seen the two reconnaissance fliers since they were shot down by a Soviet fighter. Premier Khrushchev has announced they will be brought to trial for espionage on the charge they were flying over Soviet waters. The charge has been denied by the United States.

Two Women Who 'Wed' Sentenced

VERSAILLES, France (AP)—Two women who fooled both civil and religious authorities and married each other were sentenced Friday to a year in prison.

Ginette Ferroni, 42, a former theater director, and Bernadette Unvois, 24, her secretary, were "married" last September. They had appropriated identification papers belonging to Philippe Mackaert.

France has no law forbidding marriage between persons of the same sex, so the women were accused of making false statements and using a false birth certificate. They were ordered to pay 500 francs—$100—each to Mackaert in damages.

Pilgrims Trek Through Jordan To Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — Pilgrims in unprecedented numbers passed Saturday from Israel into Jordan — through the Mandelbaum Gate and over no-man's land — to gather in Old Jerusalem on this Christmas Eve for the trek to Bethlehem.

Most of the record 3,000 or so are Arab Catholics who will observe the holiday in the Judean hill town where Christ was born.

Many traveled overnight to be first in line Friday when Israel and Jordan officials for the 12th consecutive year put aside their enmities long enough to allow the border crossings. The two normally cling to the uneasy armistice of 1948-49.

From Jerusalem the pilgrims walk five miles south to Bethlehem where the Church of the Nativity marks the traditional site of Christ's birth. The Grotto of the Nativity is revered as the actual place.

The pilgrim's trail leads through the hills Joseph and Mary plodded over and along the route the Three Wise Men took in following their star to Bethlehem.

Many of the Christians making the pilgrimage will go on to Nazareth after Christmas for religious celebrations at traditional holy sites such as the workshop of St. Joseph and Mary's well.

Officials at the Jerusalem border confirmed there was a record crossing this year. Another 2,000 will make the pilgrimage next month for the Greek Orthodox and Armenian Christmas observances.

There were no notable border incidents.

Stiffer Fines

TOKYO (AP) — The first man sentenced under Japan's new stricter traffic laws this week was fined $111 — an average month's salary here—for driving without a license and while drunk. The penalty represents an eight-fold increase over the past.

Soviet Hopes Kennedy Will Deal Better

Improved Relations Sought, Says Russia Foreign Minister

MOSCOW (AP)—Asserting a desire for friendly relations with the United States, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko expressed hope Friday for a turn for the better with the presidential inauguration of John F. Kennedy.

"Despite the Soviet government's sincere desire to reach mutual understanding and agreement with the American government on a number of international problems ripe for solution, nothing has yet come of it," Gromyko told the closing session of the Supreme Soviet—parliament.

"The responsibility for the failure rests wholly and entirely with the Eisenhower-Nixon administration."

Premier Khrushchev sat on the rostrum and joined in the applause, but made no speech as expected. Recently recovered from a bout with the flu, he sat for the most part with his hands folded and his eyes shut.

Scoffs At Speech

(In Washington, Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, scoffed at Gromyko's speech saying: "History shows that there is only one way to get along with the Kremlin and that is to succumb and surrender. I am confident that the Kennedy administration will not do that.")

"It is an open secret," Gromyko said, "that in many countries, including the United States, certain hopes are pinned on Mr. Kennedy's taking office, especially for an improvement in the relations between the United States and the U.S.S.R.

"The Soviet government, too, would like to see Soviet-American relations revert to the state they were in Franklin D. Roosevelt's time, as Nikita Khrushchev put it in his message of congratulations to the president-elect."

Gromyko said the Soviet Union wants "not just normal, but good, friendly relations with the United States." He again blamed the freezeup of Soviet-U.S. relations on the U2 spy incident and President Eisenhower's refusal to apologize.

Lashes At NATO

Gromyko lashed out at "imperialism," the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the U.S. offer to furnish Polaris missiles to NATO. He again called for complete disarmament, a Khrushchev plan rejected by the West as unrealistic.

The foreign minister again referred directly to the United States in declaring a German peace treaty is the main problem in Europe. He said the Soviet Union hopes that "the United States and other Western powers will take a more sober position, taking into consideration the real state of affairs obtaining in Germany and in Europe."

Dr. Moore Hurt In Car Crash

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Barbara Moore, the long-distance walker, was injured in a car crash Friday. She was taken to a hospital for treatment of facial injuries and then released. Her car was slightly damaged.

Dr. Moore, 56, walked across the United States from coast to coast earlier this year.

NEW ADVISER — Dr. Walter H. Heller, 45, of St. Paul, Minn., has been appointed as tax adviser in the new Kennedy administration. He will be chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. (AP Photofax)

Living Costs Nudged Higher To Top Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another rise in food prices nudged living costs to a record level last month, the government reported Friday.

The consumer price index rose by less than one-tenth of 1 per cent to 127.4. The increase from October marked the eighth new high in nine months. In the index, 100 represents the average price level for 1947-48.

Since November a year ago, living costs have increased 1.4 per cent, with food accounting for more than half the rise.

This November, food prices were up two-tenths of 1 per cent whereas they almost always decline in that month. Prices of lettuce, snap beans and tomatoes advanced sharply and those of eggs and meats failed to drop nearly as much as usual for the month.

Also contributing to the November cost of living increase were higher movie prices and hikes in medical insurance premiums.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics also reported that the average take-home pay of an average factory worker with three dependents dropped 23 cents a week in November to $80.95. This was blamed on shorter hours stemming from the business slowdown.

Coupled with the advance in living costs, the smaller paychecks meant a drop of ½ to 1 per cent in the buying power of factory workers. During the past year, earnings have risen but buying power has dropped slightly.

The November rise in the price index will mean cost-of-living wage boosts for 225,000 workers. Most are employed in the meatpacking and aircraft-missile industries, and will get increases of 2 cents an hour.

Robert J. Myers, deputy commissioner of labor statistics, told newsmen the December price outlook is for little or no change.

Myers also reported that prices of compact cars were partially incorporated in the November index for the first time.

By January, he said, compacts will account for 28 per cent of the index for new autos.

New car prices rose six-tenths of 1 per cent in November, which was much less than usual for the month. Prices of used cars continued to decline.

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy chose as his chief economic adviser Friday a University of Minnesota expert who wants a built-in system of adjusting taxes to business slumps and booms.

Dr. Walter W. Heller, 45, who said the nation is in a recession and faced with "a basic slack in the economy," will be chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers. This is an agency, in the office of the president himself, which Kennedy said now will be revitalized and given larger responsibilities.

Kennedy, who has voiced concern with unemployment and a lack of economic vigor, said that shortly after he takes office on Jan. 20 "we will be discussing the condition of the economy and what steps could be profitably taken to improve that position." By the end of January, he said, it should be able to make a much better judgment on the future of the national economy.

Announces Appointment

Kennedy announced the Heller appointment with Heller at his side. The setting was the customary one for such business: a news conference in the patio of the Kennedy home.

Heller at present is chairman of the economic department at the University of Minnesota. He has been a tax and economic adviser to many agencies, national and international, for many years. Kennedy called him one of the country's most distinguished economists.

As Heller sees the economic picture now, the nation has been in a recession for six months and still is in one. He said there have been "three and a half years of lagging employment and growth" and two or three years of excessive gold outflow from the country.

He hopes, he said, to serve Kennedy in developing policies that will bring the economy back to its full potential — "back on the track of full employment and satisfactory growth."

Work Within Agency

With respect to enlarging the responsibilities of the Council of Economic Advisers, Kennedy said he thought it would be advantageous to bring manpower, consumer and natural resources problems within the work of the agency.

After lunching with Heller, Kennedy conferred with Dr. Kenneth Galbraith, Harvard University economist who has been his adviser. Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, refused to speculate on whether Galbraith might receive some sort of government appointment.

Ike Rejects Bid For Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower bluntly rejected Friday a demand by congressional investigators for State Department documents he said it would be contrary to the national interests to make public.

Eisenhower also told the State Department, in effect, to disregard a ruling by Comptroller Joseph Campbell, barring pay for certain employes of the Mutual Security Administration, who refused to provide the documents.

The papers had been demanded by Rep. Porter Hardy, D-Va., chairman of a Foreign Operations and Monetary Affairs subcommittee, of the House Committee on Government Operations.

The papers involved in the subcommittee's request made last October, relate to the U.S. aid program in seven South American nations.

Eisenhower said in a statement that while it is the established policy to provide Congress and the public with fullest possible information the executive also has a recognized constitutional duty and power to refuse to disclose documents that might adversely affect national interests.

Children At Navy Base Assured That Santa Claus Is Still Alive

By FRANCIS STILLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Yes, Dorothy... yes, Coleta... yes, Lana and Johanna...yes, Johnny...and yes, you 160 children at a Navy air station in Maine.

Like little Virginia of more than half a century ago, you are finding out or proving there is a Santa Claus.

Listen to this: "He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy."

An editorial writer of the New York Sun penned those words in 1897 to 8-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon. She had written the paper to say some of her little friends claimed there was no Santa and she wanted to know the truth.

She is still alive, with children and grandchildren of her own now, and she can tell you that the answer she got was indeed true—and will be, forever.

Coleta Burns...you're 11 years old, you live in the Arkansas Ozarks. You wrote to the New York City Police Department, asking if Santa were dead because he hasn't been to your house in a long time.

By now you probably have received a reply from one of the city's highest-ranking officers, reassuring you that Santa is very much alive. Before long you will know this is so, but you must be patient for a bit. Tell your brothers and sisters to be patient, too.

Santa has a pretty big job at times, you know, and sometimes is a little slow making his rounds.

Dorothy Ridgeway...you're 9, you live in a remote mountain area at Hardy, Va., you've been ill a long time.

Probably you may have thought at times that neither Santa Claus nor people living a long way off would pay too much attention to a little girl like you.

You know better now, don't you.

Sacks and sacks of Christmas cards have been arriving from all over the world, haven't they? And Friday a helicopter from the Army's Ft. Eustis landed with gifts for you and your sisters.

You see, Dorothy, Santa has lots of helpers and they all love little girls and little boys. One sent a note about you on a Weather Bureau telegraph circuit. Others relayed it on other circuits.

This may be hard for you to understand, but people in faraway places like London and Tokyo and Rome know about you and want you to be happy.

Some of the cards you'll be getting will say "buon Natale e felice Anno Nuovo." In Italian, that means "good Christmas and a happy New Year," Dorothy.

Lana and Johanna Nightingale ...you're proving it. Your home is at Steinbach, Man., Canada, but you're at a Boston hospital so that Johanna can get well. Lana, giving Johanna one of your kidneys in an operation so that your twin can regain health, is just

King Claims Washington County Wrong For Prison

BALTIMORE (AP) — Washington County is the wrong place for a proposed state rehabilitation prison and pressure politics were exerted to put it there, Dr. John T. King of the Board of Correction said Friday.

He criticized State Sen. George E. Snyder, D-Washington, for using pressure to have William H. Reisner Jr. of Hagerstown appointed to the board and Reisner for pushing for the new prison to be located in their county.

Reisner said he would have no immediate comment. Snyder was away from Hagerstown and could not be contacted.

The Board of Correction approved Washington County as the site of the $10 million prison on Dec. 14 after Dr. King said it was given an ultimatum.

He said the ultimatum was that the prison would either be built in Washington County or no where.

The Board of Correction had been seeking a site within 30 miles of Baltimore as recommended by experts.

Dr. King said that immediately after Reisner was named to the board he not only "began denouncing the department and the state superintendent of prisons, but appeared interested only in supervising appointments at the reformatory (for males) and having the proposed new building located in Washington County."

Fugitive Put On Wanted List

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Kenneth Eugene Cindle, a 48-year-old fugitive wanted for the shotgun holdup of a restaurant in Wichita, Kan., was placed in the FBI's list of 10 most wanted men Friday.

Cindle, whom the FBI said "should be considered armed and very dangerous," robbed the restaurant on Oct. 12, 1959. Twice since he has been picked up by Tulsa and Oklahoma City police but released before it was discovered he was wanted.

The name "Opal," for a former wife, is tattooed on the outside of his left forearm. The middle and ring fingers of his right hand have been amputated.

He is an avid gambler, a heavy smoker and a heavy drinker with a preference for bourbon and beer.

He weighs about 165 pounds and is of slender build, with grey eyes and brown hair.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Department of Aviation reported Friday that all categories of operations at Friendship Airport last month were higher than during November of 1959.

The number of passengers using the airport increased 27 per cent, express business was up 26 per cent, freight 52 per cent and commercial air carriers used it 22 per cent more.

The total number of passengers for the month was 66,883. in another comparison, 18,499 passengers went through Friendship in 1951, its first full calendar year of operation.

SALISBURY (AP) — A 7-year-old Salisbury girl who was struck by a car Friday was taken to the hospital in a State Police ambulance after the city ambulance broke down on the way to the scene.

The victim, Patricia Dougherty, had just left school for the Christmas holiday at the time of the accident. The driver was identified as Patricia A. Bell, 21, of Bethel, Del. Police said the child apparently had darted into the street from behind some parked cars.

Injuries included bruises and a possible broken leg.

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—Five persons were injured near here Friday in a near head-on collision of two automobiles.

Officers said a northbound car driven by Capt. Lewis Dominicucci of Ft. Benning, Ga., attempting to pass on U.S. 1 about nine miles south of here, struck a southbound car driven by James Martin Ryle, 22, a Pasadena, Md., school teacher headed for Columbia, S.C.

Fifteen of the $20 bills were spotted in 10 stores, according to a spokesman for the U.S. Treasury Department.

He said the bills originated from a counterfeiting operation uncovered in Union City, N.J.

BALTIMORE (AP) — In a move to expand further overseas commerce through Baltimore, the Maryland Port Authority announced Friday the establishment of a new trade development office at London. The office will begin operations the first of the new year.

The London office is the fifth to be operated by the Authority outside Baltimore. Besides the European headquarters at Brussels, the Authority maintains trade solicitation centers in Pittsburgh, New York and Chicago. The Authority's trade development program, including supervision of all field offices, is under the direction of William L. Ollerhead.

BALTIMORE (AP) — John B. Funk, chairman-director of the State Roads Commission of Maryland, Friday announced advertisement of dualization of Riggs Road from the District Line to Maryland Route 193 in Prince Georges County.

The project calls for construction of an urban dual facility with 34-foot roadways divided by a 16-foot median strip. In addition, storm sewer and sidewalk construction is stipulated as well as construction of a bridge over Sligo Creek. The distance involved is 2.4 miles.

The new highway will follow generally the alignment of present Riggs Road, but according to present plans, it will not be necessary to close the route to traffic.

Usually, in cases like this, one lane of the dual lanes is built while traffic uses the existing road. When the new lane is built, traffic uses it on a two-way basis while construction of the other lane progresses.

Bids are scheduled to be opened January 24, 1961, clearing the way for work to start in late winter.

Expect Delay

MANILA (UPI) — Philippine diplomats said Friday that Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) members could be expected to withhold action on Laos' bid for SEATO membership until the situation there clears up.

SEATO membership is by invitation of the eight member nations, and none of them have yet extended recognition to the new Laotian regime.

Wave Of Fires In Maryland Claims 2 Lives

By The Associated Press

A wave of fires has swept the Maryland area during the past several days. The worst Friday claimed the lives of two Baltimore children.

The children who died in the Baltimore fire, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Poe, were on the verge of rescue when they were engulfed in flames.

Authorities said that Poe, 35, his wife and two other children escaped by climbing through the first-floor window of their Curtis Bay home. Poe was reaching through the window for 12-year-old Theresa and 8-year-old Clayton when flames cut him off. The bodies of the two children were recovered an hour later.

Firemen had not determined the cause of the fire. They said the only appliance in the frame building was an oil burner.

Some 40 patients at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in Baltimore were evacuated from one floor to another Friday, when fire broke out in an equipment penthouse on the roof. No one was reported injured.

Hook and ladder units responded to the two-alarm call, and firemen attacked the stubborn blaze from the roof and stairwell. Smoke and water damage to the penthouse at the top of the seven-story structure was extensive, and when the fire was quelled, 1½ feet of water had accumulated on the roof. Spectators blocks away reported seeing spectacular flames coming from the roof of the hospital.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

In two Baltimore County fires, three persons were carried to safety from a blazing Towson apartment, and a $50,000 home was destroyed.

In the apartment fire, Mrs. Anna Schwartz, 80, was found on a bed almost overcome by smoke. She and another couple living in the building were carried out by firemen wearing gas masks. Dense smoke hindered operations, and six residents of a neighboring building were evacuated.

The country home of Hugh E. Kabler in Towson was destroyed Thursday, with damage estimated at $50,000.

In a fire at a Baltimore rubber plant Thursday, 75 employes were evacuated in icy weather. Firemen contained the blaze to a crude rubber room, but damage was extensive. The Frank G. Schenuit Rubber Co. manufactures airplane, industrial and truck tires.

Fires also struck in the suburbs of Washington Thursday. At Brookeville, Md., a freak boiler explosion caused a fire that heavily damaged the farm home of Leroy Raymond. Raymond and his wife said the fire also destroyed the Christmas presents they had bought for their five children.

Fire officials said the Raymond fire started this way:

A fire in a small pump house 12 feet from the main house set fire to a mattress and paper. The heat of the fire fused a safety valve on a water tank, steam pressure built up, and the top of the tank blew off. The top flew through the roof of the house, spreading embers and setting the structure on fire.

A Thursday fire in a Chevy Chase, Md. home also involved an explosion. Fire fighters were called to the home of Robert M. Morrissey. As firemen entered the building with a hose, oxygen from the open door reportedly reached a pocket of hot, unburned gas which exploded, blowing the firemen into the street and knocking out two second-story walls.

MISSING — Raymond Brazner, 33, is among seven men missing from tanker Pine Ridge after it broke up off Cape Hatteras. His wife of Odenton, Md., told his parents, Attorney and Mrs. Frank Brazner, that her husband, a radio operator, was missing. (AP Photofax)

Baby Born In Auto Succumbs

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A prematurely born boy, whom the mother herself delivered in an automobile stuck in the snow, died Friday in Community Hospital at nearby Ephrata.

The child, weighing less than three pounds, had been kept in an incubator since its birth on a forlorn country road Dec. 13.

The mother, 27-year-old Mrs. Harry Ros, survived the experience remarkably well, doctors said.

She and her husband set out for the hospital from their country home, but soon bogged down in giant snowdrifts.

Neighbors rallied to help, one with a tractor, in an effort to free the car. For hours they shoveled. The tractor ran out of gas. Ros prayed and kept his wife warm.

When her time came she gave birth to the child in the front seat. Then Ros joined his friends in trying to shovel a way out. They kept at it for four hours and five and a half miles, until they reached a main road.

AEC Optimistic About York County A-Reactor

WASHINGTON (AP) — An advisory committee to the Atomic Energy Commission says it is still optimistic that an atomic reactor can be operated at Peach Bottom, York County, Pa., without undue risk. But, the committee adds, there are many questions still to be answered.

The report of the advisory committee on reactor safeguards was made public Friday by the AEC. The report pertains to the reactor which the Philadelphia Electric Co. and 51 associated utilities are planning to build at Peach Bottom.

Philadelphia Electric on July 25 applied for a construction permit.

The advisory committee, in a report to AEC chairman John A. McCone, said "the committee continues to be optimistic that a reactor of the general type proposed in the advanced gas-cooled concept can be constructed and operated at the Peach Bottom site without undue risk to the health and safety of the public," and added:

"General atomic has embarked on an extensive research and development program related to this reactor. The initial results from this program appear to be favorable.

"However, there are many questions that remain to be answered by the research and development program which is still in its early stages.

"Several of these questions are in the areas which could require major changes in the present design concepts and could conceivably change our early optimism.

The Board of Correction approved Washington County as the site of the $10 million prison on Dec. 14 after Dr. King said it was given an ultimatum.

He said the ultimatum was that the prison would either be built in Washington County or no where.

The Board of Correction had been seeking a site within 30 miles of Baltimore as recommended by experts.

Dr. King said that immediately after Reisner was named to the board he not only "began denouncing the department and the state superintendent of prisons, but appeared interested only in supervising appointments at the reformatory (for males) and having the proposed new building located in Washington County."

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Department of Aviation reported Friday that all categories of operations at Friendship Airport last month were higher than during November of 1959.

The number of passengers using the airport increased 27 per cent, express business was up 26 per cent, freight 52 per cent and commercial air carriers used it 22 per cent more.

The total number of passengers for the month was 66,883. in another comparison, 18,499 passengers went through Friendship in 1951, its first full calendar year of operation.

SALISBURY (AP) — A 7-year-old Salisbury girl who was struck by a car Friday was taken to the hospital in a State Police ambulance after the city ambulance broke down on the way to the scene.

The victim, Patricia Dougherty, had just left school for the Christmas holiday at the time of the accident. The driver was identified as Patricia A. Bell, 21, of Bethel, Del. Police said the child apparently had darted into the street from behind some parked cars.

Injuries included bruises and a possible broken leg.

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP)—Five persons were injured near here Friday in a near head-on collision of two automobiles.

Officers said a northbound car driven by Capt. Lewis Dominicucci of Ft. Benning, Ga., attempting to pass on U.S. 1 about nine miles south of here, struck a southbound car driven by James Martin Ryle, 22, a Pasadena, Md., school teacher headed for Columbia, S.C.

Fifteen of the $20 bills were spotted in 10 stores, according to a spokesman for the U.S. Treasury Department.

He said the bills originated from a counterfeiting operation uncovered in Union City, N.J.

BALTIMORE (AP) — In a move to expand further overseas commerce through Baltimore, the Maryland Port Authority announced Friday the establishment of a new trade development office at London. The office will begin operations the first of the new year.

The London office is the fifth to be operated by the Authority outside Baltimore. Besides the European headquarters at Brussels, the Authority maintains trade solicitation centers in Pittsburgh, New York and Chicago. The Authority's trade development program, including supervision of all field offices, is under the direction of William L. Ollerhead.

BALTIMORE (AP) — John B. Funk, chairman-director of the State Roads Commission of Maryland, Friday announced advertisement of dualization of Riggs Road from the District Line to Maryland Route 193 in Prince Georges County.

The project calls for construction of an urban dual facility with 34-foot roadways divided by a 16-foot median strip. In addition, storm sewer and sidewalk construction is stipulated as well as construction of a bridge over Sligo Creek. The distance involved is 2.4 miles.

The new highway will follow generally the alignment of present Riggs Road, but according to present plans, it will not be necessary to close the route to traffic.

Usually, in cases like this, one lane of the dual lanes is built while traffic uses the existing road. When the new lane is built, traffic uses it on a two-way basis while construction of the other lane progresses.

Bids are scheduled to be opened January 24, 1961, clearing the way for work to start in late winter.

Expect Delay

MANILA (UPI) — Philippine diplomats said Friday that Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) members could be expected to withhold action on Laos' bid for SEATO membership until the situation there clears up.

SEATO membership is by invitation of the eight member nations, and none of them have yet extended recognition to the new Laotian regime.

Wave Of Fires In Maryland Claims 2 Lives

By The Associated Press

A wave of fires has swept the Maryland area during the past several days. The worst Friday claimed the lives of two Baltimore children.

The children who died in the Baltimore fire, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Poe, were on the verge of rescue when they were engulfed in flames.

Authorities said that Poe, 35, his wife and two other children escaped by climbing through the first-floor window of their Curtis Bay home. Poe was reaching through the window for 12-year-old Theresa and 8-year-old Clayton when flames cut him off. The bodies of the two children were recovered an hour later.

Firemen had not determined the cause of the fire. They said the only appliance in the frame building was an oil burner.

Some 40 patients at the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in Baltimore were evacuated from one floor to another Friday, when fire broke out in an equipment penthouse on the roof. No one was reported injured.

Hook and ladder units responded to the two-alarm call, and firemen attacked the stubborn blaze from the roof and stairwell. Smoke and water damage to the penthouse at the top of the seven-story structure was extensive, and when the fire was quelled, 1½ feet of water had accumulated on the roof. Spectators blocks away reported seeing spectacular flames coming from the roof of the hospital.

Cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

In two Baltimore County fires, three persons were carried to safety from a blazing Towson apartment, and a $50,000 home was destroyed.

In the apartment fire, Mrs. Anna Schwartz, 80, was found on a bed almost overcome by smoke. She and another couple living in the building were carried out by firemen wearing gas masks. Dense smoke hindered operations, and six residents of a neighboring building were evacuated.

The country home of Hugh E. Kabler in Towson was destroyed Thursday, with damage estimated at $50,000.

In a fire at a Baltimore rubber plant Thursday, 75 employes were evacuated in icy weather. Firemen contained the blaze to a crude rubber room, but damage was extensive. The Frank G. Schenuit Rubber Co. manufactures airplane, industrial and truck tires.

Fires also struck in the suburbs of Washington Thursday. At Brookeville, Md., a freak boiler explosion caused a fire that heavily damaged the farm home of Leroy Raymond. Raymond and his wife said the fire also destroyed the Christmas presents they had bought for their five children.

Fire officials said the Raymond fire started this way:

A fire in a small pump house 12 feet from the main house set fire to a mattress and paper. The heat of the fire fused a safety valve on a water tank, steam pressure built up, and the top of the tank blew off. The top flew through the roof of the house, spreading embers and setting the structure on fire.

A Thursday fire in a Chevy Chase, Md. home also involved an explosion. Fire fighters were called to the home of Robert M. Morrissey. As firemen entered the building with a hose, oxygen from the open door reportedly reached a pocket of hot, unburned gas which exploded, blowing the firemen into the street and knocking out two second-story walls.

Baby Born In Auto Succumbs

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A prematurely born boy, whom the mother herself delivered in an automobile stuck in the snow, died Friday in Community Hospital at nearby Ephrata.

The child, weighing less than three pounds, had been kept in an incubator since its birth on a forlorn country road Dec. 13.

The mother, 27-year-old Mrs. Harry Ros, survived the experience remarkably well, doctors said.

She and her husband set out for the hospital from their country home, but soon bogged down in giant snowdrifts.

Neighbors rallied to help, one with a tractor, in an effort to free the car. For hours they shoveled. The tractor ran out of gas. Ros prayed and kept his wife warm.

When her time came she gave birth to the child in the front seat. Then Ros joined his friends in trying to shovel a way out. They kept at it for four hours and five and a half miles, until they reached a main road.

AEC Optimistic About York County A-Reactor

WASHINGTON (AP) — An advisory committee to the Atomic Energy Commission says it is still optimistic that an atomic reactor can be operated at Peach Bottom, York County, Pa., without undue risk. But, the committee adds, there are many questions still to be answered.

The report of the advisory committee on reactor safeguards was made public Friday by the AEC. The report pertains to the reactor which the Philadelphia Electric Co. and 51 associated utilities are planning to build at Peach Bottom.

Philadelphia Electric on July 25 applied for a construction permit.

The advisory committee, in a report to AEC chairman John A. McCone, said "the committee continues to be optimistic that a reactor of the general type proposed in the advanced gas-cooled concept can be constructed and operated at the Peach Bottom site without undue risk to the health and safety of the public," and added:

"General atomic has embarked on an extensive research and development program related to this reactor. The initial results from this program appear to be favorable.

"However, there are many questions that remain to be answered by the research and development program which is still in its early stages.

"Several of these questions are in the areas which could require major changes in the present design concepts and could conceivably change our early optimism.

County Board Considers Several Road Matters

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday considered a number of matters pertaining to roads.

A request from an official of the Alexandria (Va.) District, Boy Scouts of America, was received in which the Collier Run Road is involved.

R. Skagenberg, of the Virginia group, said a tract of land has been purchased on the road and plans for a number of camps are being considered. He said some of the unit plans to come here next week to look over the situation. He asked if the roadway into the property could be plowed to remove the snow.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said the section of roadway, about 800 feet, is not in the county system and cannot be plowed.

Right of ways for Mary Street in LaVale were received from property owners residing on the thoroughfare. This is the preliminary move needed to have the street placed in the county system.

A petition containing the names of several dozen persons who own property on Wilson Road was received. The group asks that the road be hardsurfaced.

Dividend Declared

The Board of Directors of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at a meeting held in New York this week declared a regular quarterly dividend of $1.12½ per share on the 4½% cumulative preferred stock.

This dividend is payable February 15, 1961, to stockholders of record at 3 p. m. on February 1.

Phone Lines Are Stolen

Thieves put long distance communications out of order earlier this week when they cut lines in the vicinity of McCoole.

Sheriff Paul Haberlein, who is investigating the vandalism, said 260 feet of the copper wire was removed from the poles.

The complaint was received by the sheriff from W. E. Burton, Clarksburg, district representative of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Sheriff Haberlein and a deputy sheriff are also checking in the LaVale area for the person who has been firing a high-powered rifle.

A dog owned by Orrie Sensabaugh, who lives at Green Point, was shot Thursday by one of the stray bullets.

The first governmental employment bureaus were established in France in 1843.

Power Service Disrupted In Garrett County Area

The Accident-Friendsville-Cove area of Garrett County was plunged into darkness for about 55 minutes Thursday night when equipment at the Potomac Edison Company sub-station at Carlos developed trouble.

The Carlos sub-station is located on Route 36 about two miles south of Frostburg. When the trouble developed, protective equipment immediately grounded out the 133,000 volt line, according to Olin Savage, assistant district manager at Frostburg.

Other automatic equipment tied in with other lines feeding Georges Creek area and Frostburg which were not affected. This line also served Lonaconing and Cresaptown.

But at the sub-station at Hoyes in Garrett County where there is no automatic equipment, service was disrupted and had to be restored by manual means. This caused the 55 minute delay.

The basketball game between Bruce High School and Northern High School at Accident was in its final 4½ minutes when the power failure occurred. Bruce was leading at the time and after a wait for power to be restored, the game was awarded to the Bruce team.

Janitors Given New Schedule

The janitors at the Court House will go on a five-day week as a result of a schedule which has been set up by County Commissioner John T. Mason.

For some years the men had been working a six-day week. The proposal was approved by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

There was some discussion as to the work week of the janitors at the Union Street County building. These men are working a six-day week.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States warned the Soviet Union anew Thursday of its "serious concern" over continuing airlift of weapons and supplies to pro-Communist rebels in Laos.

A State Department statement described the Soviet support of the rebel forces with weapons and ammunition as "a new and sinister factor in the situation" in recent weeks.

Legends Of The Christmas Tree Have Varied Origins

In the ninth century, the good Saint Winifred traveled about Northern Germany, preaching Christianity. One Christmas Eve, he came upon a group of people gathered around a huge oak tree to offer human sacrifices to their pagan gods. According to legend, Saint Winifred hewed down the great oak, and as it fell, a tall young fir appeared in its place. The appearance of the tree was hailed far and wide as a miracle, and from that day on, it became the custom for German families to gather about a tall evergreen on Christmas Eve.

Some historians trace the origin of lighting the Christmas tree to Martin Luther, who lived from 1483 to 1546. It is said he was strolling through the countryside one Christmas Eve, awed by the beauty of the evergreen forest under the starry sky. When he came home, he tried to re-create the scene for his family by attaching some lighted candles to a small evergreen.

These customs spread to the Scandinavian countries in the early 19th century, and from there to France and England. Records show that 35,000 Christmas trees were sold in Paris in 1890.

Yet the evergreen was symbolic in religious rites—even before the birth of Christ. Ancient Egyptians, when they observed the winter solstice, brought green date palms into their homes, as a symbol of "life triumphant over death." When the Romans celebrated the feast of Saturn, a part of the ceremony was the raising of an evergreen bough. And the early Scandinavians also did homage to the fir tree. To these peoples, the evergreen — tall and lush when everything around it had succumbed to winter's frost —was a wondrous thing . . . enjoying special favor from the gods.

Hessian soldiers brought the first Christmas tree to America. But the custom of lighting trees in public places originated here. Today, the United States has a national Christmas Tree, designated by the Department of the Interior. It is 267 feet high and is located in General Grant National Park near Fresno, California.

This season, two-thirds of the homes across the nation will be glowing with the warm lights of the Christmas tree. But something new will be added. Buffet tables and mantel pieces will sport their own tiny version of nature's own evergreen. Instructions for making these decorative little trees are easy to follow. Get the whole family together to make them.

A very decorative, three-dimensional tree can be made from strips of paper. First cut graduated strips, small ones for the top branches of the tree and longer ones for the bottom branches. Make the strips about an inch wide. Color the strips with crayons. Unusual patterns can be achieved by placing a textured material under the paper, and then rubbing the side of a crayon over the paper. A piece of corrugated board, a rubber sink mat, or anything that has a kind of bumpy or uneven surface will work well for "texture rubbings." Then punch holes, one on each end of the strips of paper.

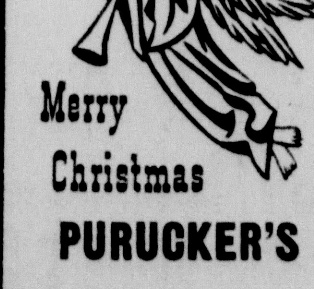
Place one end of the strip over the other to form an elongated loop matching the holes on each end. Then slip the looped strips of paper on to a stick. Start with the larger strips first and finish up with the smaller ones. Insert the stick into a block of clay. Arrange the "branches" so they are even all around the tree. Then add a star or angel to the top of the tree.

Another colorful tree can be made from crayons and freezer paper. First sprinkle fine crayon shavings on to the waxy side of a sheet of freezer paper. Get as transparent a freezer paper as you can; the more transparent the paper, the more luminous the color will be. Use an old vegetable grater to make the crayon shavings, or simply scrape the wax crayon with a flat stick, such as a tongue depressor. When a generous sprinkling of crayon shavings has been scattered over the freezer paper, cover with a second sheet of freezer paper. This time, be sure to place the waxy side face down. In other words, the two waxy sides must face each other. Apply a warm, not hot, iron in order to melt the crayon and fuse the two waxy sheets together. In ironing the paper, use a lifting motion, rather than a gliding motion, in order to keep the colors from blending together too much. Cut four tall triangular shapes from these sheets. Make a one-half inch crease along the two long sides of each of the triangles. Staple the folded edge of one triangle to the folded edge of another. Repeat until all four triangles have been stapled together to form a tall pyramidal shape. A long chain of gold beads or a similar Christmas decoration can be strung around the tree. Punch holes through the stapled edges, and insert the chain. Start near the top, and go around the tree several times until you reach the bottom. Then add a Christmas ornament to the top of the tree.

A third mantel or table decoration can be made from a sheet of paper approximately 12 inches by 24 inches in size. First draw a semi-circle on the paper, with a twelve-inch radius. Cut it out. Then fold the semi-circle in half, forming a quarter of a pie shape. Fold in half two or three more times. Now open the folds, and refold into accordion pleats, along the creases you just made. Place the paper on a flat surface and decorate by coloring alternate pleats with crayons. You can also make slits in the uncolored pleats, to which you can later attach small ornaments. Tape the two straight edges together to form a cone-shaped tree. Insert a stick through the top end, and hold in place with tape. Then insert the "trunk" of the tree into a paper dish filled with clay. A small ornament can be placed on top of the tree as the finishing touch.

While you're decorating your trees, you might remember that the evergreen didn't always have its gay Christmas dress of brightly colored bulbs and balls, nor its tinsel and angel hair. At one time, popcorn and tufts of cotton were used to simulate snow . . . apples, and strings of cranberries provided color. The idea of decorating the tree probably stems from the ancient custom of hanging foodstuffs high on the branches of evergreens to keep them out of the reach of prowling animals.

When its purpose is served, the tree should be disposed of properly. A Twelfth Night Ceremony, during which Christmas greenery is collected and burned in a blaze of glory, is the custom in some American cities . . . a fitting end for a tree of such rich tradition and sentiment.



Merry Christmas

The Greatest Gift

It's wonderful to receive "the world" for Christmas—but think how much more wonderful it would be if we could give Christmas to the world! If the true Christian spirit could permeate the globe, all fear of war, destruction, extermination, would be over.

It is only through the Church that Christian teachings can hope to reach to the darkest corners on earth, bringing enlightenment in their wake. By proclaiming God's eternal message, the Church can bring the hope of peace closer to reality.

But if Christmas is to be given to the world, then all of us must first do our part by living our own individual lives in the Christian way. Start now—by attending regularly the church of your faith.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Greatest Gift

It's wonderful to receive "the world" for Christmas—but think how much more wonderful it would be if we could give Christmas to the world! If the true Christian spirit could permeate the globe, all fear of war, destruction, extermination, would be over.

It is only through the Church that Christian teachings can hope to reach to the darkest corners on earth, bringing enlightenment in their wake. By proclaiming God's eternal message, the Church can bring the hope of peace closer to reality.

But if Christmas is to be given to the world, then all of us must first do our part by living our own individual lives in the Christian way. Start now—by attending regularly the church of your faith.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 12 years old and having a big fight with my parents. They think I should go to bed at 8:30 at night during the week. All the good TV shows go on then and I don't get any entertainment all night. Please answer in the paper and tell me what you think of parents who like to watch TV themselves but don't let their kids watch.

—TREATED TERRIBLE

DEAR TERRIBLE: You say "all the good shows go on after 8:30." Like what? If you tell me which "good" shows you want to stay up for I'll write to your parents in your behalf—if I agree.

I haven't seen many TV shows of late worth looking at—day OR night. Some excellent ones like Mr. Wizard, Kukla, Fran and Ollie and The Search were thrown off to make way for more shoot-em ups and murder stories. You rattled the wrong cage, Junior.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A year ago my husband's sister came to Ohio to live. She wrote ahead and asked if she and her two sons could stay with us for a few weeks "until they found a place." I said all right.

Two weeks later she found a steady job, with good pay. This is a year later, Ann, and they are still in our house and show no sign of moving out. She used to go out looking for apartments (found something wrong with every single one) but she doesn't even look any more.

I have three children of my own and I'm exhausted from MY work, not to mention hers. She thinks because she works all day she shouldn't do anything at night. I take care of her kids just as I do my own, do their laundry, and cook for the whole gang.

She pays $14 a week for everything. It doesn't even cover the grocery bill. My husband sits there like a dummy. What can I do?—DISH RAG

DEAR RAG: You sound like a PAIR of dummies to me. Tell Her Royal Highness she has two weeks to find a place or she'll have to go to a hotel. Remind her every day that she has just so many days left (you know, ten more shopping days till Christmas). When she discovers you mean business, she'll leave—and not until.

DEAR ANN: If I don't get some help I'll crack up. I am 25 and have made lots of mistakes in my life. Two years ago I met a man who was willing to accept me, knowing I was no angel. He assured me he loved me and nothing else mattered.

We live together and everyone thinks we are married. I learned recently that I'm pregnant. I want to get married right away but he doesn't. He firmly believes that marriage ruins love and that it's nobody's business what we do, so long as we treat each other right. I have talked to him until I am blue in the face and I can't get him to see it my way. Please, Ann, where do I go from here?

—MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED UP: Ever try to get a farmer to buy oats for a dead horse? Same thing. Your only hope is to tell him you'll settle for nothing short of marriage now that a child is on the way, and stick to your guns even if it means going it alone.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Wyoming Governor To Enter U.S. Senate

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — Gov. Joe Hickey, a Democrat, announced Thursday that he would be Wyoming's new U.S. senator, replacing Keith Thomson, the Republican senator-elect who died Dec. 9.

Hickey said he would resign as governor so that Secretary of State Jack Gage, who will become governor, can appoint him to fill the vacancy.

Rebel Arms Seized

PARIS (AP)—A chartered Lebanese plane was compelled to land at Oran in Algeria by the French air force Wednesday night and was found to be carrying five tons of arms and ammunition for Algerian rebels, French authorities said here today.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Rally That Christmas Spirit!

There seems to be no let-up at all until Christmas Day — when everyone senses a sudden letdown. All those weeks of anticipation and preparation have emptied many families of the joy of actual celebration. How about appointing yourself a committee of one to make Christmas Day sparkle for your family?

Fashion your festive plot from little things, easy-to-do bits of "business" that mingle to stage a happy setting. Begin with yourself . . . for your own appearance and attitude are important in creating a merry atmosphere.

For this, you may have to pretend a pep you don't feel at daybreak. But do it, even if it's near-killing. You can give in to complaints and catnaps the next day. Try to stall seeing "what Santa brought" until you've freshened your face, put on lipstick, combed your hair and donned a handsome robe (and a breath of Cologne). You'll feel better . . . and you'll certainly look better on the color snapshots Dad should take to record this picture-book scene for posterity.

Try to overlook the mess made by wrappings and ribbons. Pretend you don't hear the children's inevitable arguments and the still-more-certain noise from toys. Just this once, when a new book tears or a new plane shatters or an ornament is knocked from the tree, don't scold: sympathize. After all, it is a Birthday . . . a once-a-year opportunity for forgiving, understanding, overlooking, loving. The next day is soon enough for cleaning up and correcting.

Later on, before Christmas afternoon succumbs into the usual drag, perk things up by prettying up. Deck yourself out in your most glittering "informal" and, for a pixie touch, tie a couple of jingle bells to your wrist or shoe. You'll shine even more spectacularly if your eye makeup and hair spray reflect flects of gold—or silver dust. The family will love it!

If ever "music hath charms," Christmas Day is the time to employ them, so keep the age-old carols and hymns as well as the newest songs of the season humming away in the background all day long, via hi-fi or radio. (Remember, next day you'll hear them no more!)

Better still, sing them yourself and have the family join in for an old-fashioned hour of caroling. You might even carry your caroling outdoors, to spread cheer and good will among your neighbors. For, just like you, they will be delighted at any effort to make the joy of Christmas Day last just as long as it possibly can.

P.S. from J.R.P. — Merry Christmas Day!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Literally up in the air, winging back to Hollywood as this is written, is veteran actor Basil Rathbone, with a contract in his pocket to star in "St. George and the Seven Curses" for United Artists.

Always the epitome of elegance, it will be nice to have Basil on the screen again in a new picture—although he hasn't been neglected with all those re-runs of his films on TV.

I was interested to hear that Basil has been in Australia on a lecture tour which is where producer Bert Gordon reached him to hail him back to movietown for this oddly titled movie.

The Christmas cards this year are more beautiful than at any time in my memory. Some of them are beautiful enough to be framed. High on the list is that of Francis Cardinal Spellman with his photograph, praying the blessing of God's peace for our own beloved America and all the peoples of the world. It is so beautiful I wish I had space to reprint the entire prayer. Richard Cardinal Cushing sends a special greeting from Boston with a letter I am having framed and a relic from Rome.

Each year the William Randolph Hearst, Jrs., out-do themselves. As usual there is a beautiful color photograph of their two handsome blonde sons, William Randolph Hearst, III, and Austin who signed the card.

The religious cards are especially beautiful this year. One, a famous reproduction on silk of a Boucher painting now hanging in the Uffizi Gallery, comes from Joni and Tony Aquavivia. A painted Madonna and Child bears the name of Mary and Sonny Whitney. Diane and Charles Skouras' card is a reproduction of a masterpiece, so is that of Sorella and Spyrous Skouras. The George Skouras family's is a reproduction of Madonna and Bambino by Neroccio Bartolomeo Landi, and there's a beautiful modern Madonna and Child from Pilar and Duke Wayne.

I wish I had space to mention all of the cards. Other beautiful religious cards are from the David Hearsts, the Randolph Hearsts, Mrs. William R. Heart, Sr., the Joe E. Browns, Perry Como, Dolly and Enrique Schondube, Constance Towers and Eugene McGrath, Virginia Grey, Suzanne Mayer, Margo and Eddie Albert, Anna Maria Alberghetti.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 12 years old and having a big fight with my parents. They think I should go to bed at 8:30 at night during the week. All the good TV shows go on then and I don't get any entertainment all night. Please answer in the paper and tell me what you think of parents who like to watch TV themselves but don't let their kids watch.

—TREATED TERRIBLE

DEAR TERRIBLE: You say "all the good shows go on after 8:30." Like what? If you tell me which "good" shows you want to stay up for I'll write to your parents in your behalf—if I agree.

I haven't seen many TV shows of late worth looking at—day OR night. Some excellent ones like Mr. Wizard, Kukla, Fran and Ollie and The Search were thrown off to make way for more shoot-em ups and murder stories. You rattled the wrong cage, Junior.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A year ago my husband's sister came to Ohio to live. She wrote ahead and asked if she and her two sons could stay with us for a few weeks "until they found a place." I said all right.

Two weeks later she found a steady job, with good pay. This is a year later, Ann, and they are still in our house and show no sign of moving out. She used to go out looking for apartments (found something wrong with every single one) but she doesn't even look any more.

I have three children of my own and I'm exhausted from MY work, not to mention hers. She thinks because she works all day she shouldn't do anything at night. I take care of her kids just as I do my own, do their laundry, and cook for the whole gang.

She pays $14 a week for everything. It doesn't even cover the grocery bill. My husband sits there like a dummy. What can I do?—DISH RAG

DEAR RAG: You sound like a PAIR of dummies to me. Tell Her Royal Highness she has two weeks to find a place or she'll have to go to a hotel. Remind her every day that she has just so many days left (you know, ten more shopping days till Christmas). When she discovers you mean business, she'll leave—and not until.

An Alarming Rise In Crime

Preliminary figures of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the first nine months of this year reveal a dangerous increase in serious crime. Not only is 1960 exceeding last year in the number of burglaries, murders, assaults and larcenies, but each succeeding month seems to pick up crime momentum from the prior one.

Earlier in the year, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported the first quarter incidences of serious crime were up 7 per cent over last year. At the half year mark, new criminal cases had brought the total 9 per cent higher than in the corresponding period last year. Now the increase is 11 per cent for the first nine months.

A review of the statistics submitted by police departments throughout the nation which produced the national totals reveals the most troublesome spots to be cities with populations in excess of 25,000. The average crime rate in large cities grew from 8 to 14 per cent, the increase averaged 11 per cent in cities of less than 25,000 population and was up 5 per cent in rural areas.

It is naive to pass off the current crime wave as a malady of congested areas. The fact that all sections of the country contribute to it is sufficient reason for every responsible citizen to aid law enforcement officials in the difficult task of not only curtailing the upward swing of major crimes, but striving for their reduction.

The growing ranks of thugs preying upon society can be stopped through defensive measures (such as taking the simple precaution of locking the home and automobile) as well as by direct aid to law officers. Much of the blame for rising crime must be laid at the doorstep of a public too complacent about its security to protect it. The result is not only an inviting target, but an easily achieved addition to Mr. Hoover's statistics.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Christmas 1960

And so the rhythm of life moves its constant course and comes around to where it was only a year before — another Christmas.

As in nature, so it is in the affairs of man, no matter how materialistic his life may be, his soul cries out for life and love, for joy and peace.

So each year, the Holy Days of his particular faith remind him of the permanence of life, of the eternity of his ancestry. Those who celebrate Christmas go back 1960 years for their birthday and there are those who go back 4000 and 5000 years in their historic memory. It is this historic memory which really is what holidays and holy days are for. They remind man that he is not alone, that life did not begin with him nor will it end with him.

Christmas has universal acceptance, even among those who are not Christians, because the form of our lives is essentially based upon the concepts which Jesus spoke with such eloquence. What do we all crave in this day as in His day? We crave peace — peace of mind, peace in our homes, peace in our nation, peace among nations. Jesus, who moved among men in the warring, imperial Roman Empire, sought peace and social justice:

"No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other.

"Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

In an age of materialism, we need to be reminded:

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal:

"But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth or rust doth corrupt and where thieves do not break through nor steal:

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

So this is the essential lesson of Christmas in the year of danger and courage when we are being pressed in the mould of an evil doctrine. We know that we sit amid plenty and we dine and wine and purchase compulsively but the things are as dross because we fear war and we witness evil and we wonder if man will ever return to the good life.

This is what Christmas means and in 1961, through the initiative of Pope John XXIII, it is possible that a new day may dawn among those who believe in God's mercy but who do not believe each other. They may sit down, the communicants and the ex-communicated, to break bread and to ask: What have we done to God's house, we mortal men who have been graced with wisdom? We have spent centuries hating each other, whereas we have been counselled to love our neighbors.

We mouth prayers thoughtlessly and by rote but our hearts have become sterile and we forget that throughout his long travail upon this Earth, man has lived by faith and only where faith is strong can life be rich. Jesus said:

"Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?"

Shall we be cowards before the onslaught of the sons of evil? Shall we say that if we stand firm in our faith, we shall be destroyed by bombs and missiles and rockets? Shall we perish from fear before we die? Shall we say to our sons, bow before the idols of Marx, Lenin, Stalin, Khrushchev lest you be forced to defend your faith and your civilization and the God of your fathers? Have we the courage of the Maccabees or are we Pharisees who bow to the powers that threaten?

Jesus came among men as a Jew. He did not appear in Rome or in Athens or in Antioch. He appeared in Jerusalem among a people who had a religion of social justice. He carried that Faith before Him until it became the foundation of Western civilization.

Men always betray what is sacred and in the name of the beautiful and good commit evil. But what is beautiful is still beautiful and what is good is still good. And may your Christmas Day bring to your heart joy and peace and a love for all men.

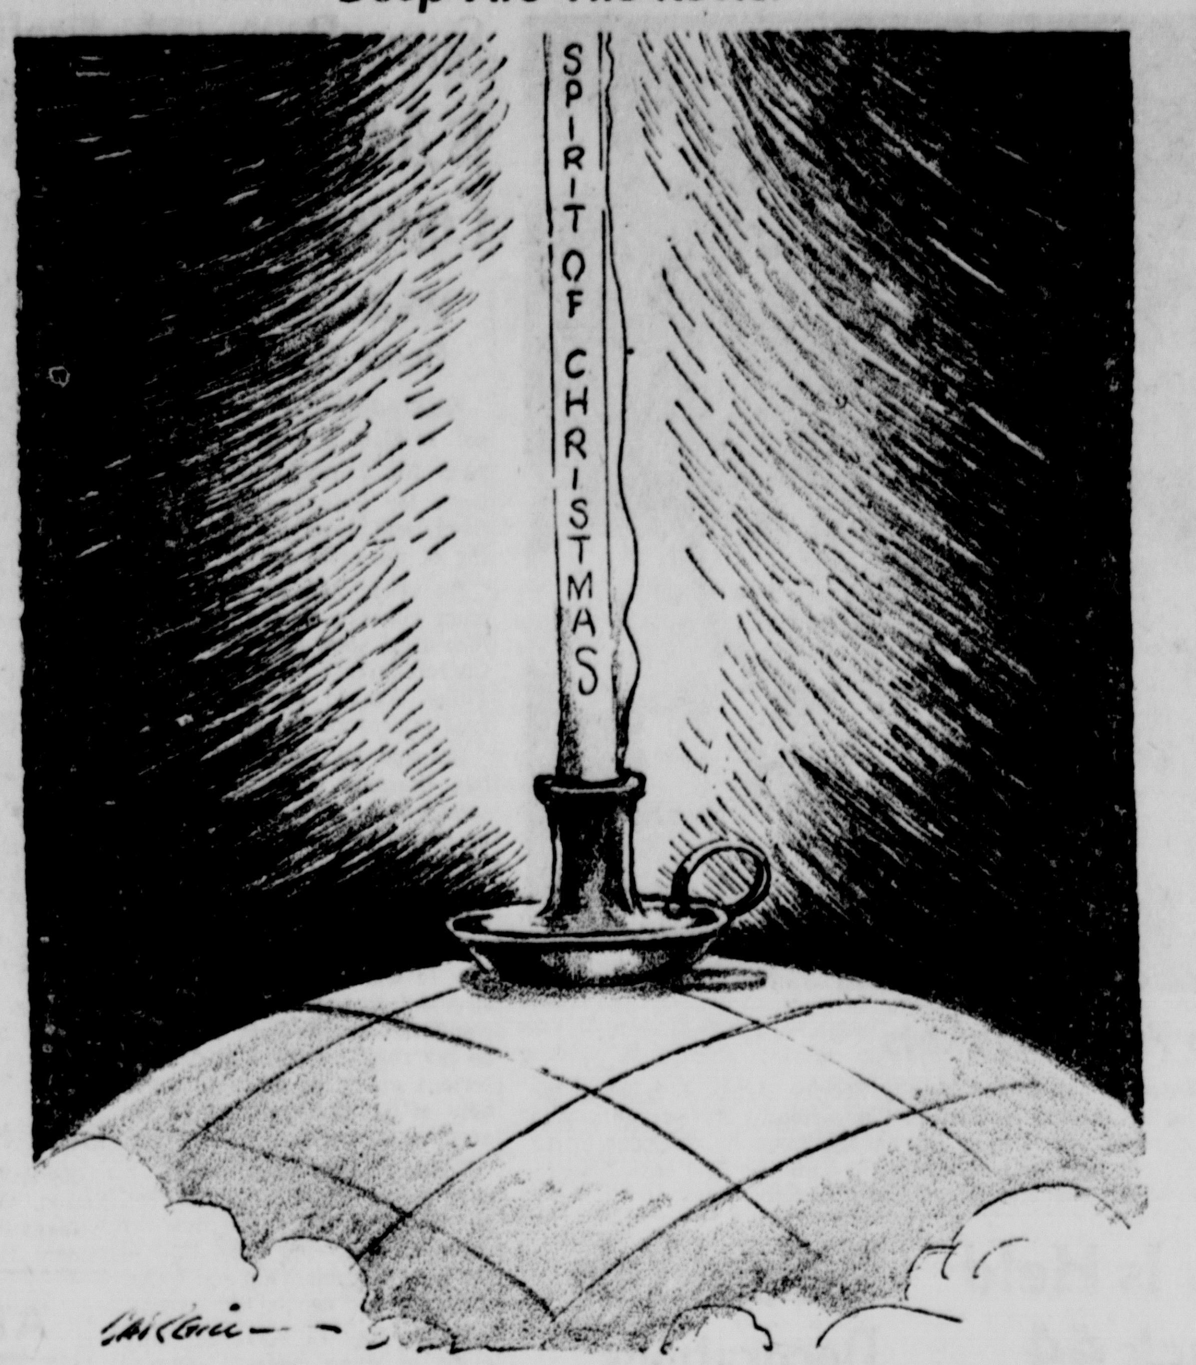
Deep Are The Roots!



John F. Kennedy Now Has The Ball At His Feet

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

It was both a disheartening and an oddly stirring experience to test the atmosphere on the other side of the Atlantic after the American election, as this reporter has just been doing.

It was disheartening because the test revealed, for the first time, the full extent of the alarming loss of ground by the United States in the last eight years. While officials and politicians in the other capitals of the Western alliance still had to count on doing business with the Eisenhower administration, they did not speak frankly to vagrant reporters. Now they do.

Their verdict on America's recent leadership of the West, whether it be just or unjust, is certainly cruel. The President's moral virtues of course continue to be respected. But that is about all there is on the favorable side of the balance sheet, except perhaps in the case of some British officials who reflect the personal views of Prime Minister Macmillan.

"A vacuum of leadership when only America could lead," is the thing most complained about. After this comes "the difficulty of finding anyone in Washington you could talk to." In the Allied capitals, in fact, the American government of these last years is thought to have been feeble, unimaginative, and sadly deficient in men of first class ability with whom great issues could be effectively thrashed out.

The one man President-elect Kennedy has kept on, Under Secretary of State Douglas Dillon, is the one Eisenhower policy-maker who has earned the kind of universal, enthusiastic admiration abroad that was given, in the old days, to such figures as Robert A. Lovett and John J. McCloy. Secretary of State Herter and Secretary of Defense Gates are also admired and respected, though somewhat less widely; and there the human credits end. The debits include a good many Eisenhower policy-makers who have simply become public laughing stocks.

If this estimate of recent American performance is depressing, and perhaps unfair, it is at least balanced by our allies' hopes for American performance in the time ahead. These hopes are stirring to any American with natural pride. Yet they are, quite frankly, fairly desperate hopes. Allied officials and leaders at all levels are convinced that the future of the Western alliance will be very dark indeed unless there is a powerful rebirth of vigor and intelligence in Washington; and having this conviction, they are forced to hope.

Towards President-elect Kennedy himself, there is a decided attitude of wait-and-see. The shape of his personality, the force of his character, the tendency of his policies, are alike unknown to most of the leaders in Bonn and Paris and even London. Before anyone hurries to the rooftops to raise a cheer for the Kennedy administration, everyone wants to know what the new Administration's positions are going to be on a whole series of crucial issues.

The basis of our Allies' hopes is not confidence in Kennedy, in fact, but confidence in the United States. The other nations of the West by no means accept the sometimes-heard thesis, that America is now "a tired nation." They do not believe that the deficiencies (as they saw them) of the Eisenhower years have been anything more than temporary phenomena. They are convinced that this country has plenty of stuff in it, still, to provide the rebirth of leadership which they long for so greatly.

The intensity of this longing for more vigorous American leadership of the West is the measure, in turn, of the scope of President-elect Kennedy's opportunity. Throughout history, the strongest powers in wide-spreading alliances have most often been the object of jealousy and suspicion. Instead of being begged to lead with vigor and decision, they have usually been obstructed by the lesser allies who feared and disliked their strength. But in this case, it is different. All the Western allies acknowledge that America must lead, if anyone is to lead; and all acknowledge that leadership is badly needed.

The tangle of critical problems Kennedy will inherit from Eisenhower is downright appalling. His leadership will be particularly hampered by the long neglected, then hysterically ventilated problem of the balance of payments. Wealth is what gives America authority, and the balance of payments problem therefore tends to undermine American authority. Yet Kennedy has the ball at his feet, as far as the Western alliance goes, if he only knows how to kick it hard and fast.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINGTON — President-elect John F. Kennedy is receiving virtually universal commendations for selections he has made to his official family.

Kennedy has surprised political Washington with the non-political character of most of the appointments he has announced to date. Most often mentioned as "good" choices are Dean Rusk to be secretary of State and Robert V. McNamara as secretary of Defense.

It is apparent that these two top offices were filled by Kennedy without partisan considerations. It is necessary to reach back to the Korean and World War II periods to find a similar non-partisan presidential attitude toward Cabinet appointments.

Naming of these men, along with some other Kennedy announcements, have encouraged many capital observers to the belief that the Massachusetts senator will travel a moderate course in the White House.

This opinion is a sharp reversal from the view that prevailed during the political campaign when all indications pointed to an ultra-liberal administration should the Democrats capture the presidency.

There are some in Washington who are convinced that Kennedy has been deliberately trying to create this new impression in the appointments he has made. Some of his intimates have been sensitive to the possibility that any Kennedy proposals would be attacked as "too liberal" by Republicans and conservative Democrats in Congress.

By spreading the impression that his will be a moderate administration, Kennedy is increasing the chances that his program will be acceptable in larger part than otherwise.

'Harmless' Food Poisonous In Big Quantities

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some people are foolish, as demonstrated by the woman who became ill after eating more than half an ounce of nutmeg. This popular flavoring agent is harmless when sprinkled on eggnogs and other foods or beverages. At one time it was used as a medication, as were many herbs, seeds, and plants.

But too much nutmeg is poisonous, as the woman in question found out. She awakened in the night with a burning sensation in the lower abdomen which was so severe she feared she was dying. She became disoriented and screamed and thrashed about until she fell into a semi-stupor. On coming to, she became overactive again and screamed about dying but finally fell into a deep sleep. On awakening she was dizzy, nauseated, and numb all over but quiet. At intervals her restless and noisy episodes returned but she got well ultimately.

The technic of pill swallowing is mastered easily by some. Others find it difficult and Dr. Myron S. Denholtz's method may work better than hiding the pill in a piece of bread. He advises: "Raise the tongue and place the pill or capsule in the floor of the mouth, just behind the lower teeth. In this position, the bitterest pill causes no taste unless held for a long time.

"Holding the tongue in the elevated position, a glass of water is brought to the lips and the patient drinks, completely ignoring the pill behind his teeth. During the process of swallowing, the medication disappears down the throat without taste or sensation."

Down the hatch.

Early studies indicated that the cholesterol level of the blood of alcoholics was lower than that of nonalcoholics. But a more recent test on 30 volunteer prisoners reversed this theory. These men were given 3 ounces of whisky daily and the blood was checked. The net result was a rise in blood cholesterol.

Keep this in mind when you indulge in holiday cheers.

ARTERIOSCLEROSIS

E. R. writes: What are the symptoms of hardening of the arteries in the different parts of the body?

REPLY

It would take a book to answer this question. Hardening of the arteries may exist for decades before the circulation to a specific organ is reduced sufficiently to cause symptoms. If a vessel leading to the brain is blocked, stroke occurs; involvement of the coronary arteries produces chest pain (angina or coronary thrombosis); and plugging of a leg artery causes pain or gangrene.

BOILS ARE INFECTIOUS

Mrs. S. T. writes: My husband gets boils frequently. Are they contagious?

REPLY

DEFORMED TOE

A. E. K. writes: Is amputation the only cure of a hammer toe that gives trouble?

REPLY

No. Various operations have been devised to correct this deformity.

NERVOUS STOMACH

C. B. H. writes: What causes excitement or nervousness to settle in the stomach or intestines?

REPLY

The gastrointestinal tract is the sounding board for many nervous episodes. This occurs because of a close tie-up between the nervous system and these organs via the vagus nerve. Cutting this nerve was described some years ago as "divorcing the stomach from the brain."

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

During a Christmas rush in a big department store, one of the dear little kiddies kicked the store's Santa Claus so hard in the shin that he had to put up a sign, "Gone to feed my reindeers," for a half hour until the pain abated.

And speaking of last Christmas, here's an entry Joan Brooks swears she copied from a 10-year-old's diary:

December 25: Pop gave me a swell new air rifle, but it's pouring so I can't go hunting.

December 26: Still raining. Can't go hunting.

December 27: Still raining. Can't go hunting.

December 28: Still raining. Couldn't wait any longer. Shot Uncle Morris."

The stoutish gent essaying the Santa role in a Montreal department store last year had a really original request to ponder over. A little fellow climbed up on his lap and whispered hopefully in his ear, "Do you think you could wangle me a discount on a new bicycle?"

Budget Director Stans Gives Painstaking Help To Kennedy

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Sometimes a newspaperman finds that out of a clash with government officials comes better understanding and appreciation of that official. Recently I had that experience with Director of the Budget Maurice Stans.

Some time ago I reported that Mr. Stans and his uncle by marriage, Ben Gellenback, plus a group of other investors, had leased 1,060,000 acres of government land in Alaska for which Richfield Oil had paid them $300,000 for oil drilling rights. Because of Mr. Stans' potent position in government, with the power of life or death over the Interior Department which controls Alaskan oil lands, it was pointed out that this put the budget director in a possible conflict-of-interest position.

Mr. Stans was interviewed by a staff reporter at the time, and his statement that he had put his share of the Alaskan lease in a charitable trust was duly reported. It was noted, however, that the trust had not been filed with Internal Revenue, and that the trust seemed to be an agreement between himself and his lawyer.

I now find that although the facts were right the conclusions were wrong.

Although Mr. Stans did forget to file the trust with Internal Revenue, this was an oversight understandable with a busy man. And the important fact is that Director Stans has deeded any revenue from the Alaskan oil lands to a bona fide charitable trust, with the provision only that he have a right to allocate the funds. This he has done to the Children's Nature Museum, Rock Hill, S.C., which has his big-game trophies, to the Cradle in Chicago from which he has adopted three children, and to an institution which has been caring for Korean orphans.

I am completely satisfied that Mr. Stans was thoroughly ethical and leaned over backward not to profit from the Alaskan oil leases, over which he, as budget director, could have had indirect influence.

No. 2 Man In Washington

Most people don't realize it, but the director of the budget, no matter who is in the White House, has almost life and death power over government. He's also vitally important to the efficient transition of government. That was why one of the first new members of his official family President-elect Kennedy appointed was Budget Director David Bell, also why the only man Eisenhower appointed to cooperate with Truman in 1952 was his new budget director, Joe Dodge.

In this connection, I can report that outgoing Director Maurice Stans has done a unique thing. He has analyzed the Democratic platform and prepared "position papers" regarding each point in the platform in order to help the new President carry it out.

This doesn't mean that Stans, a Republican, agrees with all the program Kennedy has promised. Some he agrees with, some he doesn't. It does mean, however, that as a believer in efficient government Maury Stans wants to help the new administration in every possible way. President Eisenhower gave an order to this effect, and to carry it out, Stans has also prepared 70 memos for the Kennedy Administration on various government agencies and problems, detailing exactly what certain programs are doing and what they are costing.

No man in the Eisenhower Administration knows the government better than Stans. He sits in on every meeting of the cabinet and of the policy-making National Security Administration. He sees the President privately more than any other agency head, sometimes two or three times a day.

Despite his power, Stans is a modest man who describes his job, a bit ruefully, as "the distribution of dissatisfaction." As the chief "no" man of government, he doesn't expect to win any popularity contests.

Big-Game Hunter

Personally, Stans is dominated by two passions. One is stalking big game in Africa, the other stalking government waste in Washington. Whichever he is doing, he moves as softly as the big cats he stalks.

On his African safaris, Stans has bagged enough big game to stock the Children's Nature Museum of Rock Hill, S. C., with jungle trophies and to outfit his wife in leopard-skin coat, zebra hat, shoes, purse, and a lion-skin handbag.

The son of an immigrant Belgian house painter who was also koncertmeister of the town's brass band, Stans grew up in the farming village of Shakopee, Minn., where he learned to toot the saxophone. When he left Shakopee, he took with him his sax plus $151 he had earned playing it for a local dance band.

He studied accounting at night at Northwestern University, supported himself by day as a stenographer, and, without waiting for his degree, went to work as office boy for Alexander Grant and Company, a Chicago accounting firm with six employes.

Within three years, he was a partner in the firm, later the sole owner. He built it into one of the 10 top accounting firms in the nation with offices in a dozen cities.

To avoid conflict of interest, he sold out in order to come to Washington in 1953 as a budget watchdog—at first in the Post Office Department. His rise up the bureaucratic ladder was as quiet and spectacular as his rise in the business world. He became a consultant to the Post Office, then deputy postmaster general, then in 1957 moved over to the powerful Budget Bureau as deputy director. Six months later he was named budget chief.

When Stans departs from Washington next month, he will leave the government's books in better shape than any incoming administration has ever found them.

New Principles

By John Crosby

The year is drawing to a close, a year of change, a year of awakening. Nineteen sixty winds up on a note of deepening business recession and vaulting moral hope. The material abundance in which we damned near drowned is ebbing, a little bit anyway; but the inner fibre of the nation seems more resolute than in many years.

Nineteen sixty may go down in the history books as the year in which Americans rediscovered the individual. From the two loftiest platforms in the nation—the White House and the Catholic bishops—came almost the same warning and appeal. Virtually the only ringing declaration to come from the President's Commission on National Goals was that one calling for "extraordinary personal responsibility" on the part of the individual.

The American Catholic Bishops at their annual meeting at Catholic University issued a far more complex, thoughtful, and searching document which, I think, summed up the national malaise with eloquence and precision. Americans, said the Bishops, relied too much on their unions, their corporations, their nation, even the United Nations, for their thinking and their action. The Bishops asked a return to individual morality. They particularly deplored what they called "situational ethics" as opposed to "unchanging principles." It was a rather different way of saying the individual should be Inner Directed rather than Other Directed.

"A fresh evocation of the principles and practice of personal responsibility can revivify our society and help to stem the seemingly inexhaustible march toward the automation of human beings and the steady loss of that freedom which is man's distinctive attribute," said the Bishops. "It will curb the mental lethargy and inertia which permits organizations to usurp, mainly by default, the rights of their members."

A remarkable document. But already there are signs that perhaps the great day of conformity and the Organization Man is coming to a close. The place to look for any great changes in national mood is among the young. They are the ones who are coming up; if there is to be a rebirth, it is in their hands.

Already there are all kinds of signs that the Passive Generation the Silent Generation, is not at all the appropriate title for these youngsters. In my lectures to college students, I detect a new note of intellectual vigor and, above all, of purpose and pride of aim that is vastly encouraging.

In its current issue "Look" calls it "The Explosive Generation," the exact opposite of Silent or Passive, and the magazine points to the student riots around the world, to the sit-in demonstrations on behalf of equality for Negroes.

Youth fears, said "Look," no change but stagnation. 'What I care about most,' said a New England college senior, 'is the most terrible of all curses found in the Book of Isaiah: "Make the heart of this people fat, make their ears heavy, and shut their eyes." I would like to see the opposite of this.' A surprising new generation is eager to do battle against the prophet's curse."

So long as youth doesn't fear stagnation, there won't be any. It was stagnation among youth itself five years ago that was truly alarming. That was the group that wanted only to disappear into the Organization, not to attract attention, not to risk censure.

That day has passed. The nation has just elected a 43-year-old President and among his most enthusiastic supporters were kids who couldn't vote for him because they were below voting age. I can remember no election in which youngsters got so actively involved, so emotionally involved not only to Kennedy but to Nixon.

Through all this runs one clear thread—a decline in the emphasis on the material man, and an increasing recognition in the importance of the human spirit, of the vital need to our well-being of abstractions—whether we call it morality or responsibility or goals. Whatever it is, it's something the union can't get for you; you have to do it yourself. It's been a great year for the individual and I think this is just the beginning of a cult of the individual that should be very exciting.

They may sit down, the communicants and the ex-communicated, to break bread and to ask: What have we done to God's house, we mortal men who have been graced with wisdom? We have spent centuries hating each other, whereas we have been counselled to love our neighbors.

We mouth prayers thoughtlessly and by rote but our hearts have become sterile and we forget that throughout his long travail upon this Earth, man has lived by faith and only where faith is strong can life be rich. Jesus said:

"Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?"

Shall we be cowards before the onslaught of the sons of evil? Shall we say that if we stand firm in our faith, we shall be destroyed by bombs and missiles and rockets? Shall we perish from fear before we die? Shall we say to our sons, bow before the idols of Marx, Lenin, Stalin, Khrushchev lest you be forced to defend your faith and your civilization and the God of your fathers? Have we the courage of the Maccabees or are we Pharisees who bow to the powers that threaten?

Jesus came among men as a Jew. He did not appear in Rome or in Athens or in Antioch. He appeared in Jerusalem among a people who had a religion of social justice. He carried that Faith before Him until it became the foundation of Western civilization.

Men always betray what is sacred and in the name of the beautiful and good commit evil. But what is beautiful is still beautiful and what is good is still good. And may your Christmas Day bring to your heart joy and peace and a love for all men.

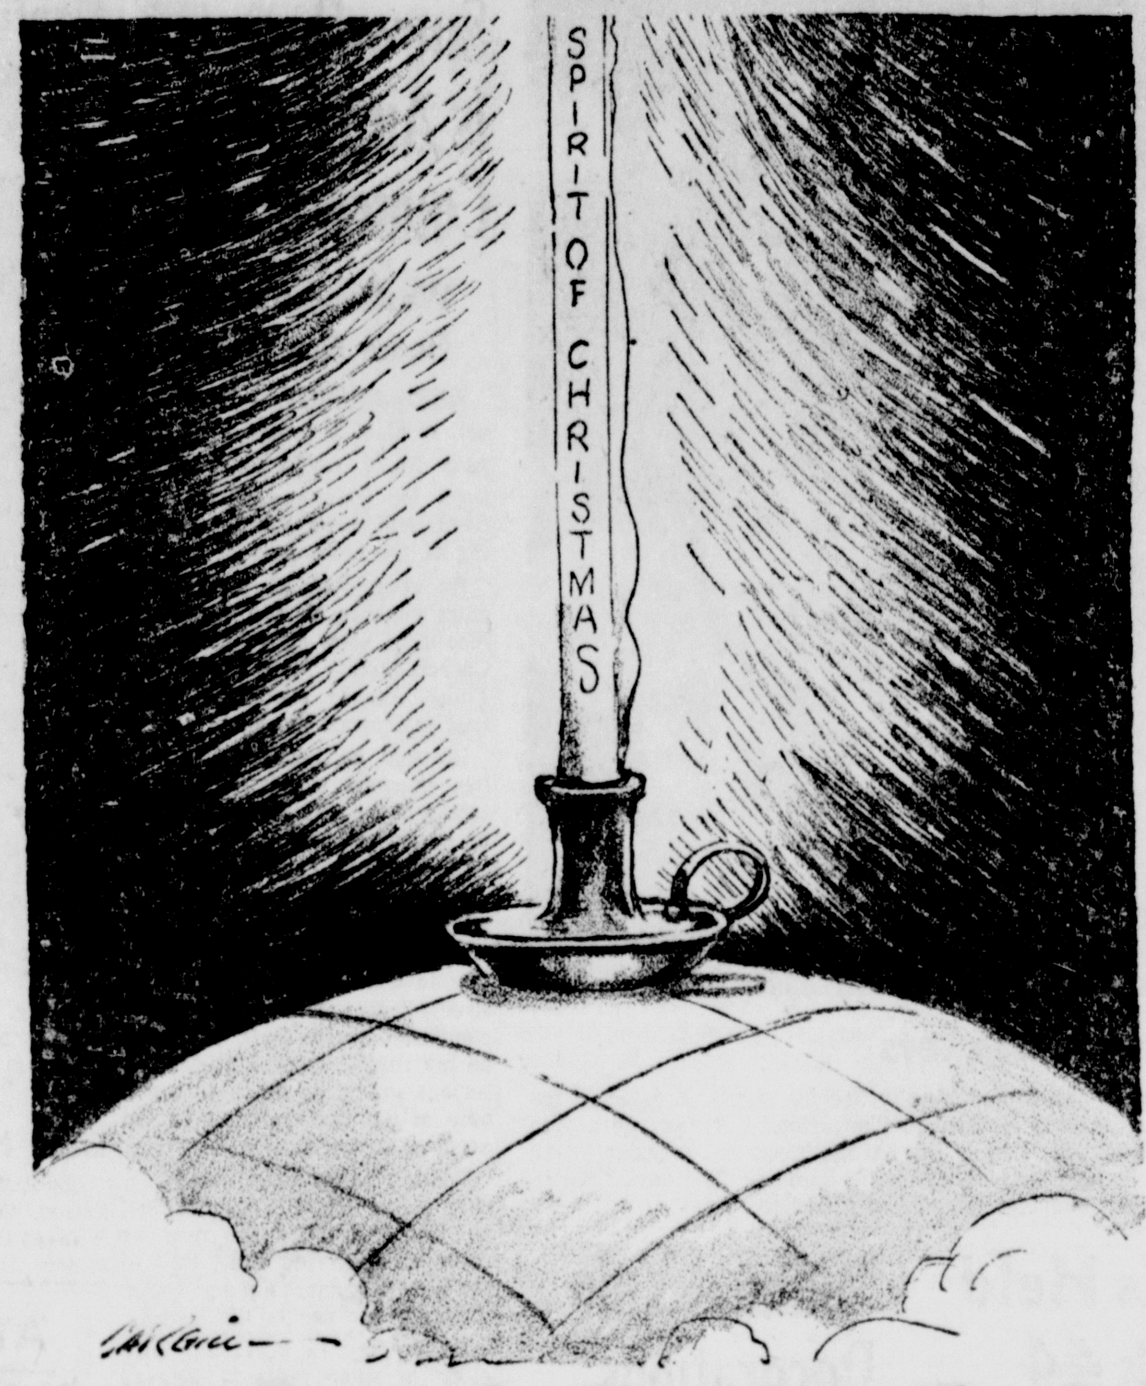
Deep Are The Roots!



Budget Director Stans Gives Painstaking Help To Kennedy

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Sometimes a newspaperman finds that out of a clash with government officials comes better understanding and appreciation of that official. Recently I had that experience with Director of the Budget Maurice Stans.

Some time ago I reported that Mr. Stans and his uncle by marriage, Ben Gellenback, plus a group of other investors, had leased 1,060,000 acres of government land in Alaska for which Richfield Oil had paid them $300,000 for oil drilling rights. Because of Mr. Stans' potent position in government, with the power of life or death over the Interior Department which controls Alaskan oil lands, it was pointed out that this put the budget director in a possible conflict-of-interest position.

Mr. Stans was interviewed by a staff reporter at the time, and his statement that he had put his share of the Alaskan lease in a charitable trust was duly reported. It was noted, however, that the trust had not been filed with Internal Revenue, and that the trust seemed to be an agreement between himself and his lawyer.

I now find that although the facts were right the conclusions were wrong.

Although Mr. Stans did forget to file the trust with Internal Revenue, this was an oversight understandable with a busy man. And the important fact is that Director Stans has deeded any revenue from the Alaskan oil lands to a bona fide charitable trust, with the provision only that he have a right to allocate the funds. This he has done to the Children's Nature Museum, Rock Hill, S.C., which has his big-game trophies, to the Cradle in Chicago from which he has adopted three children, and to an institution which has been caring for Korean orphans.

I am completely satisfied that Mr. Stans was thoroughly ethical and leaned over backward not to profit from the Alaskan oil leases, over which he, as budget director, could have had indirect influence.

No. 2 Man In Washington

Most people don't realize it, but the director of the budget, no matter who is in the White House, has almost life and death power over government. He's also vitally important to the efficient transition of government. That was why one of the first new members of his official family President-elect Kennedy appointed was Budget Director David Bell, also why the only man Eisenhower appointed to cooperate with Truman in 1952 was his new budget director, Joe Dodge.

In this connection, I can report that outgoing Director Maurice Stans has done a unique thing. He has analyzed the Democratic platform and prepared "position papers" regarding each point in the platform in order to help the new President carry it out.

This doesn't mean that Stans, a Republican, agrees with all the program Kennedy has promised. Some he agrees with, some he doesn't. It does mean, however, that as a believer in efficient government Maury Stans wants to help the new administration in every possible way. President Eisenhower gave an order to this effect, and to carry it out, Stans has also prepared 70 memos for the Kennedy Administration on various government agencies and problems, detailing exactly what certain programs are doing and what they are costing.

No man in the Eisenhower Administration knows the government better than Stans. He sits in on every meeting of the cabinet and of the policy-making National Security Administration. He sees the President privately more than any other agency head, sometimes two or three times a day.

Despite his power, Stans is a modest man who describes his job, a bit ruefully, as "the distribution of dissatisfaction." As the chief "no" man of government, he doesn't expect to win any popularity contests.

Big-Game Hunter

Personally, Stans is dominated by two passions. One is stalking big game in Africa, the other stalking government waste in Washington. Whichever he is doing, he moves as softly as the big cats he stalks.

On his African safaris, Stans has bagged enough big game to stock the Children's Nature Museum of Rock Hill, S. C., with jungle trophies and to outfit his wife in leopard-skin coat, zebra hat, shoes, purse, and a lion-skin handbag.

The son of an immigrant Belgian house painter who was also koncertmeister of the town's brass band, Stans grew up in the farming village of Shakopee, Minn., where he learned to toot the saxophone. When he left Shakopee, he took with him his sax plus $151 he had earned playing it for a local dance band.

He studied accounting at night at Northwestern University, supported himself by day as a stenographer, and, without waiting for his degree, went to work as office boy for Alexander Grant and Company, a Chicago accounting firm with six employes.

Within three years, he was a partner in the firm, later the sole owner. He built it into one of the 10 top accounting firms in the nation with offices in a dozen cities.

To avoid conflict of interest, he sold out in order to come to Washington in 1953 as a budget watchdog—at first in the Post Office Department. His rise up the bureaucratic ladder was as quiet and spectacular as his rise in the business world. He became a consultant to the Post Office, then deputy postmaster general, then in 1957 moved over to the powerful Budget Bureau as deputy director. Six months later he was named budget chief.

When Stans departs from Washington next month, he will leave the government's books in better shape than any incoming administration has ever found them.

John F. Kennedy Now Has The Ball At His Feet

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

It was both a disheartening and an oddly stirring experience to test the atmosphere on the other side of the Atlantic after the American election, as this reporter has just been doing.

It was disheartening because the test revealed, for the first time, the full extent of the alarming loss of ground by the United States in the last eight years. While officials and politicians in the other capitals of the Western alliance still had to count on doing business with the Eisenhower administration, they did not speak frankly to vagrant reporters. Now they do.

Their verdict on America's recent leadership of the West, whether it be just or unjust, is certainly cruel. The President's moral virtues of course continue to be respected. But that is about all there is on the favorable side of the balance sheet, except perhaps in the case of some British officials who reflect the personal views of Prime Minister Macmillan.

"A vacuum of leadership when only America could lead," is the thing most complained about. After this comes "the difficulty of finding anyone in Washington you could talk to." In the Allied capitals, in fact, the American government of these last years is thought to have been feeble, unimaginative, and sadly deficient in men of first class ability with whom great issues could be effectively thrashed out.

The one man President-elect Kennedy has kept on, Under Secretary of State Douglas Dillon, is the one Eisenhower policy-maker who has earned the kind of universal, enthusiastic admiration abroad that was given, in the old days, to such figures as Robert A. Lovett and John J. McCloy. Secretary of State Herter and Secretary of Defense Gates are also admired and respected, though somewhat less widely; and there the human credits end. The debits include a good many Eisenhower policy-makers who have simply become public laughing stocks.

If this estimate of recent American performance is depressing, and perhaps unfair, it is at least balanced by our allies' hopes for American performance in the time ahead. These hopes are stirring to any American with natural pride. Yet they are, quite frankly, fairly desperate hopes. Allied officials and leaders at all levels are convinced that the future of the Western alliance will be very dark indeed unless there is a powerful rebirth of vigor and intelligence in Washington; and having this conviction, they are forced to hope.

Towards President-elect Kennedy himself, there is a decided attitude of wait-and-see. The shape of his personality, the force of his character, the tendency of his policies, are alike unknown to most of the leaders in Bonn and Paris and even London. Before anyone hurries to the rooftops to raise a cheer for the Kennedy administration, everyone wants to know what the new Administration's positions are going to be on a whole series of crucial issues.

The basis of our Allies' hopes is not confidence in Kennedy, in fact, but confidence in the United States. The other nations of the West by no means accept the sometimes-heard thesis, that America is now "a tired nation." They do not believe that the deficiencies (as they saw them) of the Eisenhower years have been anything more than temporary phenomena. They are convinced that this country has plenty of stuff in it, still, to provide the rebirth of leadership which they long for so greatly.

The intensity of this longing for more vigorous American leadership of the West is the measure, in turn, of the scope of President-elect Kennedy's opportunity. Throughout history, the strongest powers in wide-spreading alliances have most often been the object of jealousy and suspicion. Instead of being begged to lead with vigor and decision, they have usually been obstructed by the lesser allies who feared and disliked their strength. But in this case, it is different. All the Western allies acknowledge that America must lead, if anyone is to lead; and all acknowledge that leadership is badly needed.

The tangle of critical problems Kennedy will inherit from Eisenhower is downright appalling. His leadership will be particularly hampered by the long neglected, then hysterically ventilated problem of the balance of payments. Wealth is what gives America authority, and the balance of payments problem therefore tends to undermine American authority. Yet Kennedy has the ball at his feet, as far as the Western alliance goes, if he only knows how to kick it hard and fast.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

WASHINGTON — President-elect John F. Kennedy is receiving virtually universal commendations for selections he has made to his official family.

Kennedy has surprised political Washington with the non-political character of most of the appointments he has announced to date. Most often mentioned as "good" choices are Dean Rusk to be secretary of State and Robert V. McNamara as secretary of Defense.

It is apparent that these two top offices were filled by Kennedy without partisan considerations. It is necessary to reach back to the Korean and World War II periods to find a similar non-partisan presidential attitude toward Cabinet appointments.

Naming of these men, along with some other Kennedy announcements, have encouraged many capital observers to the belief that the Massachusetts senator will travel a moderate course in the White House.

This opinion is a sharp reversal from the view that prevailed during the political campaign when all indications pointed to an ultra-liberal administration should the Democrats capture the presidency.

There are some in Washington who are convinced that Kennedy has been deliberately trying to create this new impression in the appointments he has made. Some of his intimates have been sensitive to the possibility that any Kennedy proposals would be attacked as "too liberal" by Republicans and conservative Democrats in Congress.

By spreading the impression that his will be a moderate administration, Kennedy is increasing the chances that his program will be acceptable in larger part than otherwise.

New Principles

By John Crosby

The year is drawing to a close, a year of change, a year of awakening. Nineteen sixty winds up on a note of deepening business recession and vaulting moral hope. The material abundance in which we damned near drowned is ebbing, a little bit anyway; but the inner fibre of the nation seems more resolute than in many years.

Nineteen sixty may go down in the history books as the year in which Americans rediscovered the individual. From the two loftiest platforms in the nation—the White House and the Catholic bishops—came almost the same warning and appeal. Virtually the only ringing declaration to come from the President's Commission on National Goals was that one calling for "extraordinary personal responsibility" on the part of the individual.

The American Catholic Bishops at their annual meeting at Catholic University issued a far more complex, thoughtful, and searching document which, I think, summed up the national malaise with eloquence and precision. Americans, said the Bishops, relied too much on their unions, their corporations, their nation, even the United Nations, for their thinking and their action. The Bishops asked a return to individual morality. They particularly deplored what they called "situational ethics" as opposed to "unchanging principles." It was a rather different way of saying the individual should be Inner Directed rather than Other Directed.

"A fresh evocation of the principles and practice of personal responsibility can revivify our society and help to stem the seemingly inexhaustible march toward the automation of human beings and the steady loss of that freedom which is man's distinctive attribute," said the Bishops. "It will curb the mental lethargy and inertia which permits organizations to usurp, mainly by default, the rights of their members."

A remarkable document. But already there are signs that perhaps the great day of conformity and the Organization Man is coming to a close. The place to look for any great changes in national mood is among the young. They are the ones who are coming up; if there is to be a rebirth, it is in their hands.

Already there are all kinds of signs that the Passive Generation the Silent Generation, is not at all the appropriate title for these youngsters. In my lectures to college students, I detect a new note of intellectual vigor and, above all, of purpose and pride of aim that is vastly encouraging.

In its current issue "Look" calls it "The Explosive Generation," the exact opposite of Silent or Passive, and the magazine points to the student riots around the world, to the sit-in demonstrations on behalf of equality for Negroes.

Youth fears, said "Look," no change but stagnation. 'What I care about most,' said a New England college senior, 'is the most terrible of all curses found in the Book of Isaiah: "Make the heart of this people fat, make their ears heavy, and shut their eyes." I would like to see the opposite of this.' A surprising new generation is eager to do battle against the prophet's curse."

So long as youth doesn't fear stagnation, there won't be any. It was stagnation among youth itself five years ago that was truly alarming. That was the group that wanted only to disappear into the Organization, not to attract attention, not to risk censure.

That day has passed. The nation has just elected a 43-year-old President and among his most enthusiastic supporters were kids who couldn't vote for him because they were below voting age. I can remember no election in which youngsters got so actively involved, so emotionally involved not only to Kennedy but to Nixon.

Through all this runs one clear thread—a decline in the emphasis on the material man, and an increasing recognition in the importance of the human spirit, of the vital need to our well-being of abstractions—whether we call it morality or responsibility or goals. Whatever it is, it's something the union can't get for you; you have to do it yourself. It's been a great year for the individual and I think this is just the beginning of a cult of the individual that should be very exciting.

'Harmless' Food Poisonous In Big Quantities

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Some people are foolish, as demonstrated by the woman who became ill after eating more than half an ounce of nutmeg. This popular flavoring agent is harmless when sprinkled on eggnogs and other foods or beverages. At one time it was used as a medication, as were many herbs, seeds, and plants.

But too much nutmeg is poisonous, as the woman in question found out. She awakened in the night with a burning sensation in the lower abdomen which was so severe she feared she was dying. She became disoriented and screamed and thrashed about until she fell into a semi-stupor. On coming to, she became overactive again and screamed about dying but finally fell into a deep sleep. On awakening she was dizzy, nauseated, and numb all over but quiet. At intervals her restless and noisy episodes returned but she got well ultimately.

The technic of pill swallowing is mastered easily by some. Others find it difficult and Dr. Myron S. Denholtz's method may work better than hiding the pill in a piece of bread. He advises: "Raise the tongue and place the pill or capsule in the floor of the mouth, just behind the lower teeth. In this position, the bitterest pill causes no taste unless held for a long time.

"Holding the tongue in the elevated position, a glass of water is brought to the lips and the patient drinks, completely ignoring the pill behind his teeth. During the process of swallowing, the medication disappears down the throat without taste or sensation."

Down the hatch.

Early studies indicated that the cholesterol level of the blood of alcoholics was lower than that of nonalcoholics. But a more recent test on 30 volunteer prisoners reversed this theory. These men were given 3 ounces of whisky daily and the blood was checked. The net result was a rise in blood cholesterol.

Keep this in mind when you indulge in holiday cheers.

ARTERIOSCLEROSIS

E. R. writes: What are the symptoms of hardening of the arteries in the different parts of the body?

REPLY

It would take a book to answer this question. Hardening of the arteries may exist for decades before the circulation to a specific organ is reduced sufficiently to cause symptoms. If a vessel leading to the brain is blocked, stroke occurs; involvement of the coronary arteries produces chest pain (angina or coronary thrombosis); and plugging of a leg artery causes pain or gangrene.

BOILS ARE INFECTIOUS

Mrs. S. T. writes: My husband gets boils frequently. Are they contagious?

REPLY

DEFORMED TOE

A. E. K. writes: Is amputation the only cure of a hammer toe that gives trouble?

REPLY

No. Various operations have been devised to correct this deformity.

NERVOUS STOMACH

C. B. H. writes: What causes excitement or nervousness to settle in the stomach or intestines?

REPLY

The gastrointestinal tract is the sounding board for many nervous episodes. This occurs because of a close tie-up between the nervous system and these organs via the vagus nerve. Cutting this nerve was described some years ago as "divorcing the stomach from the brain."

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

During a Christmas rush in a big department store, one of the dear little kiddies kicked the store's Santa Claus so hard in the shin that he had to put up a sign, "Gone to feed my reindeers," for a half hour until the pain abated.

And speaking of last Christmas, here's an entry Joan Brooks swears she copied from a 10-year-old's diary:

December 25: Pop gave me a swell new air rifle, but it's pouring so I can't go hunting.

December 26: Still raining. Can't go hunting.

December 27: Still raining. Can't go hunting.

December 28: Still raining. Couldn't wait any longer. Shot Uncle Morris."

The stoutish gent essaying the Santa role in a Montreal department store last year had a really original request to ponder over. A little fellow climbed up on his lap and whispered hopefully in his ear, "Do you think you could wangle me a discount on a new bicycle?"

American Legion Post 169 has The Nativity scene set up in front of the Honor Roll, behind which a cluster of pines has been trimmed and lighted. Broadway Street is strung with vari-colored lights and at the south end of town, a community tree has been erected with alternating lights.

"His Star Still Shines," a sacred cantata, will be presented by the Junior Choir of Grace Methodist Church Christmas Eve at 10:30.

Following the service a group will meet at the Honor Roll and traverse the town singing Christmas carols and ending their evening at the Methodist parsonage where Rev. and Mrs. Clarence McCloud and daughter, Cheryl, will serve refreshments.

Snow Removal Is Aired At Council Meet

Westernport Group Hears Fire Chief

WESTERNPORT — Paul Michael, chief of Potomac Fire Company No. 2, made some suggestions for the removal of snow from local streets during a meeting of the town council.

He recommended putting calcium chloride on the streets before using snow shovels, and said Church Street, Main Street, and Philos Avenue should be given first preference in snow removal.

He said he realizes the town has financial problems but the safety of its citizens should also be considered.

Chief Michael said the company's fire trucks are equipped with chains but there is some doubts "we could reach a fire due to the icy condition of the streets." Fire trucks with heavy equipment are difficult to control on icy roads, which may lead to serious injury or death to members of the fire company in the event of an accident.

The clerk was authorized to secure prices on calcium chloride, and find out if fly ash may be procured from the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company for use on the streets.

Mayor Ray L. Wilt said difficulty in snow removal delayed due to a breakdown in the removal equipment which delayed the work in some streets.

Objections were made by Thomas E. Guy and John Donnelly for the payment of a parking ticket in front of their residences on Wood Street. They said the parking places were already taken on the legal side.

After a discussion it was decided to change the parking from the west side to the east side of the street, a plan which would probably give space for a few more cars.

Alvin Pence, street commissioner, announced that the council is considering making Wood Street a one-way street. Pence would appreciate comments by residents on the proposed change.

Rev. Levi Ziegler, pastor of the Church of the Brethren and president of the Tri-Towns Ministerial Association, was granted permission to place church literature in the city clerk's office.

Purchase of trash cans was discussed but action was deferred.

The city office will be closed today and reopened December 27. The discount on water bills due September 25 will be also allowed December 27.

Firefighters Give Safety Tips For Christmas Trees

FROSTBURG — Spokesmen for the Frostburg Fire Department ask residents to have a safe and Merry Christmas by observing safety rules concerning Christmas trees.

All Christmas trees are inflammable and must be treated with care. Natural trees should be set in water, taken down before they are dry and dangerous. Residents are warned never to leave home and let the tree lights on.

Extreme care should be taken with artificial trees as some have been proven to be highly inflammable and dangerous. All trees should be kept as far as possible from radiators and registers.

Luke Rec Club Is Closed Today

LUKE — The Luke Recreation Club which is used for pre-teen and teen-age dances will be closed today and will reopen December 30-31.

A New Year's party will be held for both age groups.

Friday, December 30, the hall will be open from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Saturday December 31 from 7:30 p. m. to 12:30 a. m.

Bonar Is Named Man Of Year By Magazine

Mineral County Farmer Honored

KEYSER — A livestockman and farm leader of Mineral County, Clyde Bonar, has been named 1960 Man of the Year in West Virginia Agriculture by The Progressive Farmer magazine.

Mr. Bonar is known for his activities in farm groups in the East. He also has served interests of better farming by setting an example on his own 1,250-acre farm south of Burlington. He keeps 200 Angus cattle and 200 sheep. All feed except concentrates is produced on the farm.

He presently serves as member of the advisory committee to West Virginia University College of Agriculture, Forestry, and Home Economics, State Farmers Home Administration committee, director of W. Va. Angus Association, Eastern Seaboard Sheep Council, is an elder in Burlington Presbyterian Church and director of the Producers Livestock Association, Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. Bonar's experience in farm service extends back to 1924-28, when he was county agricultural agent in Mineral County. In 1927 he started building his herd of Angus cattle.

Later he devoted full time to improving his livestock and grassland farm. Wise use of fertilizer and lime, plus good grazing management, were tools he used to build up the land and increase its productivity.

He was W. Va. Farm Bureau president 1940-55, and during the 1940s and 1950s contributed his service to the state committee of the Agricultural Adjustment Agency and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

A native of West Virginia, Mr. Bonar was born in Wood County. He attended Marshall College at Huntingdon during prep school and junior college. He graduated from West Virginia University in 1924 with a bachelor's degree in agriculture.

Midland Yule Decorations, Scenes Noted

MIDLAND — Against a background of glistening snow, the town of Midland is once again bedecked in her finest Christmas splendor.

At the shrine of the Blessed Virgin Mary on the road leading to St. Joseph's Catholic Church, a replica scene of The Nativity has been erected by the sexton, Wilbur Crowe, assisted by Leon McGowan, Francis Cullen, Ed Smith, Bob Kenner, Sam Jeffries, Eddie Crowe, Freddy Joe Meyers. This has been brilliantly spotlighted and the shrine is illuminated with blue light.

Midnight Mass will be celebrated Christmas Eve with Rev. John T. Sleeman officiating. At 11:30 p.m. carols will be sung by St. Joseph's Choir accompanied by Sister Antoinette.

American Legion Post 169 has The Nativity scene set up in front of the Honor Roll, behind which a cluster of pines has been trimmed and lighted. Broadway Street is strung with vari-colored lights and at the south end of town, a community tree has been erected with alternating lights.

"His Star Still Shines," a sacred cantata, will be presented by the Junior Choir of Grace Methodist Church Christmas Eve at 10:30.

Following the service a group will meet at the Honor Roll and traverse the town singing Christmas carols and ending their evening at the Methodist parsonage where Rev. and Mrs. Clarence McCloud and daughter, Cheryl, will serve refreshments.

Snow Removal Is Aired At Council Meet

Westernport Group Hears Fire Chief

WESTERNPORT — Paul Michael, chief of Potomac Fire Company No. 2, made some suggestions for the removal of snow from local streets during a meeting of the town council.

He recommended putting calcium chloride on the streets before using snow shovels, and said Church Street, Main Street, and Philos Avenue should be given first preference in snow removal.

He said he realizes the town has financial problems but the safety of its citizens should also be considered.

Chief Michael said the company's fire trucks are equipped with chains but there is some doubts "we could reach a fire due to the icy condition of the streets." Fire trucks with heavy equipment are difficult to control on icy roads, which may lead to serious injury or death to members of the fire company in the event of an accident.

The clerk was authorized to secure prices on calcium chloride, and find out if fly ash may be procured from the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company for use on the streets.

Mayor Ray L. Wilt said difficulty in snow removal delayed due to a breakdown in the removal equipment which delayed the work in some streets.

Objections were made by Thomas E. Guy and John Donnelly for the payment of a parking ticket in front of their residences on Wood Street. They said the parking places were already taken on the legal side.

After a discussion it was decided to change the parking from the west side to the east side of the street, a plan which would probably give space for a few more cars.

Alvin Pence, street commissioner, announced that the council is considering making Wood Street a one-way street. Pence would appreciate comments by residents on the proposed change.

Rev. Levi Ziegler, pastor of the Church of the Brethren and president of the Tri-Towns Ministerial Association, was granted permission to place church literature in the city clerk's office.

Purchase of trash cans was discussed but action was deferred.

The city office will be closed today and reopened December 27 The discount on water bills due September 25 will be also allowed December 27.

Firefighters Give Safety Tips For Christmas Trees

FROSTBURG — Spokesmen for the Frostburg Fire Department ask residents to have a safe and Merry Christmas by observing safety rules concerning Christmas trees.

All Christmas trees are inflammable and must be treated with care. Natural trees should be set in water, taken down before they are dry and dangerous. Residents are warned never to leave home and let the tree lights on.

Extreme care should be taken with artificial trees as some have been proven to be highly inflammable and dangerous. All trees should be kept as far as possible from radiators and registers.

LaSalle Wins Fourth Straight, Beats Fort Hill, 84-72

Blake Scores 31 Points In City Contest

Explorers Square Series At 25-25; Quartet Fouls Out

By TED TROXELL

One of the smallest intra-city game crowds in recent years made its way into SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium last night and watched LaSalle's defending city champions, sparked by the brilliant outside shooting of Gary Blake, turn back Fort Hill, 84-72.

Last night's meeting was the 50th between the two long-time rivals, and LaSalle's triumph evened the series at 25-all. It was also the Explorers' fifth win in six starts, four of them in a row, this year. The Sentinels, who opened their season Wednesday, are now 0-2.

Despite the final 12-point spread, the contest was interesting up to the closing minutes, as Fort Hill stayed within striking distance of the Explorers until midway in the final period.

Blake Hits 14-22

The thing that had the crowd buzzing, however, was the uncanny shooting exhibition staged by Blake, who connected on 14 of 22 field goal attempts, most of them from about 25 feet out on the right side of the court.

Blake's shooting style is rather unorthodox. He describes his favorite shot, which seems to roll off his right hand, as "a one-hand shot that looks like a two-hand set; actually, my left hand just guides the ball." His portside paw must have been radar-equipped last night.

Twenty of Blake's 31 points came in the first half, which ended with LaSalle in front by ten, 45-35. Fort Hill scored first on a free throw by Glen Shipway, and led again at 5-4 before Blake put the Explorers in front to stay.

LaSalle held a 20-15 edge in the first quarter. Three straight two-pointers by Blake, Mike Long and Carroll Wilt as the second period got under way opened the lead up to 11 points, and the margin stayed about the same until intermission.

Rallies Cut Short

Several times during the second half the Sentinels threatened, coming within four points twice, but LaSalle, able to go under pressure, cut short the visitors' rallies.

The final period developed into a foul shooting contest. There were 63 free throws tried in the game ,and nearly half that number (30) came in the last quarter. Two cagers from each team fouled out — Phil Barbe and John Sloan from LaSalle, and the Sentinels' Shipway and Dick Bittner.

All five LaSalle starters scored in double figures. Behind Blake, who wound up with 31 points, came Long and Sloan with 16 and 15, respectively, and Wilt and Barbe, 10 apiece.

Shipway and George Twigg tallied 20 and 19 for the losing Sentinels who, as a team, shot at a .324 clip — 24 for 74. LaSalle's shooting mark was .417, with 30 goals in 72 tries. In the first half the Explorers were just a shade under .500 with 20 for 42.

Vikings, Franklin, Moorefield Jackets, Circleville To Vie

Four schools—two from Pendleton county and others from Grant and Hardy—will compete in the first Holiday Basketball Tournament to be staged at Petersburg High School, Thursday and Friday, December 29 and 30, it was announced last night by Thomas Sites, principal at Petersburg, who is in charge of arrangements.

Franklin High's Panthers will play Petersburg's Vikings in the opening game Thursday at 7 p. m., while in the other semi-final Circleville's Indians will oppose the Moorefield Yellowjackets at 8:30 p. m.

Losers on opening day will clash in the first game Friday at 7 p. m., while the championship contest is slated to get under way at 8:30.

Tournaments were legalized this year by the State Board of Athletic Control provided the schools participating keep within the limit of 21 games. Schools are allowed to play 21 games, including an Alumni contest. Under the new ruling a school can schedule 19 regular season games, eliminate the Alumni game, and go to 21 with the addition of two holiday tournament games.

16 Thoroughbreds Will Vie Monday At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif (UPI) — A full field of 16 thoroughbreds Friday entered the $20,000 Palos Verdes Handicap which features the opening of the scheduled 55-day Santa Anita winter meeting on Monday.

Heading the field for the six furlong sprint that traditionally inaugurates the meeting here were two past winners of the race, Clandestine and Golden Notes, and the top-weighted Fleet Nasrullah.

Clandestine scored a surprise win over Fleet Nasrullah last year was assigned top impost of 126 pounds because of an outstanding season during 1960.

T. V. Lark, winner of four $100,000 races this year, also was a major contender in the Palos Verdes and carries the second high impost of 123 pounds.

Bradley Defeats Bearcats, 72-53

The victory was the eighth straight for Bradley, which now has a string of 14 successive triumphs and a record of 42 straight at home dating to Jan. 20, 1948 when the Braves were upset by Portland.

The loss gave Cincinnati a 0-2 conference mark and a 5-3 record for the season.

Robinson topped Bradley with 20 points and Lee Edwards added 16. Paul Hogue and Tom Yates shared scoring honors for Cincinnati with 16 points each.

Bradley shot .510 from the field Cincinnati .340.

Bruce Cops Fifth, Tops Huskies, 77-51

Bruce High School's basketball team registered its fifth consecutive win of the season Thursday night, beating Northern High School in Garrett county by the score of 77-51.

A power failure stopped the game with 4 ½ minutes remaining in the final period and after a wait of more than an hour the game was called.

Bill Wiltison paced the Bruce scorers with 36 points on 15 goals and 6-6 fouls. George Patton was high for the Huskies with nine goals 7-13 fouls and 25 tallies.

McCurdy and Yommer of Northern and Wilson and Jones of Bruce fouled out.

The loss made Northern's record 3-3 for the season.

Patterson Installed 17-5 Choice To Beat Johansson

Negotiations Opened For Fight Between Moore, Schoeppner

NEW YORK (UPI) — Promoter Humbert (Jack) Fugazy, having set his heavyweight title fight for Miami Beach on March 20, sought a February light heavyweight title match Friday to complete a closed-circuit TV "doubleheader."

"I'll go to Miami Beach next week to get the ball rolling there on the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight," said the 74-year-old promoter of Feature Sports Inc.

Seeks Light-Heavies

He added, "and today I started serious negotiations for a February title fight somewhere in the United States between light heavy weight champion Archie Moore and Erich Schoeppner of Germany."

Fugazy stressed that if the two title fights were staged within less than a month of each other, both could be brought to the public for theater-television for little more expense to the TV producers than the cost of one.

Moore must close within 20 days for a title defense or risk having his title vacated by the New York State Athletic Commission. Archie lost the NBA portion of his 175-pound crown three months ago when the National Boxing Association vacated it for his failure to defend. He hasn't defended for 16 months.

Floyd Picked To Win

Each of their two previous bouts resulted in an upset. Patterson was favored at 5-1 for their first fight on June 26, 1959, but Ingo knocked him out in the third round and took the crown.

Johansson was favored at 8-5 for their second encounter last June 20, but Floyd became the first man to win back the heavy title when he knocked out Johansson in the fifth round.

Eagles Picked To Capture Championship

Philly Is Favored By One Touchdown

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia 35, Green Bay 27.

Basically, that's why the Eagles will be the champions of the National Football League after Monday's title game in Philadelphia.

Passing More Decisive

And while it is true the Packers' power is rushing and the Eagles' weakness is rushing defense, it also is true the Eagles' passing has been more decisive than the Packers' rushing. Furthermore, Philadelphia has been able to stop the big ground gainers in the clutch, while Green Bay has been hurt frequently by passing.

The Packers also have been hurt by their own mistakes. The Eagles thrive on the other guy's errors.

Desire, spirit, momentum, drive, incentive; they all count. But both teams have them, so throw them out. If there is an intangible to be considered, it's the fact the Eagles will be playing before the home fans.

Now back to the tangibles.

The Eagles lost twice, 41-24 to the Cleveland Browns in the first game of the season, and 27-21 on a snow-covered field to the Pittsburgh Steelers. The second can be discounted because of the conditions and the fact the Eagles had clinched the title a week earlier.

Jimmy Brown and Bobby Mitchell ran wild in the Browns' victory, but when the Eagles later beat the Browns 31-29, Mitchell was held to 35 yards and Brown couldn't make the difference.

Gain 800 Yards In Air

The Eagles have gained better than 800 more yards passing then the Packers have rushing, despite Green Bay's awesome 1-2 threat of Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung.

When the Eagles won their biggest game of the year (31-23 over the New York Giants) they cashed in on four pass interceptions and a fumble for all their scores, after beating the Giants 17-10 a week earlier on a fumble recovery.

When you look at it that way and add quarterback Norm Van Brocklin's proved brilliance under pressure, it has to be Philadelphia — but in one fine football game.

Major Braved Blasts · A Low Scoring Game · Harper The Hotshot · Our Christmas Mail

By C. V. BURNS

MARTINSBURG High School's postponement of two games with Allegany within one week because of "slippery highway conditions" should get a chuckle out of Major John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, seasoned campaigner of the basketball wars.

The Major, who was reared among the icebergs of New England, took many of his Penn Avenue and Fort Hill teams through blizzards and drifting snows in January and February to play in Tucker County, W. Va., in the days when motor cars were crates compared to the high-powered vehicles of today but they always managed to get to the scene of the game somehow.

One time after he returned from a rough trip to Davis he remarked his big mistake was not making the journey by dogsled.

ROGER W. JONES, chairman of the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., who was among the 12 judges who selected the 25 former college stars, including Dr. Hugh A. MacMillan, former Princeton and Allegany High athlete, for Sports Illustrated's Silver Anniversary All-America team, is the father of Mrs. Cynthia Hodges of Potomac Park.

Mr. Hodges is employed in the Advanced Design Department at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

Another judge was Dean Rusk, president of The Rockefeller Foundation, of New York, who becomes Secretary of State under the Kennedy administration.

GEORGE TETER, principal of the Grade School at Circleville, W. Va., who has been reporting Circleville High School games for many years, has been teaching in West Virginia for 23 years.

He informs us that Orville Harper, who has averaged 30 points a game for six contests this season is not a lanky guy as most people would think. Harper tips the beam around the 145 pound mark and is 5 feet, 9 inches tall. He posted a foul shooting average of .661 by converting 150 of 227 shots.

Last season Harper was among the top scorers in the Tri-State area, dumping in a total of 452 points in 21 games for an average of 21.5 for a team that won one game and lost 20 during the regular campaign.

Circleville High's sharpshooting junior this season has scored 66 field goals, meshed 50 out of 58 free throws for an amazing average of 86 per cent and has scored a total of 182 points in six games. The lad must have something on the ball.

ONE of the lowest scoring games of the current basketball season was recorded Tuesday when Mel Henry's North Hagerstown quint downed the Westminster Owls in a C.V.A.L. contest by the score of 31-20.

But they'll have to go some to reach the modern low in the tri-state area which was set last season at Ridgeley when Piedmont won over the Ridgeley Blackhawks by the score of 10-7. Yes, that was basketball and not baseball.

FOR THOSE who like basketball we recommend "Basketball Stars of 1961, The Greatest Pro and College Players," a new Pyramid book, authority by William G. Mokray.

The book contains stories about the top players of the N.B.A. and the colleges, records and charts, Basketball's Hall of Fame, the 1960 All-America High School team, which includes Bill Maphis, of Romney; college All-America poll and last but not least all of the box scores of the Olympic games.

The 159-page book is loaded with interesting data and should come in handy to settle arguments in the taverns after the boys have consumed a couple flagons of ale.

MARY, Dave and Bob Whip send Yule greetings in the form of a pocket edition of an 8-page newspaper that contains many Christmassy items, including The Christmas Story, baking recipes, foreign customs, a sports page, the first Christmas card printed in London in 1842, the first Christmas seal issued in Denmark in 1904 and a Christmas Crossword Puzzle.

Bob served as business manager of Cumberland pro basketball teams in bygone days before he moved to Baltimore. The Whips reside at 3810 Kimble Road.

JOE BREHANY, former Allegany countian, minor league manager and major league baseball scout, writes from Aliquippa, Pa.:

"I heard you paged at the Hilton hotel during the World Series but could not find you in the Hospitality Room."

Johnny Byrnes, the Eckhart grocer and Cumberland Colts' classy first sacker and slugger of Middle Atlantic League days, who was born on Christmas Day.

Tommy Kabosky, Cumberland's busy featherweight boxer of the 1920s, now a resident of St. Louis.

John "High Pockets" Mullaney, one-time LaSalle and Casey basketball star, who says if he was one foot taller he would have made the pro league as a dunker.

John J. Long, who is trying to get the snow off the streets and keep an eye on Mike's basketball performances at LaSalle at the same time.

Judge Harold E. Naughton, who predicts that many of his Mount Royal Little Leaguers will haul down big bonuses when they are ripe enough to play in the majors.

Will Keegan, who will be the happiest man in town if he could get Stan Musial, Vernon Law, Whitey Ford, Rocky Colavito, Paul Richards, Danny Murtaugh, Weeb Ewbank, Ted Williams, Roy Face, Dick Groat, Norman Van Brocklin, Johnny Unitas, Bob Cousy, Gene Autry, Bobby Darin, Elvis Presley, The Three Sons, Marshal Dillon and Chester, Jack Paar and Kelso to attend the Dapper Dan dinner on January 29.

Merry Christmas to all our readers.

Gonzalez Picks Italy To Whip Aussie Netmen

Pancho Admits He's Slightly Prejudiced

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Pancho Gonzales, admitting he was "slightly prejudiced," Friday picked Italy to upset Australia in the Davis Cup challenge round matches next week.

"I'm sticking my neck out and predicting Italy will win either 3-2 or 4-1," said the husky California professional who is regarded as the world's greatest tennis player.

"Maybe I am slightly prejudiced," Pancho added.

"But because I have Latin blood in my veins, I would like to see Italy win."

Earlier Friday, Australian officials warned Vanni Canepele, captain of the Italian team, that Orlando Sirola would be watched closely for footfaults while serving in the challenge round matches, Dec. 26-28. Some Aussies feel the towering Italian jumps over the line before he serves.

Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, a pair of former Aussie Davis Cuppers, were recruited to put the Australian team through its final practice sessions this weekend.

Harry Hopman, captain of the Australian squad declined to make an predictions until after the draw is made Christmas Day.

"Rip" Collins Named Coach By Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — A one-time member of the St. Louis Cardinals' old "Gashouse Gang," James (Rip) Collins, Friday joined the Chicago Cubs' intriguing "board of coaches" and thinks Cub owner P. K. Wrigley may have the last laugh after all.

Collins was hired as the fourth man on a projected eight-coach staff which Wrigley expects to help select a new field manager in what is a complete twist in baseball tradition.

The seventh-place Cubs have been without a manager since Oct. 4 when Lou Boudreau quit after being refused a two-year pact.

Collins, 55, joins Harry Craft, Elvin Tappe and Vedie Himsl on Wrigley's coaching board. When completed, the coaching staff, besides recommending a manager, will work interchangeably with the Cubs and their farm clubs.

Blake Scores 31 Points In City Contest

By TED TROXELL

One of the smallest intra-city game crowds in recent years made its way into SS. Peter and Paul gymnasium last night and watched LaSalle's defending city champions, sparked by the brilliant outside shooting of Gary Blake, turn back Fort Hill, 84-72.

Last night's meeting was the 50th between the two long-time rivals, and LaSalle's triumph evened the series at 25-all. It was also the Explorers' fifth win in six starts, four of them in a row, this year. The Sentinels, who opened their season Wednesday, are now 0-2.

Despite the final 12-point spread, the contest was interesting up to the closing minutes, as Fort Hill stayed within striking distance of the Explorers until midway in the final period.

Blake Hits 14-22

The thing that had the crowd buzzing, however, was the uncanny shooting exhibition staged by Blake, who connected on 14 of 22 field goal attempts, most of them from about 25 feet out on the right side of the court.

Blake's shooting style is rather unorthodox. He describes his favorite shot, which seems to roll off his right hand, as "a one-hand shot that looks like a two-hand set; actually, my left hand just guides the ball." His portside paw must have been radar-equipped last night.

Twenty of Blake's 31 points came in the first half, which ended with LaSalle in front by ten, 45-35. Fort Hill scored first on a free throw by Glen Shipway, and led again at 5-4 before Blake put the Explorers in front to stay.

LaSalle held a 20-15 edge in the first quarter. Three straight two-pointers by Blake, Mike Long and Carroll Wilt as the second period got under way opened the lead up to 11 points, and the margin stayed about the same until intermission.

Rallies Cut Short

Several times during the second half the Sentinels threatened, coming within four points twice, but LaSalle, able to go under pressure, cut short the visitors' rallies.

The final period developed into a foul shooting contest. There were 63 free throws tried in the game ,and nearly half that number (30) came in the last quarter. Two cagers from each team fouled out — Phil Barbe and John Sloan from LaSalle, and the Sentinels' Shipway and Dick Bittner.

All five LaSalle starters scored in double figures. Behind Blake, who wound up with 31 points, came Long and Sloan with 16 and 15, respectively, and Wilt and Barbe, 10 apiece.

Shipway and George Twigg tallied 20 and 19 for the losing Sentinels who, as a team, shot at a .324 clip — 24 for 74. LaSalle's shooting mark was .417, with 30 goals in 72 tries. In the first half the Explorers were just a shade under .500 with 20 for 42.

Vikings, Franklin, Moorefield Jackets, Circleville To Vie

Four schools—two from Pendleton county and others from Grant and Hardy—will compete in the first Holiday Basketball Tournament to be staged at Petersburg High School, Thursday and Friday, December 29 and 30, it was announced last night by Thomas Sites, principal at Petersburg, who is in charge of arrangements.

Franklin High's Panthers will play Petersburg's Vikings in the opening game Thursday at 7 p. m., while in the other semi-final Circleville's Indians will oppose the Moorefield Yellowjackets at 8:30 p. m.

Losers on opening day will clash in the first game Friday at 7 p. m., while the championship contest is slated to get under way at 8:30.

Tournaments were legalized this year by the State Board of Athletic Control provided the schools participating keep within the limit of 21 games. Schools are allowed to play 21 games, including an Alumni contest. Under the new ruling a school can schedule 19 regular season games, eliminate the Alumni game, and go to 21 with the addition of two holiday tournament games.

16 Thoroughbreds Will Vie Monday At Santa Anita

ARCADIA, Calif (UPI) — A full field of 16 thoroughbreds Friday entered the $20,000 Palos Verdes Handicap which features the opening of the scheduled 55-day Santa Anita winter meeting on Monday.

Heading the field for the six furlong sprint that traditionally inaugurates the meeting here were two past winners of the race, Clandestine and Golden Notes, and the top-weighted Fleet Nasrullah.

Clandestine scored a surprise win over Fleet Nasrullah last year was assigned top impost of 126 pounds because of an outstanding season during 1960.

T. V. Lark, winner of four $100,000 races this year, also was a major contender in the Palos Verdes and carries the second high impost of 123 pounds.

Bradley Defeats Bearcats, 72-53

The victory was the eighth straight for Bradley, which now has a string of 14 successive triumphs and a record of 42 straight at home dating to Jan. 20, 1948 when the Braves were upset by Portland.

The loss gave Cincinnati a 0-2 conference mark and a 5-3 record for the season.

Robinson topped Bradley with 20 points and Lee Edwards added 16. Paul Hogue and Tom Yates shared scoring honors for Cincinnati with 16 points each.

Bradley shot .510 from the field Cincinnati .340.

Bruce Cops Fifth, Tops Huskies, 77-51

Bruce High School's basketball team registered its fifth consecutive win of the season Thursday night, beating Northern High School in Garrett county by the score of 77-51.

A power failure stopped the game with 4 ½ minutes remaining in the final period and after a wait of more than an hour the game was called.

Bill Wiltison paced the Bruce scorers with 36 points on 15 goals and 6-6 fouls. George Patton was high for the Huskies with nine goals 7-13 fouls and 25 tallies.

McCurdy and Yommer of Northern and Wilson and Jones of Bruce fouled out.

The loss made Northern's record 3-3 for the season.

Patterson Installed 17-5 Choice To Beat Johansson

Negotiations Opened For Fight Between Moore, Schoeppner

NEW YORK (UPI) — Promoter Humbert (Jack) Fugazy, having set his heavyweight title fight for Miami Beach on March 20, sought a February light heavyweight title match Friday to complete a closed-circuit TV "doubleheader."

"I'll go to Miami Beach next week to get the ball rolling there on the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight title fight," said the 74-year-old promoter of Feature Sports Inc.

Seeks Light-Heavies

He added, "and today I started serious negotiations for a February title fight somewhere in the United States between light heavy weight champion Archie Moore and Erich Schoeppner of Germany."

Fugazy stressed that if the two title fights were staged within less than a month of each other, both could be brought to the public for theater-television for little more expense to the TV producers than the cost of one.

Moore must close within 20 days for a title defense or risk having his title vacated by the New York State Athletic Commission. Archie lost the NBA portion of his 175-pound crown three months ago when the National Boxing Association vacated it for his failure to defend. He hasn't defended for 16 months.

Floyd Picked To Win

Each of their two previous bouts resulted in an upset. Patterson was favored at 5-1 for their first fight on June 26, 1959, but Ingo knocked him out in the third round and took the crown.

Johansson was favored at 8-5 for their second encounter last June 20, but Floyd became the first man to win back the heavy title when he knocked out Johansson in the fifth round.

Eagles Picked To Capture Championship

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia 35, Green Bay 27.

Passing More Decisive

And while it is true the Packers' power is rushing and the Eagles' weakness is rushing defense, it also is true the Eagles' passing has been more decisive than the Packers' rushing. Furthermore, Philadelphia has been able to stop the big ground gainers in the clutch, while Green Bay has been hurt frequently by passing.

The Packers also have been hurt by their own mistakes. The Eagles thrive on the other guy's errors.

Desire, spirit, momentum, drive, incentive; they all count. But both teams have them, so throw them out. If there is an intangible to be considered, it's the fact the Eagles will be playing before the home fans.

Now back to the tangibles.

The Eagles lost twice, 41-24 to the Cleveland Browns in the first game of the season, and 27-21 on a snow-covered field to the Pittsburgh Steelers. The second can be discounted because of the conditions and the fact the Eagles had clinched the title a week earlier.

Jimmy Brown and Bobby Mitchell ran wild in the Browns' victory, but when the Eagles later beat the Browns 31-29, Mitchell was held to 35 yards and Brown couldn't make the difference.

Gain 800 Yards In Air

The Eagles have gained better than 800 more yards passing then the Packers have rushing, despite Green Bay's awesome 1-2 threat of Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung.

When the Eagles won their biggest game of the year (31-23 over the New York Giants) they cashed in on four pass interceptions and a fumble for all their scores, after beating the Giants 17-10 a week earlier on a fumble recovery.

When you look at it that way and add quarterback Norm Van Brocklin's proved brilliance under pressure, it has to be Philadelphia — but in one fine football game.

Major Braved Blasts — A Low Scoring Game
Harper The Hotshot — Our Christmas Mail

By C. V. BURNS

MARTINSBURG High School's postponement of two games with Allegany within one week because of "slippery highway conditions" should get a chuckle out of Major John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh, seasoned campaigner of the basketball wars.

The Major, who was reared among the icebergs of New England, took many of his Penn Avenue and Fort Hill teams through blizzards and drifting snows in January and February to play in Tucker County, W. Va., in the days when motor cars were crates compared to the high-powered vehicles of today but they always managed to get to the scene of the game somehow.

One time after he returned from a rough trip to Davis he remarked his big mistake was not making the journey by dogsled.

ROGER W. JONES, chairman of the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., who was among the 12 judges who selected the 25 former college stars, including Dr. Hugh A. MacMillan, former Princeton and Allegany High athlete, for Sports Illustrated's Silver Anniversary All-America team, is the father of Mrs. Cynthia Hodges of Potomac Park.

Mr. Hodges is employed in the Advanced Design Department at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

Another judge was Dean Rusk, president of The Rockefeller Foundation, of New York, who becomes Secretary of State under the Kennedy administration.

GEORGE TETER, principal of the Grade School at Circleville, W. Va., who has been reporting Circleville High School games for many years, has been teaching in West Virginia for 23 years.

He informs us that Orville Harper, who has averaged 30 points a game for six contests this season is not a lanky guy as most people would think. Harper tips the beam around the 145 pound mark and is 5 feet, 9 inches tall. He posted a foul shooting average of .661 by converting 150 of 227 shots.

Last season Harper was among the top scorers in the Tri-State area, dumping in a total of 452 points in 21 games for an average of 21.5 for a team that won one game and lost 20 during the regular campaign.

Circleville High's sharpshooting junior this season has scored 66 field goals, meshed 50 out of 58 free throws for an amazing average of 86 per cent and has scored a total of 182 points in six games. The lad must have something on the ball.

ONE of the lowest scoring games of the current basketball season was recorded Tuesday when Mel Henry's North Hagerstown quint downed the Westminster Owls in a C.V.A.L. contest by the score of 31-20.

But they'll have to go some to reach the modern low in the tri-state area which was set last season at Ridgeley when Piedmont won over the Ridgeley Blackhawks by the score of 10-7. Yes, that was basketball and not baseball.

FOR THOSE who like basketball we recommend "Basketball Stars of 1961, The Greatest Pro and College Players," a new Pyramid book, authority by William G. Mokray.

The book contains stories about the top players of the N.B.A. and the colleges, records and charts, Basketball's Hall of Fame, the 1960 All-America High School team, which includes Bill Maphis, of Romney; college All-America poll and last but not least all of the box scores of the Olympic games.

The 159-page book is loaded with interesting data and should come in handy to settle arguments in the taverns after the boys have consumed a couple flagons of ale.

MARY, Dave and Bob Whip send Yule greetings in the form of a pocket edition of an 8-page newspaper that contains many Christmassy items, including The Christmas Story, baking recipes, foreign customs, a sports page, the first Christmas card printed in London in 1842, the first Christmas seal issued in Denmark in 1904 and a Christmas Crossword Puzzle.

Bob served as business manager of Cumberland pro basketball teams in bygone days before he moved to Baltimore. The Whips reside at 3810 Kimble Road.

JOE BREHANY, former Allegany countian, minor league manager and major league baseball scout, writes from Aliquippa, Pa.:

"I heard you paged at the Hilton hotel during the World Series but could not find you in the Hospitality Room."

Johnny Byrnes, the Eckhart grocer and Cumberland Colts' classy first sacker and slugger of Middle Atlantic League days, who was born on Christmas Day.

Tommy Kabosky, Cumberland's busy featherweight boxer of the 1920s, now a resident of St. Louis.

John "High Pockets" Mullaney, one-time LaSalle and Casey basketball star, who says if he was one foot taller he would have made the pro league as a dunker.

John J. Long, who is trying to get the snow off the streets and keep an eye on Mike's basketball performances at LaSalle at the same time.

Judge Harold E. Naughton, who predicts that many of his Mount Royal Little Leaguers will haul down big bonuses when they are ripe enough to play in the majors.

Will Keegan, who will be the happiest man in town if he could get Stan Musial, Vernon Law, Whitey Ford, Rocky Colavito, Paul Richards, Danny Murtaugh, Weeb Ewbank, Ted Williams, Roy Face, Dick Groat, Norman Van Brocklin, Johnny Unitas, Bob Cousy, Gene Autry, Bobby Darin, Elvis Presley, The Three Sons, Marshal Dillon and Chester, Jack Paar and Kelso to attend the Dapper Dan dinner on January 29.

Merry Christmas to all our readers.

Gonzalez Picks Italy To Whip Aussie Netmen

Pancho Admits He's Slightly Prejudiced

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Pancho Gonzales, admitting he was "slightly prejudiced," Friday picked Italy to upset Australia in the Davis Cup challenge round matches next week.

"I'm sticking my neck out and predicting Italy will win either 3-2 or 4-1," said the husky California professional who is regarded as the world's greatest tennis player.

"Maybe I am slightly prejudiced," Pancho added.

"But because I have Latin blood in my veins, I would like to see Italy win."

Earlier Friday, Australian officials warned Vanni Canepele, captain of the Italian team, that Orlando Sirola would be watched closely for footfaults while serving in the challenge round matches, Dec. 26-28. Some Aussies feel the towering Italian jumps over the line before he serves.

Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, a pair of former Aussie Davis Cuppers, were recruited to put the Australian team through its final practice sessions this weekend.

Harry Hopman, captain of the Australian squad declined to make an predictions until after the draw is made Christmas Day.

"Rip" Collins Named Coach By Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — A one-time member of the St. Louis Cardinals' old "Gashouse Gang," James (Rip) Collins, Friday joined the Chicago Cubs' intriguing "board of coaches" and thinks Cub owner P. K. Wrigley may have the last laugh after all.

Collins was hired as the fourth man on a projected eight-coach staff which Wrigley expects to help select a new field manager in what is a complete twist in baseball tradition.

The seventh-place Cubs have been without a manager since Oct. 4 when Lou Boudreau quit after being refused a two-year pact.

Collins, 55, joins Harry Craft, Elvin Tappe and Vedie Himsl on Wrigley's coaching board. When completed, the coaching staff, besides recommending a manager, will work interchangeably with the Cubs and their farm clubs.

Olivar And Warmath Lead Balloting For Coach Of Year

Yale's Mentor Holds Edge In Prelim Voting

Elis Leader Has 282 Points; Gopher Tutor Polls 172

HANOVER, N. H. (UPI)—Murray Warmath of Minnesota and Jordan Olivar of Yale are two of the leading contenders for the major college "coach of the year" award of the American Football Coaches Association.

Warmath, who led the Gophers from the Big 10 cellar in 1959 to the national collegiate football championship this season, received 172 points in the preliminary voting. However, it was Olivar, whose Elis swept to a perfect record, who topped all coaches with 282 points.

Minnesota, which finished the regular campaign with an 8-1 record, will meet Washington in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2.

16 Coaches Selected

Sixteen coaches in all were selected in the early balloting since the association also will honor a small college coach for the first time in the 25 years it has made this award. One major college and one minor college coach were chosen from each of the eight association districts.

Four of the other major college nominees along with Warmath will guide their charges in post-season clashes over the holiday period. They are Jim Owen of Washington, William Murray of Duke, Frank Broyles of Arkansas and Roy Graves of Florida.

William Hess of Ohio University and Chalmer (Bump) Elliott of Michigan complete the list of major college coaches in the running.

Tufts Coach Leads

The small college coaches were paced by Harry Arlanson of Tufts in the early balloting with 217 points and the closest competitor to him was Clarence Stasavich of Lenoir Rhyne with 156 points.

Also selected were: John Potsklan of Albright; Alonzo (Jake) Gaither of Florida A&M; F. L. (Frosty) Ferzacca of Northern Michigan; Stanley Sheriff of Iowa State Teachers; Warren Woodson of New Mexico State; and Cecil Coleman of Fresno State.

Internal Revenue Service To Contest Tropical's Action

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 23 (AP)—Things returned to normal at Tropical Park today as the daily double paid "only" $78.30. Track officials thus were spared another conflict with the Internal Revenue Service.

Yesterday's double paid $2,347.20, the first at the meeting to pay $600 or more and thus come under the IRS Directive requesting that winners of $600 for $2 give their names to the cashiers before being paid.

The track announced it would request the names but would not require identification. Twenty-one people held winning tickets and 19 refused to give their names.

The IRS immediately indicated it would contest Tropical Park's action; the track in turn indicated it would continue its policy of asking but not demanding names of winners of $600-plus doubles.

Bobby Walston, the Philadelphia Eagles great end and extra point maker, was the club's 14th choice in the draft of 1951 and now holds three club records.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

IT WAS a big year in sports, and headlining for top attention were the Pirates' first pennant and World Series win in many years, the expansion announcement of the American League in baseball, Floyd Patterson's feat in re-capturing the heavy title and the firing of Casey Stengel.

Many names, old and new, and unusual events crowded the sports calendar and, at least from this corner, the top 10 sports stories of the year were:

1—Pirates' pennant win and Series victory.
2—Expansion of American League in baseball
3—Patterson regains world's heavy title.
4—Casey Stengel firing.
5—New pro football league begins play.
6—Olympics, U. S. failure.
7—Arnold Palmer's Masters' and U.S. Open wins
8—California Poly grid team plane crash.
10—Paul Pender wins middle title over Ray Robinson.

THERE were many other significant sports stories as the '60s unfolded and included in this grouping were the Indianapolis race and tragedy when the stands collapsed, Venetian Way's surprise victory in the Derby, the Senate investigation of boxing, the Philadelphia Eagles' and Green Bay's victories in the N.F.L., Washington's amazing victory in the Rose Bowl over Wisconsin, the retirement of Ted Williams, Ohio State's cage conquests, the many switcheroes in baseball like Colavito for Kuenn and Dykes for Gordon, the Jimmy Piersall story, and such colorful touches as Bill Veeck's scoreboard.

PICKING a professional athlete of the year would be a major task with such as Patterson, Wilt Chamberlain, Palmer, Norm Van Brocklin and Willie Hartack among the many possibles and in the amateur field the Navy's Joe Bellino taking the spotlight along with the Olympic heroes and Jerry Lucas.

For the "MAN OF THE YEAR" in all sports we'd have to go with Casey Stengel, who, we believe, dominated the year from the early spring to his television appearance after his firing.

GOING AGIN THE GOPHERS—Ready to throw 'em against the Gophers in the Rose Bowl game in Pasadena January 2 are (from left) Kermit Jorgensen, Jim Everett, Bob Schloredt, Bob Hivner and Bill Siler. Schloredt, the big quarterbacking star, was injured in mid-season but is expected to play.

National League pennant winners have won 100 or more games 17 times since 1900.

Gene Conley, the pitcher recently peddled to the Red Sox, isn't doing too well in the National Basketball League. In 25 games with the Celtics he is averaging only 5.9 points per game.

Frank Robinson Takes National Slugging Title

Phils Fanned 1.054 Times For New Mark

CINCINNATI (AP)—Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Reds won the 1960 National League slugging championship as 10 of last year's 15 leaders again finished in the select group.

Official miscellaneous averages released Friday showed Robinson with a slugging percentage of .595. He batted .297 and had 31 home runs, 33 doubles and 6 triples.

Aaron Is Second

Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves, who topped the sluggers in 1959, finished second this year with a mark of .566. Robinson was fourth in 1959.

Other repeaters in the top 15 were Ken Boyer, St. Louis; Willie Mays, San Francisco; Ernie Banks, Chicago; Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee; Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco; Vada Pinson, Cincinnati; Bill White, St. Louis and Willie Kirkland, San Francisco.

Players not in the top 15 in 1959 but who made it this year were Joe Adcock, Milwaukee; Dick Stuart, Pittsburgh; Frank Howard, Los Angeles; Roberto Clemente, Pittsburgh, and Pancho Herrera, Philadelphia.

National Leaguers set 8 major league records in 1960 and tied 16 others. They set 24 league marks and tied 4.

Phils Fanned 1,054 Times

Philadelphia batters set a major league strikeout record, however, as they fanned 1,054 times. Los Angeles pitchers also set a major league mark for fanning hitters with 1,122 and the loop's hurlers as a whole set a mark for strikeouts by fanning 6,824 hitters.

On the other side of the pitching picture, the 354 completely pitched games were the fewest in National League history and the 310 wild pitches were another league mark.

Season individual leaders included:

Most walks — Richie Ashburn, Chicago, 116; most strikeouts — Herrera, 136 (National League record); hit by pitched balls most times — Robinson, 9; hit into most double plays — Wally Moon of Los Angeles and Clemente, 21 each; hit into fewest double plays on basis of 477 plate appearances — Don Blasingame and Kirkland of San Francisco, Bill Bruton, then of Milwaukee, and Ashburn, 4 each.

The Sports Patrol

(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)

By STEVE SNIDER

United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sports of all sorts:

The Green Bay Packers, with an edge in the muscle department, figure to edge the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday and win their first National Football League championship since 1944.

The payoff in football generally is on the quarterback and at that position the Eagles are way out front with all-league flinger Norm Van Brocklin . . . but the Eagles may be too thin up front to give the big Dutchman the help he needs and too thin in the line-backing department to halt the Packers' Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor . . . So the guess here is for Green Bay, the "biggest little town in pro football," to rise to the heights again.

In Unique Spots

Two of the American League's newest baseball executives are in unique positions for baseball men this week . . . Gen. Elwood (Pete) Quesada, who organized the syndicate that landed the new Washington franchise, is involved as head of the Federal Aviation Agency in the massive investigations growing out of the airliner collision over New York . . . and Gene Autry, an "angel" of the new Los Angeles Angels, keeps running 'round and 'round on our record player singing his Christmas special, "Rudolph, the Red-nosed Reindeer."

No American tennis player within memory ever turned tournament pro with less impressive credentials than Barry MacKay and Butch Buccholz, who have joined Jack Kramer's barnstormers . . . Neither has won any of the world's four top amateur titles . . . However, if MacKay listens to Kramer's coaching tips he may get his big service straightened out, eliminating all those murderous double faults, and Butch is bound to improve since he's only 20 . . . but that's a tough league to learn in.

Time Flies Department: New York U. and Long Island U., scheduled to play each other in basketball this week, met only once before — in 1938 . . . NYU won 39-37 . . . remember those low-scoring days?

Schmidt Finally Scores

Joe Schmidt, veteran linebacker of the Detroit Lions, got his first touchdown in eight pro football seasons this year . . . He ran back an interception against the Eagles.

Little wonder Philadelphia's Liberty Bowl football game likes Penn State as its host team . . . Penn State alumni and friends bought 28 per cent of the tickets (total of 13,000) for the Dec. 17 game against Oregon.

Butts Ends 22-Year Career As Georgia's Grid Mentor

His Teams Won 140, Lost 86, And Played In Eight Bowl Tilts

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Wally Butts, the pass master, stepped down Friday after 22 years as head football coach at the University of Georgia.

He will continue as the university's athletic director, a post he has held in conjunction with his coaching duties.

Speculation on Butts' successor began immediately. Among those prominently mentioned were two members of his present staff—freshman coach Johnny Griffith and backfield coach Charlie Trippi, one of Georgia's greatest players under Butts.

Butts submitted his resignation to Dr. O. C. Aderhold, president of the university. A member of the university athletic board said screening of applicants for the coaching post would begin soon.

Coaches South Stars

Butts was en route by automobile from Athens to Montgomery, Ala., to help coach the South team for the annual Blue-Gray game in Montgomery on Dec. 31.

In eight previous appearances as a coach of post-season all-star classics, Butts has been on the winning side seven times and a loser once. The only loss was to the professional Chicago Cardinals, led by his pupil Trippi, in 1948. Three other times Butts-coached all-stars upset the reigning pro champions.

Butts' record as head coach at Georgia including bowl games, stands at 140 victories, 86 defeats and nine ties. He won Southeastern Conference championships in 1942, 1946, 1947 and 1959, and took Georgia teams to the Orange Bowl in 1942, 1949 and 1959, to the Rose Bowl in 1943, to the Oil Bowl in 1946, the Sugar Bowl in 1947, the Gator Bowl in 1948 and the Presidential Cup Bowl in 1950.

Hit Peaks In '59

The 1959 season perhaps represented one of the peaks in Butts' coaching career. He won his fourth SEC championship — and the first for Georgia in 12 seasons — was voted conference coach of the year, won the Orange Bowl title over Missouri, and served as president of the American Football Coaches Association.

Wally — his name is James Wallace Butts Jr., but everybody called him Wally — had been head football coach at the same school longer than any other man.

Most college and professional football coaches conceded him top ranking as the master of pass patterns and the developing of passing quarterbacks. He had some great ones — Trippi, Johnny Rauch, Frank Sinkwich, Charlie Britt, Zeke Bratkowski, and lately, Francis Tarkenton.

Holman Wants Small Players Recognized

TOKYO (AP) — Nat Holman, America's basketball ambassador to the Orient, Friday urged two medals for Olympic basketball — one for the small men and another for men over 6 feet tall.

Holman, who is winding up a week of clinics for Japanese high school and college coaches, said a small man's division would boost the game in the Far East and eliminate the embarrassment of countries unable to produce tall players.

The United States has won the gold medal in every Olympic Games since the sport became part of the official program in 1936.

It costs an owner $2,100 to run a colt in the Santa Anita Derby.

Sellers Rides Four Tropical Winners

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 23 (AP)—Jockey John Sellers rode four winers at Tropical Park today giving him nine victories in 30 starts since he resumed action last Saturday following a month's vacation.

Sellers won the fourth race with Kev (7.30), the sixth race on Bespoken ($3.70) and the eighth aboard Tagalog ($6.20) and the ninth with Midontrial ($10.70). He now has finished in the money with 16 of his 30 mounts.

John Galbreath, the horse owner and head of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has named one of his colts Harvey The Great after Harvey Haddix, one of his star pitchers.

Olivar And Warmath Lead Balloting For Coach Of Year

Elis Leader Has 282 Points; Gopher Tutor Polls 172

HANOVER, N. H. (UPI)—Murray Warmath of Minnesota and Jordan Olivar of Yale are two of the leading contenders for the major college "coach of the year" award of the American Football Coaches Association.

Warmath, who led the Gophers from the Big 10 cellar in 1959 to the national collegiate football championship this season, received 172 points in the preliminary voting. However, it was Olivar, whose Elis swept to a perfect record, who topped all coaches with 282 points.

Minnesota, which finished the regular campaign with an 8-1 record, will meet Washington in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2.

16 Coaches Selected

Sixteen coaches in all were selected in the early balloting since the association also will honor a small college coach for the first time in the 25 years it has made this award. One major college and one minor college coach were chosen from each of the eight association districts.

Four of the other major college nominees along with Warmath will guide their charges in post-season clashes over the holiday period. They are Jim Owen of Washington, William Murray of Duke, Frank Broyles of Arkansas and Roy Graves of Florida.

William Hess of Ohio University and Chalmer (Bump) Elliott of Michigan complete the list of major college coaches in the running.

Tufts Coach Leads

The small college coaches were paced by Harry Arlanson of Tufts in the early balloting with 217 points and the closest competitor to him was Clarence Stasavich of Lenoir Rhyne with 156 points.

Also selected were: John Potsklan of Albright; Alonzo (Jake) Gaither of Florida A&M; F. L. (Frosty) Ferzacca of Northern Michigan; Stanley Sheriff of Iowa State Teachers; Warren Woodson of New Mexico State; and Cecil Coleman of Fresno State.

Internal Revenue Service To Contest Tropical's Action

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 23 (AP)—Things returned to normal at Tropical Park today as the daily double paid "only" $78.30. Track officials thus were spared another conflict with the Internal Revenue Service.

Yesterday's double paid $2,347.20, the first at the meeting to pay $600 or more and thus come under the IRS Directive requesting that winners of $600 for $2 give their names to the cashiers before being paid.

The track announced it would request the names but would not require identification. Twenty-one people held winning tickets and 19 refused to give their names.

The IRS immediately indicated it would contest Tropical Park's action; the track in turn indicated it would continue its policy of asking but not demanding names of winners of $600-plus doubles.

Bobby Walston, the Philadelphia Eagles great end and extra point maker, was the club's 14th choice in the draft of 1951 and now holds three club records.

Frank Robinson Takes National Slugging Title

Phils Fanned 1,054 Times For New Mark

CINCINNATI (AP)—Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Reds won the 1960 National League slugging championship as 10 of last year's 15 leaders again finished in the select group.

Official miscellaneous averages released Friday showed Robinson with a slugging percentage of .595. He batted .297 and had 31 home runs, 33 doubles and 6 triples.

Aaron Is Second

Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves, who topped the sluggers in 1959, finished second this year with a mark of .566. Robinson was fourth in 1959.

Other repeaters in the top 15 were Ken Boyer, St. Louis; Willie Mays, San Francisco; Ernie Banks, Chicago; Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee; Orlando Cepeda, San Francisco; Vada Pinson, Cincinnati; Bill White, St. Louis and Willie Kirkland, San Francisco.

Players not in the top 15 in 1959 but who made it this year were Joe Adcock, Milwaukee; Dick Stuart, Pittsburgh; Frank Howard, Los Angeles; Roberto Clemente, Pittsburgh, and Pancho Herrera, Philadelphia.

National Leaguers set 8 major league records in 1960 and tied 16 others. They set 24 league marks and tied 4.

Phils Fanned 1,054 Times

Philadelphia batters set a major league strikeout record, however, as they fanned 1,054 times. Los Angeles pitchers also set a major league mark for fanning hitters with 1,122 and the loop's hurlers as a whole set a mark for strikeouts by fanning 6,824 hitters.

On the other side of the pitching picture, the 354 completely pitched games were the fewest in National League history and the 310 wild pitches were another league mark.

Season individual leaders included:

Most walks — Richie Ashburn, Chicago, 116; most strikeouts — Herrera, 136 (National League record); hit by pitched balls most times — Robinson, 9; hit into most double plays — Wally Moon of Los Angeles and Clemente, 21 each; hit into fewest double plays on basis of 477 plate appearances — Don Blasingame and Kirkland of San Francisco, Bill Bruton, then of Milwaukee, and Ashburn, 4 each.

Butts Ends 22-Year Career As Georgia's Grid Mentor

His Teams Won 140, Lost 86, And Played In Eight Bowl Tilts

He will continue as the university's athletic director, a post he has held in conjunction with his coaching duties.

Speculation on Butts' successor began immediately. Among those prominently mentioned were two members of his present staff—freshman coach Johnny Griffith and backfield coach Charlie Trippi, one of Georgia's greatest players under Butts.

Butts submitted his resignation to Dr. O. C. Aderhold, president of the university. A member of the university athletic board said screening of applicants for the coaching post would begin soon.

Coaches South Stars

Butts was en route by automobile from Athens to Montgomery, Ala., to help coach the South team for the annual Blue-Gray game in Montgomery on Dec. 31.

In eight previous appearances as a coach of post-season all-star classics, Butts has been on the winning side seven times and a loser once. The only loss was to the professional Chicago Cardinals, led by his pupil Trippi, in 1948. Three other times Butts-coached all-stars upset the reigning pro champions.

Butts' record as head coach at Georgia including bowl games, stands at 140 victories, 86 defeats and nine ties. He won Southeastern Conference championships in 1942, 1946, 1947 and 1959, and took Georgia teams to the Orange Bowl in 1942, 1949 and 1959, to the Rose Bowl in 1943, to the Oil Bowl in 1946, the Sugar Bowl in 1947, the Gator Bowl in 1948 and the Presidential Cup Bowl in 1950.

Hit Peaks In '59

The 1959 season perhaps represented one of the peaks in Butts' coaching career. He won his fourth SEC championship — and the first for Georgia in 12 seasons — was voted conference coach of the year, won the Orange Bowl title over Missouri, and served as president of the American Football Coaches Association.

Wally — his name is James Wallace Butts Jr., but everybody called him Wally — had been head football coach at the same school longer than any other man.

Most college and professional football coaches conceded him top ranking as the master of pass patterns and the developing of passing quarterbacks. He had some great ones — Trippi, Johnny Rauch, Frank Sinkwich, Charlie Britt, Zeke Bratkowski, and lately, Francis Tarkenton.

Holman Wants Small Players Recognized

TOKYO (AP) — Nat Holman, America's basketball ambassador to the Orient, Friday urged two medals for Olympic basketball — one for the small men and another for men over 6 feet tall.

Holman, who is winding up a week of clinics for Japanese high school and college coaches, said a small man's division would boost the game in the Far East and eliminate the embarrassment of countries unable to produce tall players.

The United States has won the gold medal in every Olympic Games since the sport became part of the official program in 1936.

It costs an owner $2,100 to run a colt in the Santa Anita Derby.

Sellers Rides Four Tropical Winners

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 23 (AP)—Jockey John Sellers rode four winers at Tropical Park today giving him nine victories in 30 starts since he resumed action last Saturday following a month's vacation.

Sellers won the fourth race with Kev (7.30), the sixth race on Bespoken ($3.70) and the eighth aboard Tagalog ($6.20) and the ninth with Midontrial ($10.70). He now has finished in the money with 16 of his 30 mounts.

John Galbreath, the horse owner and head of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has named one of his colts Harvey The Great after Harvey Haddix, one of his star pitchers.

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

IT WAS a big year in sports, and headlining for top attention were the Pirates' first pennant and World Series win in many years, the expansion announcement of the American League in baseball, Floyd Patterson's feat in re-capturing the heavy title and the firing of Casey Stengel.

Many names, old and new, and unusual events crowded the sports calendar and, at least from this corner, the top 10 sports stories of the year were:

1—Pirates' pennant win and Series victory.
2—Expansion of American League in baseball
3—Patterson regains world's heavy title.
4—Casey Stengel firing.
5—New pro football league begins play.
6—Olympics, U. S. failure.
7—Arnold Palmer's Masters' and U. S. Open win
8—California Poly grid team plane crash.
10—Paul Pender wins middle title over Ray Robinson.

THERE were many other significant sports stories as the '60s unfolded and included in this grouping were the Indianapolis race and tragedy when the stands collapsed, Venetian Way's surprise victory in the Derby, the Senate investigation of boxing, the Philadelphia Eagles' and Green Bay's victories in the N.F.L., Washington's amazing victory in the Rose Bowl over Wisconsin, the retirement of Ted Williams, Ohio State's cage conquests, the many switcheroos in baseball like Colavito for Kuenn and Dykes for Gordon, the Jimmy Piersall story, and such colorful touches as Bill Veeck's scoreboard.

PICKING a professional athlete of the year would be a major task with such as Patterson, Wilt Chamberlain, Palmer, Norm Van Brocklin and Willie Hartack among the many possibles and in the amateur field the Navy's Joe Bellino taking the spotlight along with the Olympic heroes and Jerry Lucas.

For the "MAN OF THE YEAR" in all sports we'd have to go with Casey Stengel, who, we believe, dominated the year from the early spring to his television appearance after his firing.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sports of all sorts:

The Green Bay Packers, with an edge in the muscle department, figure to edge the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday and win their first National Football League championship since 1944.

The payoff in football generally is on the quarterback and at that position the Eagles are way out front with all-league flinger Norm Van Brocklin . . . but the Eagles may be too thin up front to give the big Dutchman the help he needs and too thin in the linebacking department to halt the Packers' Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor . . . So the guess here is for Green Bay, the "biggest little town in pro football," to rise to the heights again.

In Unique Spots

Two of the American League's newest baseball executives are in unique positions for baseball men this week . . . Gen. Elwood (Pete) Quesada, who organized the syndicate that landed the new Washington franchise, is involved as head of the Federal Aviation Agency in the massive investigations growing out of the airliner collision over New York . . . and Gene Autry, an "angel" of the new Los Angeles Angels, keeps running 'round and 'round on our record player singing his Christmas special, "Rudolph, the Red-nosed Reindeer."

No American tennis player within memory ever turned tournament pro with less impressive credentials than Barry MacKay and Butch Buccholz, who have joined Jack Kramer's barnstormers . . . Neither has won any of the world's four top amateur titles . . . However, if MacKay listens to Kramer's coaching tips he may get his big service straightened out, eliminating all those murderous double faults, and Butch is bound to improve since he's only 20 . . . but that's a tough league to learn in.

Time Flies Department: New York U. and Long Island U., scheduled to play each other in basketball this week, met only once before — in 1938 . . . NYU won 39-37 . . . remember those low-scoring days?

Schmidt Finally Scores

Joe Schmidt, veteran linebacker of the Detroit Lions, got his first touchdown in eight pro football seasons this year . . . He ran back an interception against the Eagles.

Little wonder Philadelphia's Liberty Bowl football game likes Penn State as its host team . . . Penn State alumni and friends bought 28 per cent of the tickets (total of 13,000) for the Dec. 17 game against Oregon.

Stocks Contribute Little Towards Christmas Cheer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks contributed little in the way of Christmas cheer Friday as the overall list moved in a sidewise fashion.

Several issues, however, provided lucky holders with plenty to cheer about and the day's activities with some interest.

United Fruit opened shortly before noon as specialists scrambled to match up some 71,000 shares eagerly sought by traders who learned of a Boston newspaper article dealing with the company's freeze-drying method for food preservation. United Fruit, which was reported to be tripling its capacity of this business, rolled up a hefty 3⅞ points by the close. The company however, would not confirm the truth of the report.

Studebaker - Packard increased its market value almost by one-third in the space of a half-hour before settling a bit to 8⅜, up 1¾, at the final bell. The interest apparently stemmed from rumors that A.M. Sonnabend, the Boston financier, would succeed as the new chief executive. Sonnabend is known to favor a more aggressive acquisition program than the hard-pressed auto-maker has pursued to date.

Certain - Teed racked up 2¼ points to 21½ in response to news it expects sharply higher earnings next year from profits of a new subsidiary set up to sell low-cost housing nationally.

Johns-Manville, also a building products maker, rose 3. It was learned that a large overhanging supply of stock sold by an investment firm had been cleared up and the issue responded sharply to new buying.

Corn Products lost 1⅞ and Campbell Soup also dropped a couple. Friday is the last day for investors to take profits in the regular way, brokers noted, and these recently-strong issues were clipped by profit - taking. Continental Insurance fell 1¼.

The Dow-Jones industrial average moved in a narrow range all day, closing off 0.08 to 613.23. The rails rose 0.55 to 129.65 with B&O ahead 1½ following news of the sweetened C&O exchange offer in the form of accrued dividend payments to B&O stockholders. The utility average dipped 0.04 to 98.71.

Volume fell to 3,580,000 shares from 3,820,000 the day before as some traders left the street for an early start on the Yule holidays.

Stocks on the American Exchange were irregular. Rogers Corp. dropped 2½ to 30½, Allegheny Warrants rose ⅝ to 7¼ and Signal Oil "A" gained ½ to 22¾.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybean futures shot as much as 2¼ cents higher Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Other grains held mostly steady in a dull pre-holiday session. Trading ended at noon and will be resumed Tuesday.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up ⅝; corn unchanged to up ⅛; oats unchanged to up ¼; rye unchanged to off ¼ and soybeans off T to up 2¼.

Most soybean contracts recorded new highs for the season in active trading. After an easy opening, scattered buying stemmed the decline. Short covering and stop loss buying followed.

Meal and oil futures also firmed. Cold weather brought demand for feed grains and meal.

March and May wheat also reached new seasonal highs, but the market was generally slow. No export sales were reported.

Corn, oats and rye futures showed little variation from the previous close. Export subsidies were granted on 52,000 bushels on corn and 47,874 bushels of oats.

Outside markets were mostly higher.

Stocks Contribute Little Towards Christmas Cheer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks contributed little in the way of Christmas cheer Friday as the overall list moved in a sidewise fashion.

Several issues, however, provided lucky holders with plenty to cheer about and the day's activities with some interest.

United Fruit opened shortly before noon as specialists scrambled to match up some 71,000 shares eagerly sought by traders who learned of a Boston newspaper article dealing with the company's freeze-drying method for food preservation. United Fruit, which was reported to be tripling its capacity of this business, rolled up a hefty 3⅞ points by the close. The company however, would not confirm the truth of the report.

Studebaker - Packard increased its market value almost by one-third in the space of a half-hour before settling a bit to 8⅜, up 1¾, at the final bell. The interest apparently stemmed from rumors that A.M. Sonnabend, the Boston financier, would succeed as the new chief executive. Sonnabend is known to favor a more aggressive acquisition program than the hard-pressed auto-maker has pursued to date.

Certain - Teed racked up 2¼ points to 21½ in response to news it expects sharply higher earnings next year from profits of a new subsidiary set up to sell low-cost housing nationally.

Johns-Manville, also a building products maker, rose 3. It was learned that a large overhanging supply of stock sold by an investment firm had been cleared up and the issue responded sharply to new buying.

Corn Products lost 1⅞ and Campbell Soup also dropped a couple. Friday is the last day for investors to take profits in the regular way, brokers noted, and these recently-strong issues were clipped by profit - taking. Continental Insurance fell 1¼.

The Dow-Jones industrial average moved in a narrow range all day, closing off 0.08 to 613.23. The rails rose 0.55 to 129.65 with B&O ahead 1½ following news of the sweetened C&O exchange offer in the form of accrued dividend payments to B&O stockholders. The utility average dipped 0.04 to 98.71.

Volume fell to 3,530,000 shares from 3,820,000 the day before as some traders left the street for an early start on the Yule holidays.

Stocks on the American Exchange were irregular. Rogers Corp. dropped 2½ to 30½. Allegheny Warrants rose ⅜ to 7¼ and Signal Oil "A" gained ½ to 22¾.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Soybean futures shot as much as 2¼ cents higher Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Other grains held mostly steady in a dull pre-holiday session. Trading ended at noon and will be resumed Tuesday.

At the final bell, wheat was off ⅛ to up ⅝; corn unchanged to up ⅛; oats unchanged to up ¼; rye unchanged to off ¼ and soybeans off T to up 2¼.

Most soybean contracts recorded new highs for the season in active trading. After an easy opening, scattered buying stemmed the decline. Short covering and stop loss buying followed.

Meal and oil futures also firmed. Cold weather brought demand for feed grains and meal.

March and May wheat also reached new seasonal highs, but the market was generally slow. No export sales were reported.

Corn, oats and rye futures showed little variation from the previous close. Export subsidies were granted on 52,000 bushels on corn and 47,874 bushels of oats.

Outside markets were mostly higher.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—If you are a Hollywood movie star—read no further. With this word of warning lest a surprise be spoiled, I'm treating my other readers to a preview of gifts your favorites will be "ohhing" and "ahhing" over this Christmas.

From Santa Claus in Paris comes the tip that Yves Montand bought a solid gold Oscar sparkling with diamonds made up as a pin for Simone Signoret.

Tony Curtis will be delighted with Janet Leigh's originality in getting him the original Hirshfeld cartoon that appeared in the New Yorker Magazine of himself, Jack Lemmon and Marilyn Monroe in "Some Like It Hot." He's also to receive an electric golf cart.

Shirley MacLaine can hardly wait for her little daughter Sachie to see the complete collection of Shirley Temple dolls she was able to find for her. Hard to realize that Shirley Temple dolls are now 25 years old! But Sachie's two loves are two Shirleys—her mother and the little Shirley she sees on the TV screens.

The most surprised secretary in Hollywood, and I'm sure the world, will be Reva Fredericks, long-time secretary of Dorothy and Robert Mitchum who are rewarding her years of service and friendship with—hold on—a Lincoln convertible!

Audrey Hepburn's big eyes will grow bigger when she unwraps box after box, in fact an entire "collection" of the Italian sweater she loves so much, ranging from sports to formal evening, from Mel Ferrer—who else?

Susan Kohner gifted George Hamilton with a handsome portable refrigerator for his dressing room on the set of "By Love Possessed." (She overheard him trying to borrow one from the studio and got the idea then to give him his own.)

Jacques Bergerac sent an original design all the way to his native Paris to have a diamond and emerald bracelet made up for Mrs. B. — Dorothy Malone, to you. But their best present is the baby.

If you are as big a baseball fan as I am, Don Drysdale is like a member of your own family. I have watched him when I've been rooting for the Dodgers. Sometimes I have been happy with him—and sometimes unhappy.

But we won't have to worry whether he wins or loses when you see him in "The Last Time I Saw Archie." He signed a contract with Jack Webb and will join Jack and Robert Mitchum, a very nice Christmas gift for Don.

If a lady can change her mind, so can a bride, and Nancy Sinatra Sands (Mrs. Tommy), who said at the time of her marriage she wasn't interested in a career, has exercised her womanly prerogative and decided she does!

On Thursday, Nancy met with Jerry Wald at 20th about one of the top roles in "High Heels." Don't say I said so, but I suspect it is the part Carol Lyndley bowed out in favor of matrimony with Mike Salzman.

If you remember Miss Sinatra was very good singing and dancing with her father on one of his autumn TV shows.

A fine bit of holiday cheer for Joseph Kaufman who is recuperating from an illness at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. Joe received a cable from Brussels that his ballet movie starring Cyd Charisse, Maurice Chevalier, Roland Petit and Jeanmaire, "Black Tights," has just won the Grand Prix (European critics' award). What's more the Belgian ambassador will make the presentation to Joe.

A purely personal P.S. to my producer friend, Mr. Kaufman: My dentist, Dr. Max Shaprio, is not a European critic — or any other critic. But he caught the sneak of your movie and reports it is the most exquisite color spectacle, ballet story and generally fine movie he has ever seen. Thought you'd like to know.

Virginia Mayo and Mike O'Shea, who have been sitting and sitting for weeks in Rome waiting for "The Lost Atlantis" to start, are plenty homesick.

Frank Forzage, who was to have directed this movie, couldn't get along with the producers so he bowed out and has left for Switzerland for a white Christmas.

Stewart Granger also has been waiting for two months to start a picture for which he had signed.

UDW Club Elects Officers

The party of the United Democratic Women's Club of Allegany County, sponsored by the State Central Committee and held at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, was attended by approximately 150 members and guests. It was followed by a Dutch treat luncheon held by club members also at the hotel. Mrs. Jim McQuown was hostess. Thomas B. Finan, newly appointed Attorney General of Maryland, extended holiday greetings.

At the luncheon, Mrs. McQuown reported on the convention held recently in Baltimore. Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. McQuown re-elected chairman; Miss Martha Regan, Mt. Savage, first vice chairman; Mrs. Fred Warner Jr., Cresaptown, recording secretary; Mrs. Anne B. Everline, treasurer and Mrs. Edward D. Finan, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Sherman S. Weatherholt was appointed publicity chairman.

The officers will be installed at a dinner January 21 at which time county committees will be named by the president.

Mrs. Lewis Millholland was chairman of the nominating committee and presented the slate.

You 160 youngsters at Brunswick, Maine ... You are going to get a Christmas celebration although your parents and the others at a nearby Navy air station certainly are blue. An officer at your base says "you small children don't understand" that a Neptune bomber crashed off Newfoundland Wednesday and nine crewmen were believed lost. But he says you "would be disappointed if Santa didn't come as planned."

Santa will be there, although as the officer says: "Believe me, it will be one of the toughest missions that Santa has ever had."

Johnny Long of Washington, D.C. ... you are spending Christmas with friends near Philadelphia. That's not like being home, but it will be better for a 4-year-old than being in Children's Hospital, where you had that brain operation Oct. 8.

And Johnny, the doctors say you have made great progress. You play now, Johnny, and you are learning more rapidly. They expect you to go to school eventually.

When you youngsters grow up you must read that editorial written 63 years ago to little Virginia O'Hanlon. Let us repeat part of it now:

"Alas: How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus: It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence .... The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

"No Santa Claus Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

Two Suits Are Settled Out Of Court

Two separate friendly suits involving a local girl who was struck by an auto and a Frostburg boy who fell from a fire escape were settled out of court, according to papers filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Sharon Ann Mihailovich, through her parents Willard J. and Evelyn M. Mihailovich, 315 Independence Street, sued Phillip Hartung of 427 Chestnut Street in the amount of $2,000 for injuries she suffered when struck by his car on June 10, 1960, on Independence Street.

The amount the couple settled for was $702.90 and costs. Hugh A. McMullen represented the plaintiff and William Walsh the defendant.

In the other friendly suit, Gary Lee House, through his mother, Peggy Jean Walker, 49 Main Street, Frostburg, sued Gus N. Harris, of 60 Broadway, who maintains a building with stores and apartments at 45-53 Main Street in that community.

The boy was injured when he fell from a fire escape on the premises on October 7 this year. The suit, in which the plaintiff sought $500 damages, contended the fire escape was in unsafe condition.

on earth to men of good will is still graciously inviting renewed. Peace comes from heaven, if it comes at all; that is very evident. It is not native to us, as we have superabundantly learned. Why not grasp it, then, while there is yet time and opportunity? Why not make sure of the one gift needed by the whole family more than anything else? We can always have it, certainly, on heaven's terms."

Pennsylvania Dutch Have Unusual Yule Beliefs

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—In the still of the last hour of Christmas eve a man and his wife steal out to the stables and go softly inside, alert for the slightest sound.

"Hear anything yet, Martha," the man says after a while.

For the farmers in particular believe that anyone who keeps vigil in barn or stable between 11 and 12 o'clock on Christmas eve will gain the gift of understanding animal talk.

So Martha and Paul, like many before them and many on this same night, are living up to the Pennsylvania Dutch belief that the animal sounds take on special meaning and are comprehensive to human beings, this being a good omen for the new year.

The Pennsylvania Dutch farmer builds many of his Christmas eve hopes around the barns and the farm stock. Great store is set by what is called farmer's dew, a kind of rustic elixir. Its mystic property is thought to be so beneficial that farmers haul hay into barnyards on Christmas eve so that it may be moistened by the dew. If that hay is fed to the stock the next morning, so the story goes, none of the animals will be lost in the new year.

The charm works in other ways as well. For example, many a mother puts pieces of bread outdoors, beyond reach of snooping creatures, and after the dew has moistened the bread it is given to the children. That assures no harm will befall them in the coming year.

Born of superstition, and perpetuated by custom, these folkways are among the quaintest in the country.

Simplicity rules Christmas observances in most Pennsylvania Dutch households. This is especially true in the sects known as plain people.

The Amish, just about the strictest of all, give presents only to the children, and even these are merely token gifts. They do not have Christmas trees nor lights nor decorations. Often they do their shopping after Christmas, when prices are lower. The Mennonites are nearly as austere.

To these people, Christmas is fundamentally a religious holiday, the most sacred in the year, not to be marred by frippery. Their lone indulgence is the baking and distributing of cookies, many kinds and shapes, some remarkable for the intricacies of their design. The Springerle cookie is a real classic specimen. It features figures of animals, shepherds, magi and angels in bas-relief.

What plum pudding is to the British the cookies are to the Pennsylvania Dutch.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—If you are a Hollywood movie star—read no further. With this word of warning lest a surprise be spoiled, I'm treating my other readers to a preview of gifts your favorites will be "ohhing" and "ahhing" over this Christmas.

From Santa Claus in Paris comes the tip that Yves Montand bought a solid gold Oscar sparkling with diamonds made up as a pin for Simone Signoret.

Tony Curtis will be delighted with Janet Leigh's originality in getting him the original Hirshfeld cartoon that appeared in the New Yorker Magazine of himself. Jack Lemmon and Marilyn Monroe in "Some Like It Hot." He's also to receive an electric golf cart.

Shirley MacLaine can hardly wait for her little daughter Sachie to see the complete collection of Shirley Temple dolls she was able to find for her. Hard to realize that Shirley Temple dolls are now 25 years old! But Sachie's two loves are two Shirleys—her mother and the little Shirley she sees on the TV screens.

The most surprised secretary in Hollywood, and I'm sure the world, will be Reva Fredericks, long-time secretary of Dorothy and Robert Mitchum who are rewarding her years of service and friendship with—hold on—a Lincoln convertible!

Mitzi Green and Joe Pevney are giving each other a twin engine motorboat which is already anchored at Newport.

Audrey Hepburn's big eyes will grow bigger when she unwraps box after box, in fact an entire "collection" of the Italian sweater she loves so much, ranging from sports to formal evening, from Mel Ferrer—who else?

Susan Kohner gifted George Hamilton with a handsome portable refrigerator for his dressing room on the set of "By Love Possessed." (She overheard him trying to borrow one from the studio and got the idea then to give him his own.)

Amusing that Kirk Douglas won't even see his present before he returns to Hollywood months hence from Europe. Anne is giving him a new projection room in their home in Beverly.

Jacques Bergerac sent an original design all the way to his native Paris to have a diamond and emerald bracelet made up for Mrs. B. — Dorothy Malone, to you. But their best present is the baby.

If you are as big a baseball fan as I am, Don Drysdale is like a member of your own family. I have watched him when I've been rooting for the Dodgers. Sometimes I have been happy with him—and sometimes unhappy.

But we won't have to worry whether he wins or loses when you see him in "The Last Time I Saw Archie." He signed a contract with Jack Webb and will join Jack and Robert Mitchum, a very nice Christmas gift for Don.

If a lady can change her mind, so can a bride, and Nancy Sinatra Sands (Mrs. Tommy), who said at the time of her marriage she wasn't interested in a career, has exercised her womanly prerogative and decided she does!

On Thursday, Nancy met with Jerry Wald at 20th about one of the top roles in "High Heels." Don't say I said so, but I suspect it is the part Carol Lyndley bowed out in favor of matrimony with Mike Salzman.

If you remember Miss Sinatra was very good singing and dancing with her father on one of his autumn TV shows.

A fine bit of holiday cheer for Joseph Kaufman who is recuperating from an illness at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. Joe received a cable from Brussels that his ballet movie starring Cyd Charisse, Maurice Chevalier, Roland Petit and Jeanmaire, "Black Tights," has just won the Grand Prix (European critics' award). What's more the Belgian ambassador will make the presentation to Joe.

A purely personal P.S. to my producer friend, Mr. Kaufman: My dentist, Dr. Max Shaprio, is not a European critic — or any other critic. But he caught the sneak of your movie and reports it is the most exquisite color spectacle, ballet story and generally fine movie he has ever seen. Thought you'd like to know.

Virginia Mayo and Mike O'Shea, who have been sitting and sitting for weeks in Rome waiting for "The Lost Atlantis" to start, are plenty homesick.

Frank Forzage, who was to have directed this movie, couldn't get along with the producers so he bowed out and has left for Switzerland for a white Christmas.

Stewart Granger also has been waiting for two months to start a picture for which he had signed.

At the luncheon, Mrs. McQuown reported on the convention held recently in Baltimore. Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. McQuown re-elected chairman; Miss Martha Regan, Mt. Savage, first vice chairman; Mrs. Fred Warner Jr., Cresaptown, recording secretary; Mrs. Anne B. Everline, treasurer and Mrs. Edward D. Finan, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Sherman S. Weatherholt was appointed publicity chairman.

The officers will be installed at a dinner January 21 at which time county committees will be named by the president.

Mrs. Lewis Millholland was chairman of the nominating committee and presented the slate.

Why not grasp it, then, while there is yet time and opportunity? Why not make sure of the one gift needed by the whole family more than anything else? We can always have it, certainly, on heaven's terms."

Pennsylvania Dutch Have Unusual Yule Beliefs

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—In the still of the last hour of Christmas eve a man and his wife steal out to the stables and go softly inside, alert for the slightest sound.

"Hear anything yet, Martha," the man says after a while.

"Not yet, Paul," she replied, "but soon. Yes, we shall hear them soon."

They stay until midnight, the dawn of Christmas itself, listening ot the converse of the farm animals who serve them throughout the year.

For the farmers in particular believe that anyone who keeps vigil in barn or stable between 11 and 12 o'clock on Christmas eve will gain the gift of understanding animal talk.

So Martha and Paul, like many before them and many on this same night, are living up to the Pennsylvania Dutch belief that the animal sounds take on special meaning and are comprehensive to human beings, this being a good omen for the new year.

The Pennsylvania Dutch farmer builds many of his Christmas eve hopes around the barns and the farm stock. Great store is set by what is called farmer's dew, a kind of rustic elixir. Its mystic property is thought to be so beneficial that farmers haul hay into barnyards on Christmas eve so that it may be moistened by the dew. If that hay is fed to the stock the next morning, so the story goes, none of the animals will be lost in the new year.

The charm works in other ways as well. For example, many a mother puts pieces of bread outdoors, beyond reach of snooping creatures, and after the dew has moistened the bread it is given to the children. That assures no harm will befall them in the coming year.

Born of superstition, and perpetuated by custom, these folkways are among the quaintest in the country.

Simplicity rules Christmas observances in most Pennsylvania Dutch households. This is especially true in the sects known as plain people.

The Amish, just about the strictest of all, give presents only to the children, and even these are merely token gifts. They do not have Christmas trees nor lights nor decorations. Often they do their shopping after Christmas, when prices are lower. The Mennonites are nearly as austere.

To these people, Christmas is fundamentally a religious holiday, the most sacred in the year, not to be marred by trippery. Their lone indulgence is the baking and distributing of cookies, many kinds and shapes, some remarkable for the intricacies of their design. The Springerle cookie is a real classic specimen. It features figures of animals, shepherds, magi and angels in bas-relief.

What plum pudding is to the British the cookies are to the Pennsylvania Dutch.

Garrett County Seen Getting Morning Snow

Likely To Spread Throughout Area

Snow is expected to move into Garrett County this morning and is likely to spread throughout the rest of Maryland, according to the Weather Bureau, which says the temperature is going to stay down for Christmas.

A record low temperature reading for December was expected in Frostburg last night, where the mercury skidded to an unofficial reading of six below zero by 9 o'clock. Walter Hayes, who checks on the weather in that mountain top community, said the record low of seven below for the month was recorded 35 years ago.

The sheriff's office in Oakland reported that the unofficial temperature in that community was about seven below zero about 9:30 p.m. yesterday. Early yesterday morning the mercury dipped to 23 below zero in Garrett County.

The temperature dropped to four below in Cumberland yesterday morning and by 9:30 o'clock last night the official temperature reading was zero, according to Robert Golden, weather observer, who looked for it to drop a little lower during the night.

State Police said that U. S. Route 40 east and west of Cumberland was passable although chains or snow treads were a must in mountainous areas of Garrett County. They said the roads were in "pretty good shape."

No serious accidents were reported by state police at LaVale barracks, Romney, Bedford or Everett. Route 50 was icy and snowy in spots last night east and west of Romney and was passable.

The temperature was about seven above zero in the Bedford area, according to police there. State Police at Everett said there was a report of 11 below zero at Midway on the turnpike.

The high temperature in Cumberland yesterday was 15 degrees and the low four below zero. Frostburg reported a high reading of 10 above and a low temperature of six below yesterday.

The snow will end by tomorrow except for some flurries in the western mountains. For the next four or five days at least the temperature will be average from six to 12 degres below normal.

For this time of year in Maryland, the normal maximums are 42-45 degrees and the low 24-31. It is at least five degrees colder in the mountains.

Laundromat Waste Under Control Of Pollution Unit

The Water Pollution Control Commission has been given supervision over wastes from laundromats, the Allegany County Health Department announced yesterday.

The action followed a ruling that discharges from automatic laundries is to be classed as industrial waste and is not to be treated with an underground sewage disposal unit.

Under the new procedure, approval will be secured from the commission for the waste treatment system to be used by laundromats while the Health Department will issue permits for the point of discharge.

No permit would be needed in municipalities which have sewage or industrial waste treatment facilities.

County Home Patients Get Christmas Treat

Patients at the Allegany County Home got a very cheery Christmas surprise yesterday when they were visited by Raymond "Ike" Law, sick committee chairman of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Law presented a corsage and candy to the women patients and cigars and cigarets to the men patients in the institution. He visited about 48 patients and wished them all a "Merry Christmas."

The Mailing Rush Is Over

This view of the lobby of the Cumberland Post Office yesterday shows clearly that the mailing rush is over. In the workrooms, crews were busy handling incoming mail and packages. Officials said there is no backlog of mail and that the rush of mail arriving by late trains is being handled as fast as it comes in. Deliveries will be made today as mail arrives, but only special delivery and packages obviously intended as gifts will be delivered on Christmas day.

Climbing Lanes Are Planned On U.S. Route 40

Baltimore Beltway Work Speeded Up

John B. Funk, chairman-director of the State Roads Commission yesterday announced that bids have been asked for construction of climbing lanes on U.S. Route 40 from near Frederick toward Hagerstown.

"The purpose of this project," Mr. Funk said, is to provide an additional lane on hills so slow-moving traffic can move to the right and permit faster-moving vehicles to pass.

"We have noticed that, in the past, slow-moing vehicles, particularly trucks, were pulling over on the shoulders. Of course, shoulders are not designed to carry heavy loads such as that."

The contract will call for climbing lanes for a distance of 6.7 miles proceeding westward toward Hagerstown from a point three miles west of Frederick.

Relief Needed

Eventually, much of the through traffic using U.S. Route 40 at this point will use Interstate 70.

"Under present Federal financing," Mr. Funk said, "the Commission cannot schedule early completion of Interstate 70 and we felt immediate relief should be given to motorists using this particularly dangerous section of Route 40 between Frederick and Hagerstown."

Also advertised yesterday was the final project in its speed-up program for the Baltimore Beltway.

Mr. Funk announced advertisement for the Beltway section from Liberty Road to Park Heights Avenue, a distance of approximately 2½ miles.

Contracts for all other sections of the Beltway already have been advertised.

Purpose in accelerating the advertising schedule, Mr. Funk said, was to clear the way so work would be able to start on all Beltway projects early in 1961.

Concern For Needy Shown As Yule Tree Is Lighted

Cumberland's Christmas display includes two of the best loved symbols of the Yuletide season, the Christmas tree and the Creche.

Thousands of visitors this week have ignored the bitter winter weather and have paused for a few minutes to enjoy the displays placed on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

The spirit of Cumberland's Christmas scene was expressed by Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, as the tree was lighted Sunday. He prayed in the Holy Name of the Child of Bethlehem:

"O God our Father, with joyful hearts we welcome this Holy Season of peace and good will to all men.

'Too long has our hard-headed and hard-hearted selfishness and sophistication ruled us, and we welcome love and good-will among us.

'Let thy spirit, the Spirit of the Christ of Bethlehem, be among us in this community as we light this tree. May this lighting symbolize the lighting of the warmth of love, peace and kindliness, sharing in our hearts.

"Let none in this community which we love be cold, or hungry or alone, or afraid this Christmas season. Let no sick, or aged, or young child be uncared for or feel alone.

"Let thy great Gift of the Christ to us so fill our hearts with joy and gratitude that our whole community may ring with joy and happiness, peace, love and good will.

"In the Holy Name of the Child of Bethlehem we pray."

Smoke Scare Checked

City firemen checked a smoke scare last night at a home on Independence Street. Firemen from Central and East Side stations responded to the call at 9:37 p.m. Box 41 at the intersection of Columbia and Bedford streets was pulled.

Use Or Lose Notices Sent Out By CAB

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board has sent a use-it-or-lose-it notice to the mayors of all cities with local service airlines.

The notice was in the form of a letter from CAB Chairman Whitney Gillilland pointing out that the board has substantially expanded air service, often at considerable expense to the airlines, and to the government in the payment of subsidy.

"Unless adequate use is made of the air service, its cost to the government is not warranted, and continuation of the service would not be in the best interests of the public," Gillilland said.

Gillilland's letter was accompanied by a report on the use of individual airlines for the 12 months ending Sept. 30. The list included:

Pennsylvanian Is Grateful For Cinder Barrels

"We don't have things like this in Pennsylvania," was the comment of a motorist who got stuck in the snow on Washington Street Thursday and procured ashes and salt from a barrel at the foot of the street.

The young Pennsylvanian tried to drive his car away from the curb while headed up the street but the tires kept sliding and he was unable to pull out into the street.

A passing mailman told him the ashes and salt were in the barrel. With the help of another passerby, the motorist got some ashes and put them under the rear wheels.

PE Right Of Way Papers Are Filed

Right of way agreements between the Potomac Edison Company and a number of residents of the Barton and Gilmore area of George's Creek have been filed in the land records office of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Also filed during the past couple days were deeds to property purchased by the State Roads Commission.

The parcels of land included property on U. S. Route 40 from LaVale toward Winchester Road and land on the northwestern side of Central Avenue in Cumberland.

Church Notices Due Wednesday

Church notices for New Year's Eve and New Year's Day must be in the office of the Times-News papers by 11 p. m. Wednesday, December 28, to insure publication on the Saturday church notice page.

Minor Blazes Keep Firemen Busy Here

City firemen were kept busy yesterday as a series of fires, some of them attributed to weather conditions, broke out.

Central Fire Company was called at 7:45 a.m. to Baltimore and Park streets, where a car was on fire. The blaze was out when firemen arrived.

South End Fire Company was called to Lacy's Market, 1120 Virginia Avenue, at 11:04 a.m. after the market filled with smoke.

Firemen said the smoke came from an adjoining building, where a fusee was being used to thaw a frozen water pipe.

The same company was called to the home of Mrs. Augusta Durbin, 65 Offutt Street, at 11:37 a.m. to quench a flue fire. There was some damage to wallpaper and a bedroom.

West Side Fire Company was called to 219 Wallace Street at 5:25 p.m. after grease caught fire in the kitchen of the home.

Smoke ejectors were used to clear the homes of smoke in the last two fires.

Valley View Drive Home To Be Built

Charles W. Garner, Valley View Drive, has been issued a permit to build a brick dwelling at a cost of about $12,000.

James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, who issued the permit, said the 38 by 36 foot dwelling will have a concrete block foundation, composition roof and a cellar. It will be constructed about 20 feet from Orchard Street in Valley View Drive.

Bishop Walsh Gives His Meaning Of Christmas

By P. TERRENCE BURKE
News Staff Writer

Christmas has many meanings to many persons, but perhaps the truest understanding of this joyous holiday has been expressed by a man who has been sentenced to spend, perhaps, the rest of his life in prison.

That man is Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh, of Cumberland, who was sentenced last summer by the Communists to 20 years in prison in Red China.

Message On Peace

The expression of Bishop Walsh's feelings at the time of the celebration of the birth of Christ is taken from an article by Rev. John J. Sullivan of the St. Paul Seminary in St. Paul, Minn. The following is the Bishop's message on peace:

"It is strange that the human family should now possess almost everything under the sun except the one thing it has always particularly longed for. Strange, too, that this should be the very thing which the Saviour of the World put within its anxious reach at infinite cost. Peace on earth is the dream of the race, the true golden fleece, the quest of the ages. Not the partial, fleeting peace we have always had to be content with. No, peace of another deeper sort, one everywhere persisting and pervading; peace in the hearts of men and in the counsels of kings, in the market-place and the forum, in the proudest palace and the humblest home; peace solacing all the cares of life and smiling still in kindly death; the peace of brothers, true and universal; the peace of God . . .

"Think too—and most of all—of the simple goodness of the uncounted, unsung millions. Add all the endless toil and turmoil and trouble of the whole mammoth, age-spanning, world-girdling human family. Add the smiles and tears of a universe. Add starlight and the south wind softly stirring; the beauty of drifting clouds; rambles in autumn woods; home firesides and sleeping cities; the nursery romp, the cheerful board, the love of friends. Add kind hearts and gentle deeds and oceans of prayer.

"Add all of that and ten thousand times more; add anything you like and everything you fancy. Yes, it makes a famous story, to be sure; and that without hinting at half of it. But do not add peace. Do not add what he never had—although it is the one thing which we always wanted more than all the rest.

Never Far Away

"Peace is near us, though; indeed, it never has been far away since it first beckoned to us, smiled upon us, from a little crib in Bethlehem. That was many years ago but now it smiles and beckons again. What is the witchery that steals through the winter air, warms the bleak, open hearts, casts a sudden glow over the harsh realities of life, makes a whole distracted world feel akin for an enchanted space, as the year revolves and brings Bethlehem back to us once more? It is not witchery; it is the nearness of God. It is the goodness and kindness of God Our Saviour appearing; it is his patience and insistence in what concerns the needs of men.

"So it is that the offer of peace

CAB Grants Changes In Service

Take Effect Immediately

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board Friday authorized three local service airlines—Lake Central, North Central and Allegheny—to put into effect immediately new routes and services tentatively granted last August.

The action permitted North Central to start operating between Detroit and Cleveland, Ohio.

It allowed Lake Central to begin service on these new routes:

1. Between Detroit and Pittsburgh by way of Toledo, Sandusky, Cleveland, Akron-Canton and Youngstown, Ohio.
2. Between Erie, Pa., and Pittsburgh.
3. Between Charleston, W. Va., and Pittsburgh by way of Elkins, Clarksburg-Fairmont, Morgantown and Wheeling, W. Va.

On a five-year temporary basis Lake Central also received routes between Columbus and Washington-Baltimore by way of Zanesville, Ohio, Wheeling and Morgantown, W. Va.; between Cincinnati and Washington-Baltimore by way of Portsmouth, Ohio, Parkersburg, W. Va.-Marietta, Ohio, Clarksburg-Fairmont and Elkins, W. Va.; and between Grand Rapids, Mich., and Columbus by way of Jackson, Mich., and Toledo and Mansfield, Ohio.

Restrictions in Allegheny's certificate were modified on the Washington-Baltimore - Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Pittsburgh-Huntington, W. Va., routes to permit one-stop service between Pittsburgh and Washington-Baltimore and Buffalo, and nonstop service between Pittsburgh and Huntington.

Profit Squeeze Is Noted By Rubber Firm

NEW YORK (AP) — General Tire & Rubber Co.'s sales hit a record in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30 but net income did not, the firm's president said Thursday.

In a talk before a group of security analysts, M.G. O'Neil placed sales for the period at $725 million and net income at $21 million, equal to $3.75 a share.

In fiscal 1959 sales totaled $676,942,133 while net income amounted to $26.6 million or $4.84 a share.

"Prime reasons for General's profit squeeze have been the increased costs of raw materials, especially crude rubber, and price weakness in the replacement tire market," O'Neil said.

O'Neil said there was every reason to believe that the current level of tire sales would be sustained in 1961.

Trophy Is Awarded

Weather Fails To Dim Ardor Of Shoppers

Churches Schedule Christmas Services

Bitter cold yesterday failed to dampen the ardor of thousands of residents of the Tri-State area who came here to complete their Christmas shopping.

Downtown streets were jammed with shoppers from late morning, and little let up was noted until after 8 p.m.

The shopping pace is expected to ease off today but stores affiliated with the Retail Merchants Association will be open until 5 p.m. today for last minutes shopping. Some stores will remain open until 6 p.m. as usual.

Monday will be a store holiday here, but stores will be open until 9 p.m. on Tuesday.

Christmas stocking will be bulging at the seams if all the packages seen on the streets here yesterday were intended as gifts.

Many of the gifts arrived by trucks, and appliance installers worked overtime this week to hook up such major purchases as television sets, stoves, dishwashers, washers and dryers before Christmas.

Report Given Soil District Supervisors

He pointed out that 1,680 feet of drain tile were installed on the farm of Charles B. Cole in the Flintstone area. Some 700 feet of the drain tile were installed on Dr. E. L. Everhart's farm on Winchester Road.

A soil survey legend and mapping units in connection with the new technical guide were completed and sent to the state SCS office.

There was a final check made on several ACP jobs done during the month and due to the record snow fall of December 11, all field work was halted.

Mr. Gordon pointed out that during the month he had a night meeting with the Bowman's Addition Boys 4-H Club. He showed a film "Raindrops and Soil Erosion," and talked on land capabilities during a meeting of 18 students of the outdoor education class at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Among the goals for next month are the revision of conservation farm plans in the office and an analysis of the goals and work load.

Heart Disease Top Killer Here

Diseases of the heart accounted for more than half of the deaths reported in Allegany County last month.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, said 35 of the 62 deaths were attributed to heart disease.

Hardening of the arteries caused three deaths and two were caused by cerebral hemorrhages.

Nine deaths were caused by cancer, two by diabetes, one by influenza-pneumonia and one to cirrhosis of the liver.

Other deaths included two suicides, one homicide and six attributed to other causes.

MD Canisters Are Collected

Muscular Dystrophy canisters have been collected in the Cumberland area, according to Fire Chief Virgil Parker, president of the Allegany-Garrett chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

He said the chapter will be able to give a report on the campaign early in January.

"Merry Christmas" Wish Extended In Many Tongues Throughout World

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Tomorrow people of every free nation and secretly in captive nations, each in his own tongue, will express the spirit of goodwill and well wishing toward his fellow men.

"Merry Christmas" will ring out to greet friends and neighbors. The French will say "Joyeux Noel"; the Spanish, "Feliz Navidad"; the Latvians, "Briecigus Sbethus"; the Hungarians, "Boldog Karaczoni Unnepeket"; the Arabs, "Kel Am Waantom Saleemeen."

The Greeks, "Kala Christogene"; the Swedish, "Glad Jul"; the Norwegians, "Glaedelig Jul"; the Dutch, "Drolijk Derstfeest"; the Italians, "Buon Natale"; the Chinese, "Kung Hsi Hsin"; the Czechs, "Vesele Vanoce"; the Germans, "Frohliche Weihnachten"; the Croatians, "Screten Bozic" and the Serbians, "Hristos al rodi."

One legend about the origin of the Christmas tree has it that all the trees of the forest had gifts of nuts and fruits and fine woods for the infant King, but that the tiny fir tree had no worthy gifts, so the angels, in compassion bedecked it with stars and its beauty made the humble evergreen the most splendid gift of all.

An interesting fact is that "Adeste Fideles" — "O Come All Ye Faithful" — is the world's most widely sung and most beloved of all Christmas carols. It has been translated into almost every major language, more than seventy of them.

Yet the origin of the words and music is not known. Some would date the carol back to the 13th century, while others hold that it came to be in the 17th or 18th century.

This favorite is sung with heartfelt fervor in thousands of homes, schools and churches wherever Christmas is celebrated.

Customs vary throughout the world on Christmas Day. Amid the feasting, joy and church-going in Norway, the birds are remembered on the eve of the holiday. Sheaves of grain, especially saved, appear on roof tops of homes and even on the tall buildings in the business district.

To express the warm emotions and bright hopes of Christmas the yule log is lit on the hearth as an old English custom. While it is burning, wrongs are forgiven and no work is permitted in the household.

The stillness of the Swiss mountains in the lonely winter suddenly rings with cheer and laughter, for Christmas is a time of family gatherings, the renewal of old friendships and the remembering of acquaintances and relatives. The Prince of Peace reigns in this peaceful nation.

The yule celebration in Sweden begins on St. Lucia's Day, December 13, when the eldest daughter, in long white robes, becomes a "Lucia bride." Wearing a crown of whortleberries with seven lighted candles she goes forth bearing sweetmeats for the family and friends.

Little known facts reveal that the first Christmas card known to be published was done in London in 1842. It was printed from an etching by W. M. Egley and illustrates Christmas feasting, a Yule party, skating and giving to the poor.

The world's first Christmas Seal was issued in 1904 in Denmark and the first United States Seal was issued three years later.

'Too long has our hard-headed and hard-hearted selfishness and sophistication ruled us, and we welcome love and good-will among us.

'Let thy spirit, the Spirit of the Christ of Bethlehem, be among us in this community as we light this tree. May this lighting symbolize the lighting of the warmth of love, peace and kindliness, sharing in our hearts.

"Let none in this community which we love be cold, or hungry or alone, or afraid this Christmas season. Let no sick, or aged, or young child be uncared for or feel alone.

"Let thy great Gift of the Christ to us so fill our hearts with joy and gratitude that our whole community may ring with joy and happiness, peace, love and good will.

"In the Holy Name of the Child of Bethlehem we pray."

Smoke Scare Checked

City firemen checked a smoke scare last night at a home on Independence Street. Firemen from Central and East Side stations responded to the call at 9:37 p.m. Box 41 at the intersection of Columbia and Bedford streets was pulled.

Use Or Lose Notices Sent Out By CAB

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board has sent a use-it-or-lose-it notice to the mayors of all cities with local service airlines.

The notice was in the form of a letter from CAB Chairman Whitney Gillilland pointing out that the board has substantially expanded air service, often at considerable expense to the airlines, and to the government in the payment of subsidy.

"Unless adequate use is made of the air service, its cost to the government is not warranted, and continuation of the service would not be in the best interests of the public," Gillilland said.

Gillilland's letter was accompanied by a report on the use of individual airlines for the 12 months ending Sept. 30. The list included:

Pennsylvanian Is Grateful For Cinder Barrels

"We don't have things like this in Pennsylvania," was the comment of a motorist who got stuck in the snow on Washington Street Thursday and procured ashes and salt from a barrel at the foot of the street.

The young Pennsylvanian tried to drive his car away from the curb while headed up the street but the tires kept sliding and he was unable to pull out into the street.

A passing mailman told him the ashes and salt were in the barrel. With the help of another passerby, the motorist got some ashes and put them under the rear wheels.

PE Right Of Way Papers Are Filed

Right of way agreements between the Potomac Edison Company and a number of residents of the Barton and Gilmore area of George's Creek have been filed in the land records office of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Also filed during the past couple days were deeds to property purchased by the State Roads Commission.

The parcels of land included property on U. S. Route 40 from LaVale toward Winchester Road and land on the northwestern side of Central Avenue in Cumberland.

Church Notices Due Wednesday

Church notices for New Year's Eve and New Year's Day must be in the office of the Times-News papers by 11 p. m. Wednesday, December 28, to insure publication on the Saturday church notice page.

Minor Blazes Keep Firemen Busy Here

City firemen were kept busy yesterday as a series of fires, some of them attributed to weather conditions, broke out.

Central Fire Company was called at 7:45 a.m. to Baltimore and Park streets, where a car was on fire. The blaze was out when firemen arrived.

South End Fire Company was called to Lacy's Market, 1120 Virginia Avenue, at 11:04 a.m. after the market filled with smoke.

Firemen said the smoke came from an adjoining building, where a fusee was being used to thaw a frozen water pipe.

The same company was called to the home of Mrs. Augusta Durbin, 65 Offutt Street, at 11:37 a.m. to quench a flue fire. There was some damage to wallpaper and a bedroom.

West Side Fire Company was called to 219 Wallace Street at 5:25 p.m. after grease caught fire in the kitchen of the home.

Smoke ejectors were used to clear the homes of smoke in the last two fires.

Valley View Drive Home To Be Built

Charles W. Garner, Valley View Drive, has been issued a permit to build a brick dwelling at a cost of about $12,000.

James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, who issued the permit, said the 38 by 36 foot dwelling will have a concrete block foundation, composition roof and a cellar. It will be constructed about 20 feet from Orchard Street in Valley View Drive.

"Merry Christmas" Wish Extended In Many Tongues Throughout World

By CHARLES H. KELLY
News Staff Writer

Tomorrow people of every free nation and secretly in captive nations, each in his own tongue, will express the spirit of goodwill and well wishing toward his fellow men.

"Merry Christmas" will ring out to greet friends and neighbors. The French will say "Joyeux Noel"; the Spanish, "Feliz Navidad"; the Latvians, "Briecigus Sbethus"; the Hungarians, "Boldog Karaczoni Unnepeket"; the Arabs, "Kel Am Waantom Saleemeen."

The Greeks, "Kala Christogene"; the Swedish, "Glad Jul"; the Norwegians, "Glaedelig Jul"; the Dutch, "Drolijk Derstfeest"; the Italians, "Buon Natale"; the Chinese, "Kung Hsi Hsin"; the Czechs, "Vesel. Vanoce"; the Germans, "Frohliche Weihnachten"; the Croatians, "Screten Bozic" and the Serbians, "Hristos al rodi."

One legend about the origin of the Christmas tree has it that all the trees of the forest had gifts of nuts and fruits and fine woods for the infant King, but that the tiny fir tree had no worthy gifts, so the angels, in compassion bedecked it with stars and its beauty made the humble evergreen the most splendid gift of all.

An interesting fact is that "Adeste Fideles" — "O Come All Ye Faithful" — is the world's most widely sung and most beloved of all Christmas carols. It has been translated into almost every major language, more than seventy of them.

Yet the origin of the words and music is not known. Some would date the carol back to the 13th century, while others hold that it came to be in the 17th or 18th century.

This favorite is sung with heartfelt fervor in thousands of homes, schools and churches wherever Christmas is celebrated.

Customs vary throughout the world on Christmas Day. Amid the feasting, joy and church-going in Norway, the birds are remembered on the eve of the holiday. Sheaves of grain, especially saved, appear on roof tops of homes and even on the tall buildings in the business district.

To express the warm emotions and bright hopes of Christmas the yule log is lit on the hearth as an old English custom. While it is burning, wrongs are forgiven and no work is permitted in the household.

The stillness of the Swiss mountains in the lonely winter suddenly rings with cheer and laughter, for Christmas is a time of family gatherings, the renewal of old friendships and the remembering of acquaintances and relatives. The Prince of Peace reigns in this peaceful nation.

The yule celebration in Sweden begins on St. Lucia's Day, December 13, when the eldest daughter, in long white robes, becomes a "Lucia bride." Wearing a crown of whortleberries with seven lighted candles she goes forth bearing sweetmeats for the family and friends.

Little known facts reveal that the first Christmas card known to be published was done in London in 1842. It was printed from an etching by W. M. Egley and illustrates Christmas feasting, a Yule party, skating and giving to the poor.

The world's first Christmas Seal was issued in 1904 in Denmark and the first United States Seal was issued three years later.

Bishop Walsh Gives His Meaning Of Christmas

By P. TERRENCE BURKE
News Staff Writer

Christmas has many meanings to many persons, but perhaps the truest understanding of this joyous holiday has been expressed by a man who has been sentenced to spend, perhaps, the rest of his life in prison.

That man is Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh, of Cumberland, who was sentenced last summer by the Communists to 20 years in prison in Red China.

Message On Peace

The expression of Bishop Walsh's feelings at the time of the celebration of the birth of Christ is taken from an article by Rev. John J. Sullivan of the St. Paul Seminary in St. Paul, Minn. The following is the Bishop's message on peace:

"It is strange that the human family should now possess almost everything under the sun except the one thing it has always particularly longed for. Strange, too, that this should be the very thing which the Saviour of the World put within its anxious reach at infinite cost. Peace on earth is the dream of the race, the true golden fleece, the quest of the ages. Not the partial, fleeting peace we have always had to be content with. No, peace of another deeper sort, one everywhere persisting and pervading; peace in the hearts of men and in the counsels of kings, in the market-place and the forum, in the proudest palace and the humblest home; peace solacing all the cares of life and smiling still in kindly death; the peace of brothers, true and universal; the peace of God . . .

"Think too—and most of all—of the simple goodness of the uncounted, unsung millions. Add all the endless toil and turmoil and trouble of the whole mammoth, age-spanning, world-girdling human family. Add the smiles and tears of a universe. Add starlight and the south wind softly stirring; the beauty of drifting clouds; rambles in autumn woods; home firesides and sleeping cities; the nursery romp, the cheerful board, the love of friends. Add kind hearts and gentle deeds and oceans of prayer.

"Add all of that and ten thousand times more; add anything you like and everything you fancy. Yes, it makes a famous story, to be sure; and that without hinting at half of it. But do not add peace. Do not add what he never had—although it is the one thing which we always wanted more than all the rest.

Never Far Away

"Peace is near us, though; indeed, it never has been far away since it first beckoned to us, smiled upon us, from a little crib in Bethlehem. That was many years ago but now it smiles and beckons again. What is the witchery that steals through the winter air, warms the bleak, open hearts, casts a sudden glow over the harsh realities of life, makes a whole distracted world feel akin for an enchanted space, as the year revolves and brings Bethlehem back to us once more? It is not witchery; it is the nearness of God. It is the goodness and kindness of God Our Saviour appearing; it is his patience and insistence in what concerns the needs of men.

"So it is that the offer of peace

CAB Grants Changes In Service

Take Effect Immediately

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board Friday authorized three local service airlines—Lake Central, North Central and Allegheny—to put into effect immediately new routes and services tentatively granted last August.

The action permitted North Central to start operating between Detroit and Cleveland, Ohio.

It allowed Lake Central to begin service on these new routes:

1. Between Detroit and Pittsburgh by way of Toledo, Sandusky, Cleveland, Akron-Canton and Youngstown, Ohio.
2. Between Erie, Pa., and Pittsburgh.
3. Between Charleston, W. Va., and Pittsburgh by way of Elkins, Clarksburg-Fairmont, Morgantown and Wheeling, W. Va.

On a five-year temporary basis Lake Central also received routes between Columbus and Washington-Baltimore by way of Zanesville, Ohio, Wheeling and Morgantown, W. Va.; between Cincinnati and Washington-Baltimore by way of Portsmouth, Ohio, Parkersburg, W. Va.-Marietta, Ohio, Clarksburg-Fairmont and Elkins, W. Va.; and between Grand Rapids, Mich., and Columbus by way of Jackson, Mich., and Toledo and Mansfield, Ohio.

Restrictions in Allegheny's certificate were modified on the Washington-Baltimore - Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Pittsburgh-Huntington, W. Va., routes to permit one-stop service between Pittsburgh and Washington-Baltimore and Buffalo, and nonstop service between Pittsburgh and Huntington.

Profit Squeeze Is Noted By Rubber Firm

NEW YORK (AP) — General Tire & Rubber Co.'s sales hit a record in the fiscal year ended Nov. 30 but net income did not, the firm's president said Thursday.

In a talk before a group of security analysts, M.G. O'Neil placed sales for the period at $725 million and net income at $21 million, equal to $3.75 a share.

In fiscal 1959 sales totaled $676,942,133 while net income amounted to $26.6 million or $4.84 a share.

"Prime reasons for General's profit squeeze have been the increased costs of raw materials, especially crude rubber, and price weakness in the replacement tire market," O'Neil said.

O'Neil said there was every reason to believe that the current level of tire sales would be sustained in 1961.

Trophy Is Awarded

Weather Fails To Dim Ardor Of Shoppers

Churches Schedule Christmas Services

Bitter cold yesterday failed to dampen the ardor of thousands of residents of the Tri-State area who came here to complete their Christmas shopping.

Downtown streets were jammed with shoppers from late morning, and little let up was noted until after 8 p.m.

The shopping pace is expected to ease off today but stores affiliated with the Retail Merchants Association will be open until 5 p.m. today for last minutes shopping. Some stores will remain open until 6 p.m. as usual.

Monday will be a store holiday here, but stores will be open until 9 p.m. on Tuesday.

Christmas stocking will be bulging at the seams if all the packages seen on the streets here yesterday were intended as gifts.

Many of the gifts arrived by trucks, and appliance installers worked overtime this week to hook up such major purchases as television sets, stoves, dishwashers, washers and dryers before Christmas.

Report Given Soil District Supervisors

He pointed out that 1,680 feet of drain tile were installed on the farm of Charles B. Cole in the Flintstone area. Some 700 feet of the drain tile were installed on Dr. E. L. Everhart's farm on Winchester Road.

A soil survey legend and mapping units in connection with the new technical guide were completed and sent to the state SCS office.

There was a final check made on several ACP jobs done during the month and due to the record snow fall of December 11, all field work was halted.

Mr. Gordon pointed out that during the month he had a night meeting with the Bowman's Addition Boys 4-H Club. He showed a film "Raindrops and Soil Erosion," and talked on land capabilities during a meeting of 18 students of the outdoor education class at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Among the goals for next month are the revision of conservation farm plans in the office and an analysis of the goals and work load.

Heart Disease Top Killer Here

Diseases of the heart accounted for more than half of the deaths reported in Allegany County last month.

Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer, said 35 of the 62 deaths were attributed to heart disease.

Hardening of the arteries caused three deaths and two were caused by cerebral hemorrhages.

Nine deaths were caused by cancer, two by diabetes, one by influenza-pneumonia and one to cirrhosis of the liver.

Other deaths included two suicides, one homicide and six attributed to other causes.

MD Canisters Are Collected

Muscular Dystrophy canisters have been collected in the Cumberland area, according to Fire Chief Virgil Parker, president of the Allegany-Garrett chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

He said the chapter will be able to give a report on the campaign early in January.

Deaths

Coale, Mrs. William, former resident.

Shirley Temple, Children Appear In Holiday Show

By CHARLES J. LEAVY

The joys of Christmas were first recorded when "at midnight, in Bethlehem in piercing cold," the heavenly angelic host, the cherubim and seraphim, sang the first Christmas song. With the little Babe, the Christ Child as the focal point, all Christmases since have been days of joy for children especially.

On the "Shirley Temple Show" Sunday, Shirley Temple's three children, Linda Susan, Lori and Charles Jr., will join their mother as co-hosts of a gala Christmas musical colorcast of "Babes In Toyland" with Victor Herbert Music and up-dated story.

When we spoke to Shirley Temple about her Christmas show, rich and colorful memories came to mind of other Christmases when as a child during the Christmas holidays year after year, one of the main attractions and a "must" during the week was to see a Shirley Temple picture on Broadway.

Now, after thirty years, it seems very little change has taken place. Thanks to television and the re-runs of the fabulous collection of Shirley Temple movies, the author's children are beginning to associate the secular phase of the Christmas season not only with the Christmas Tree and Santa Claus but with Shirley Temple as well.

"Suffer the little children to come unto me . . . for theirs is the kingodm of heaven."

Less TV Violence

A survey by the Hollywood program director of CBS-TV showed 54 per cent fewer acts of violence in the station's shows in October 1960 compared with October 1959.

Melvyn Douglas, currently starring in "The Best Man" on Broadway, has been signed for the lead in a new half-hour series, "The Hidden Key," based on psychiatric cases.
